Coal Strike Injunction Delayed by Legal Puzzle

Truman Withholds Fact-Finding Board Report as Officials Weigh Procedures

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

President Truman decided yesterday to withhold, at least until Saturday, the coal strike fact-finding report which had been rushed to him.

This meant almost certainly that an expected injunction against the strike leaders would not be issued until then—if then.

The reason for the delay, it was believed, was difficulty over the form and nature of the injunction—the problem that has haunted Federal officials from the time the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley law were invoked.

Some high Federal officials were increasingly of the opinion that the injunction procedure would never work in the present strike.

Consider Appeal to Congress

They were convinced to the point that they were seriously considering appealing to Congress to reenact a law permitting Federal seizure of the mines. It was a power that was invoked during the war when all other efforts to stop a coal strike were ineffective.

If the strike is much longer drawn out, it was thought that Congress would be quick to pass a new Federal seizure law.

But before any such drastic step was taken, it seemed clear, further attempts will be made at behind-the-scenes negotiating, in the hope that miners' leader John L. Lewis and the operators could be brought together and reach a settlement.

Maneuvers Reported Begun

There were reports last night that such back-stage maneuvers had already begun, but these rumors appeared to be groundless. On the other hand, it was virtually certain that they would begin soon, possibly today.

This is the problem that will confront Government officials if they seek an injunction under the new labor act.

The law says a strike of national emergency proportions may be enjoined. But in the coal strike, the question is: whom to enjoin. Lewis claims he did not call the strike, and that, in fact, the walk-out is not a concerted action, but only a demonstration, by individual miners, of their resentment at not getting a pension program.

The next question is: If an injunction were issued against Lewis or his district union officials, would they order the men back to work.

Truman to Face Political Foe Tuck At W. & M. Friday

President Truman will start on a leisurely cruise down the Potomac this evening, and expects to come face to face with his political foe, Governor William M. Tuck of Virginia.

Mr. Truman's destination is historic Williamsburg, Va., first capital of the Old Dominion. In a ceremony tomorrow, he is to receive from William and Mary College the honorary degree of doctor of laws. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, and Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, will be similarly honored.

Governor Tuck, author of the election plan by which Virginia could throw its 11 electoral votes to some Democrat other than Mr. Truman, will make a welcoming speech to the Chief Executive and the visitors from Canada.

Area Hospitals May Unite in Fund Raising

Trustees to Decide In Week Whether To Accept Proposal

Trustees of private hospitals in Greater Washington yesterday agreed to commit their institutions within a week on whether they will join in a United Hospital Fund-raising Campaign.

The campaign, if authorized, would seek to raise an as yet undetermined sum, probably in excess of $750,000, by public solicitation.

The special drive, designed solely to meet hospital deficits encountered in hospital care of part-paying patients, was recommended yesterday by the Hospital Council of the National Capital Area. The Council asked that the "one-time" drive be started "as soon as possible."

Garfield, Columbia Ready

But trustees of Metropolitan Washington hospitals, in joint meeting of the hospital boards of trustees here, balked at immediate answer. They spoke overwhelmingly in favor of the proposed drive for funds, however.

Trustees of but two hospitals, Garfield and Columbia, stated publicly they were authorized to commit their institutions to the fund-raising campaign. Others indicated they lacked only formal action of their boards before joining the plan.

Yesterday's action marked the first concrete move toward the proposed drive for funds which has been under study for the past several months by the Council, an advisory body to coordinate activities of area hospitals.

Plane Explosion Is Reported Near Kingston, N. Y.

New Rent Act For District Reported Out

No Voluntary Boost Clause; National Law Is Effective Today

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Some 13 million families will be affected by the new Federal rent control law which today become effective throughout the country—with the exception of the District of Columbia.

They are families which have not already signed long-term leases containing rent increases up to 15 per cent, or families which live in the 600-odd rental areas still under control.

These controlled areas include all nearby Maryland and Virginia, while the District is governed by a separate rent law which has been extended to April 30.

Yesterday, the Senate District Committee reported out a bill to extend District rent control which did not contain the most controversial section of the Federal law, "voluntary" 15 per cent rent increases.

As reported by the committee, the bill continues local rent controls to March 31, 1949, same date as the new national law; decontrols transient hotel rooms and new construction or converted housing which goes on the market after March 31, 1948, and decontrols nonhousekeeping rooms in private

Army Officer Kills Jap Sweetheart, Self as Wife Sleeps

Tokyo, Japan, March 31 (U.P.).—An American Army officer today shot and killed the Japanese woman "I love so much," then pumped two bullets in his own heart as his American wife and child slept in the next room, the First Cavalry Division reported.

The officer was identified as First Lieut. Benjamin H. Pickler, jr., 30, Buena Vista, Tenn.

Pickler had known the Japanese woman, Miss Chiyoko Urabe, for months and had just hired her to work as a maid in his home, officials said. He left a note which said "I must kill this woman I have learned to love so much."

Flown to Walter Reed

Army and Air Force Provide Infant Rare, Vital Operation

The Army and Air Force yesterday pooled resources to enable Walter Reed Hospital surgeons to operate on a week-old infant whose life was endangered by a rare accident of nature.

The child, Allen Warren Palmer, son of First Lieut. and Mrs. Carl J. Palmer, was born last Wednesday in a civilian hospital at Nevada, Mo.

Two days later it was discovered the infant had been born with a diaphragmatic hernia—a rupture of the main respiratory muscle controlling the expansion and deflation of the lungs.

Called upon for assistance, the Air Force dispatched a special C-47 hospital-evacuation plane, with doctor and nurse, to Nevada. The rescue plane picked up the infant and his parents, and flying through a storm, arrived in Washington early yesterday morning.

The baby was rushed to Walter Reed Hospital, where ranking surgeons examined the child, conferred at length, and performed a two-hour operation in the evening.

"The baby's doing well," commented the doctors.

At the Army Medical Center, officials said hardly more than 50 children have been reported with the diaphragm defect in all medical literature.

The diaphragm is a muscle beneath the lungs which contracts and expands in rhythm, expanding and deflating the lungs. The dia-

Negroes May Ignore Draft, Leaders Say

Congress Warned Of 'Sit-Down' If Military Service Keeps Race Bars

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Two Negro leaders told Congress yesterday they would lead a "civil disobedience drive" against draft registration and military service unless all segregation and race discrimination is wiped out in the armed services.

Warned by Senator Wayne Morse (R., Ore.) that such action would bring treason charges in time of war or national emergency, one of them said he and other Negroes were "willing to pay that price."

A "Gandhi-like" campaign of "non-participation" in defense of the Nation by "millions of Negroes" was forecast by A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters (AFL before the Senate Armed Service Committee.

"From coast to coast in my travels I shall call upon all Negro veterans to join this civil disobedience movement," Randolph added, "and to recruit their younger brothers in an organized refusal to register and be drafted."

Senator Morse questioned Randolph as to whether he would take such a stand if America were attacked or forced into war. The Negro labor leader replied that the Government "now has time to change its program on segregation and discrimination."

But if not changed, he told Morse, he would advocate that Negroes refuse to bear arms in defense of the Nation. And he agreed that this would result in treason indictments and "Nation-wide terrorism against Negroes."

"I'd be willing to face that," Randolph added, "because we are serving a higher law—the law of righteousness."

The committee is considering President Truman's preparedness proposals, which include a stop-gap selective service draft and universal military training.

Grant Reynolds, member of the New York State Commission of Correction and chairman of the "Committee Against Jimcrow in Military Service and Training," said he would back Randolph's civil disobedience campaign.

He delivered a bitter, impassioned attack against "jimcrowism" in the armed forces and said Negroes would not accept a "weasel-worded" amendment against discrimination "such as appeared in the 1940 Selective Service Act."

Reynolds urged a series of amendments to any new bill, giving iron-clad guarantees against such practices.

Truman K. Gibson of Chicago, another Negro leader, indorsed the President's arms program. While calling for an end to segregation in the Army, he declared himself "shocked" at Randolph's proposal. He told the committee

General Fears For Security of Atomic Plant

Gen. Mark Clark said yesterday that the Army would "have great difficulty" defending such key centers as the Hanford, Wash., atomic energy plant and the Boeing aircraft factories at Seattle in case of an attack on the West Coast.

The Sixth Army commander declared that a shortage of troops in Army units on the Pacific Coast would cause the difficulty. The Second Division, only major combat unit in the western States is far below strength, he told reporters.

Clark, whose Army area embraces eight far western states, took part in a press conference with other Army commanders who are here for conferences with Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chief of staff. They are mapping plans for expansion of the Army under the preparedness program pending in Congress.

The war-time commander of American troops in Italy was asked how he felt about the April 18 election in Italy. Clark said he had been in Italy eight months ago, and had seen the results of the "false propaganda" of the Communists.

"It belied what our troops had fought for—to rid that country of

Bogota Conference Warned It's 'No Time For Third Fronts'

Bogota, March 31 (NYHT).—Chile urged the American nations to take their stand with the United States against Russia.

Speaking at the first plenary session of the Ninth International Conference of American States, Dr. Juvenal Hernandez, president of the Chilean delegation, warned that this is the time of decision.

"There is no room for third fronts," he said, in asking the American republics to renounce neutrality in the cold war.

Economic Aid Asked

He asked for economic aid for Latin American, declaring: "War and the return to peace has imposed hard sacrifices and difficult economic readjustments. If we do not obtain an efficient form of inter-American economic cooperation to solve inflation and unemployment, there will arise a period of internationalism in which the bankruptcy of other nations will be determined by efforts to protect the economy of each individual country."

He warned, however, the Americas should not form an economic bloc to preserve regional self-sufficiency.

Earlier, Jaime Torres Bodet, Foreign Minister of Mexico, told delegations to "quit singing the praises of their unity" and adopt an organic pact with real meaning.

"What my country wants is a living, effective, organic Pan Americanism—a Pan Americanism that does not forget America dur-

U. S. Rejects Soviet Zone Travel Curb

British Also Defy Order to Allow Inspection of All Vehicles, Freight

Berlin (Thursday), April 1 (AP).—The United States rejected last night a Russian order which would impose controls over road and rail communications of the three western occupying powers in the Soviet zone of Germany.

The United States military government in Germany issued a brief, one-sentence statement early today which said the United States Army would not allow Russians to enter American trains.

The statement:

"We have advised the Russians that we are prepared to have our train commanders give proper documentation, but that we cannot allow entries into our trains."

British Rejection

An official American spokesman said the statement meant the United States Army would refuse to allow Soviet inspection of either American personnel or freight on Army trains.

"Documentation" was believed to mean the train commanders would furnish the Russians with written lists of what each train passing through the Russian zone was carrying.

The British rejected the Russian order last night and the French said they were studying the matter.

In effect, the American position was that transportation between Berlin and the United States occupation zone, necessarily through the Russian zone, would be on the same basis as it was before the Russians issued the order yesterday. United States train commanders always have furnished documentation.

Trains Delayed

The American answer gave the Russians an opportunity to negotiate an agreement with the western powers over the order.

By American order, trains were held up tonight at Helmstedt, in the British zone at the Russian zone border, to allow time for Clay's note to be delivered to Russian headquarters in Berlin.

A streamliner scheduled to take Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, American deputy military governor from Frankfurt to Berlin, was held in the main station at Frankfurt.

The sudden Soviet order imposing the transportation controls precipitated a four-power crisis. Before the United States note was delivered, Clay said the order violated four-power agreements.

The first instance of the Soviet clampdown came when several

Navy to Deliver Planes to Turkey By 3 Carriers

The Navy announced last night that three escort carriers would be used to deliver planes to Turkey over the next few months.

The planes are being sent to Turkey as part of the Turkish military aid program.

The number and types of planes to be delivered could not be learned. The 12,000-ton carriers normally handle about 30 planes each. They can transport more than 100 each in ferry service.

Two of the carriers will leave from the east coast and one from San Francisco. The destination was announced as Yesilkoy, an outer port of Istanbul.

Reds Threaten 'Progressive' Italian Strike

Rome, March 31 (AP).—The Communists threatened tonight to order a nation-wide strike which would paralyze Italy progressively for a 10-day period before the April 18 national elections.

Giuseppe di Vittorio, Communist president of Italy's 6 million-member General Labor Confederation (CGIL), announced in Palermo, Sicily, the organization's executive committee would call the strike if police failed to find a missing Sicilian labor leader by April 18.

If the strike is called April 8, Di Vittorio said, it will be one hour long that day and will be increased by one hour each day until the disappearance is solved. Thus, workers would be on strike for 10 hours the day before the election.

The missing labor leader, Placido Rizzotto, disappeared about 20 days ago at Corleone, Sicily. Leftists charged he was killed or kidnaped by rightists.

[The United Press said Communists and left wing Socialists demanded the Government stop the flood of letters from Italo-Americans urging relatives and friends to vote against the Communists in the election.

A-Bomb Stock 'Adequate,' Say Congressmen

Recent Testimony Of Lilienthal Cited As Basis of Opinion

The United States has "an adequate supply" of atom bombs and is steadily making more, Congress members said yesterday.

They reported that this information came from David E. Lilienthal, Atomic Energy Commission chairman, during secret testimony before the House Appropriations Committee on February 28.

On the strength of Lilienthal's statements, the committee on Tuesday recommended an additional 150 million dollars for the commission's work, the full amount asked.

While committee members were reluctant to discuss Lilienthal's testimony, they agreed privately with the statement of Representative Keefe (R., Wis.) that "we have an adequate supply of bombs already manufactured."

They said they were not given any exact numbers and declined to say where the bomb are stored and how big they are.

Use of Bomb to Shorten War

"The conclusion I drew from the testimony," Keefe said in an interview, "is that we are proceeding rapidly with development of the entire atomic energy program. I am satisfied that the atomic program is proceeding in the interest of the protection of America."

Meanwhile, the chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said yesterday he believes that if war comes again this country should use the bomb with the aim of shortening the conflict and saving lives.

Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) put it this way to a reporter:

"I do not think the bomb should be used indiscriminately. But I have no qualms about our using it strategically, where it will be an efficient means of ending the war."

As for whether the United States might refrain from using the bomb in fear of retaliation by an enemy who might possess it, Hickenlooper said:

"Evidence suggests that we and our enemies in the recent world

Efforts to Slash Funds Defeated; Measure Goes To Conference

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

By an overwhelming vote of 329 to 74, the House passed the $6,205,000,000 foreign aid bill last night and sped it to conference with the Senate starting today.

The vote was even more one-sided than the Senate's roll-call of 69 to 17 for the bill on March 13. The huge bipartisan majority was made up of 171 Republicans and 158 Democrats, the opposition consisting of 61 Republicans, 11 Democrats and Henry Wallace two American Labor Party followers.

As the roll-call went on in a seething and excited House, shouts of "aye" came from one Republican after another who had seldom, if ever, voted for any international legislation.

Passage Within Deadline

Jenkins of Ohio, Gearhart of California, St. George of New York, Gavin of Pennsylvania, were only a few of those who reversed their previous records and voted for the most far-reaching foreign aid program ever undertaken by the United States.

The vote came within the April 1 deadline hopefully set by the Administration weeks ago. It thus vindicated the belief of the Republican House leaders that the quickest way to get action was to put all foreign aid measures into a "single-package" bill.

As the complex 111-page bill went to conference, it authorized:

Five billion three hundred million dollars for the first 12 months of the 4¼-year European Recovery Program;

Four hundred twenty million dollars in economic aid to China;

One hundred fifty million dollars in military aid to China;

Two hundred seventy-five million dollars in military aid to Greece and Turkey; and Sixty million dollars for the Children's Fund of the United Nations.

Attempted Cuts Defeated

Every attempt to cut or cripple the bill, or to separate it into its various parts, was defeated in the final day's debate.

A determined effort to cut the European portion of the bill by $1,300,000,000 was beaten early in the 8½-hour session by 112 to 61, after former Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.) had compared it to the prewar efforts to save money on planes for national defense.

Another effort, which caused more trouble to the bill's supporters, sought to strike out any reference to a 4¼-year European Recovery Program. The House bill, unlike the Senate version, called for year-to-year authorization as well as appropriations, but it also said the funds should be available "from time to time through June 30, 1952."

Russian Demands On Austria Cut By One Fourth

London, March 31 (U.P.).—The Soviet Union today reduced its claim against Austria for war reparations by one fourth and extended the time of payment from two to six years.

The offer came as deputy foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia resumed their conference on the Austrian treaty, which has dragged on here for more than a month.

Nikolai P. Koktomov suggested the 200 million dollars Russia originally demanded be cut to 150 million, payable in lump sums of 25 million a year.

The western deputies received the proposal with cautious optimism.

"We have beat them down from a completely impossible demand to something that certainly can be considered in the light of Austria's capacity to pay," an American source said.

"However," he warned, "if Russia continues to insist on her claim to two thirds of Austria's oil and river shipping, this concession is a little more unreal than it appears."

(At Vienna, Vice Chancellor Adolf Schaerf said "the chances for a timely conclusion of the Austrian treaty have brightened.")

U. S. Judge Orders Va. County To Equalize School Facilities

Richmond, Va., March 31 (U.P.).—Surry County today faced an overhaul of its school system after Federal District Judge Sterling Hutcheson ordered establishment of equal facilities for Negro and white students.

In a decision unprecedented in Virginia, Hutcheson ruled on the first of four antidiscrimination suits before the court. Others involve King George, Chesterfield and Gloucester Counties.

Sterling directed the Surry County school board to begin immediately to equalize school facilities for white and Negro students and level salaries of white and Negro teachers.

The court injunction gave the board until September 15 to report on its progress. It required that at least half the difference between salaries paid white and Negro teachers be eliminated by the opening of the fall term and completely dropped by a year later.

The case grew from a complaint filed last July by Richard Kelly, a Negro pupil, through his grandfather, James Bage. The complaint listed five instances of discrimination.

The student charged that the county provides no Negro high school as for whites, that no consolidated schools are furnished Negroes, that bus transportation is inadequate, teacher pay scales are unequal and courses in commerce, science, trades and industries are not offered Negro pupils.

Salary Differential About $300 in Surry

Surry County School Superintendent M. B. Joyner told The Washington Post yesterday that there is "a differential of about $300 a year in salaries" favoring white teachers over Negro instructors. Salaries for white teachers range from $1620 to $1800 a year, he said.

Joyner declared that while there is a high school for Negro pupils it has not been accredited by the State Board of Education because it lacks facilities such a library and a laboratory.

Three grade schools, in addition to a high school, house white students, he said, while 13 Negro grade schools, most of them one and two-room structures, are scattered throughout the county, he said. Joyner declared the Negro population outnumbers the white population in that section.

Cabinet in Treaty Huddle

Russia Reported Proposing To Start 'Defenses' in Finland

Helsinki, Finland, March 31 (U.P.).—Usually reliable sources said tonight that Russia has proposed she start technical military defense preparations in Finland under a mutual defense treaty.

The preparations would be authorized in Article II of a draft treaty, prepared by Russia, which was brought here today by air courier from Moscow. The extent of the preparations, informants said, would be determined by separate negotiations after a treaty had been signed.

As soon as the Russian draft, which was in final form and ready for signature by the Finnish delegation in Moscow, arrived here a series of official and party meetings started. The atmosphere was pessimistic.

President Juho K. Paasikivi summoned the Cabinet and the chairmen of the six political parties to hear the text read.

The party groups met separately tonight and forwarded recommendations to Paasikivi. Well informed quarters said all parties but the Communists opposed any military preparations by Russia in this country in peacetime.

According to information here, the Russians asked that Paasikivi consult the political parties tonight and Premier Mauno Pekkala, the delegation chairman asked for instructions by noon tomorrow.

[Rightists in Parliament and the Finnish press voiced the suspicion Finland's Communist Interior Minister has infiltrated the country's police force with Communists.

Allies Tighten Strike Ban For Japanese

Tokyo, March 31 (U.P.).—Allied headquarters issued its most sweeping ban on strikes today, but about 100,000 communications workers in eight prefectures remained idle in a demand for higher pay.

The orders, issued by Maj. Gen. William Marquat, chief of the economic and scientific section, outlawed "systematic" regional strikes, by telephone, telegraph and postal employes. After headquarters banned Nation-wide strikes, workers in one section would strike for 24 hours, then return to work while workers in another section walked out.

James Killen, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's labor chief, announced a compromise between the government and its employes had been proposed.

Nationalists Abandoning 3 China Ports

Nanking, March 31 (AP).—The high command announced today it is abandoning three North China ports with a new strategy of defending only important areas.

The ports are Langkow, Penglai and Weihaiwei, all on Shantung Peninsula. The government will try to hold Chefoo, the major port there.

(United States Army officers long have advocated concentrating China's forces. They propose that the government give up Manchuria temporarily and throw everything into a cleanup in North China.)

(Government headquarters in Peiping said Nationalist troops were sweeping the Communists from the flanks of the railway leading to inner Mongolia.

(Shanghai newspapers said Communists had attacked Fowyang, about 180 miles northwest of Nanking.)

Streams Stocked

Waynesboro, Va., March 31.—Fish stocking in the George Washington National Forest will be completed by the end of this week, D. E. Fauber, Federal game warden, has announced. In the Big Levels Game Refuge the Mills Creek, Kennedy Creek and Johns Run streams have been stocked.

Rebels Bomb Costa Rican 'White House'

San José, Costa Rica, March 31 (U.P.).—A low-flying rebel transport plane bombed and damaged the presidential palace today in the first raid on the capital since rightists revolted 19 days ago.

The Taca DC-3 transport swooped in at 400 feet, dropped one bomb and a shower of mimeographed leaflets and then escaped under ineffective light machine-gun fire.

Last night armed security police forcibly entered the home of an American Embassy official but quick personal intervention by U. S. Ambassador Nathaniel P. Davis stopped the search and brought an apology from Government.

There was a noticeable lull on the southern fighting fronts—what some sources here called an "undeclared truce."

Negroes May Ignore Draft

that it was wrong to "bargain with patriotism."

Says They Would Fight

Another witness, Elwood S. McKenny, Negro member of the Massachusetts Fair Employment Commission, said Negroes would "fight if called upon to protect our way of life." A minority, however, would be "swayed to extreme lengths by Communist propaganda accenting the inequalities" in the Army.

Opposing UMT, he proposed creation of unsegregated military units on a volunteer basis to determine how they would work.

Senator Morse, a supporter of civil rights legislation, urged Randolph and his supporters to reconsider their stand. In time of war, he warned, it would mean "aiding and abetting the enemy."

"In all sincerity, I don't think your proposal is the way," Morse added.

Senator Raymond Baldwin (R., Conn.) said he agreed with Morse's view. A civil disobedience move, he told the witness, "will do more harm in the long run to your cause—which is our cause."

Sees 'Domestic Steps' Needed

But Randolph declared that Negroes "never will" win civil rights unless drastic steps are taken. He added that "we've got to face this thing sooner or later and we might as well face it right now."

The committee also heard Jesse O. Dedman, jr., veterans' secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, oppose passage of UMT and the draft. He attacked segregation policies ni the Army.

During the afternoon session, several other witnesses testified on the military manpower measures. Dr. Daniel Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, backed UMT. He declared that if the recommendations of the President's Advisory Board are adopted, universal military training will provide "a better moral and social environment for young men than the average community."

Dr. Guy E. Snavely, former president of Birmingham Southern University, approved of selective service, but opposed UMT. He said he spoke for the majority of 633 colleges in the Association of American Colleges.

Mrs. Robert Rea, representing the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, declared UMT and the draft "would be a step in the direction of war."

3d Infantry to Be Reactivated for Army Day

VETERANS WILL MAKE PRESENTATION—Six Army veterans of World War II hold the "Flag of Liberation" which they will present to Congress Tuesday, April 6, Army Day. The ceremony in Capitol Plaza will follow the reactivation of the famed Third Infantry, the Army's oldest regiment. The soldiers are 1st/Sergt. George W. Waple, Fairfax, Va.; M/Sergt. Robert H. Carroll, Norfolk, both on duty in Washington when the Japs hit Pearl Harbor; S/Sergt. Henry S. Pickerel, Hurt, Va., on duty at the time of Pearl Harbor; Pfc. Joe E. Resti, of Westbury, Long Island, who was present when the flag was raised over Rome, July 4, 1944, first Axis capital to fall; Corpl. Roy Allen, Norwood, N. C., who saw the historic standard hoisted over Berlin, July 20, 1945; and Corpl. Jesse Taylor, Goldsboro, N. C., who attended the flag-raising in Tokyo September 8, 1945.

The Third Infantry, oldest United States Army regiment, will be reactivated as Washington's new "palace guard" to highlight Army Day observances here Tuesday.

Marching units, representing all military services, and more than 50 civilian organization will march with 20 bands in the Army Day parade.

The Military Order of the World Wars, sponsor of the observance since 1938, yesterday began erection of reviewing stands on Constitution ave., where the hour-long procession will be reviewed by President Truman at 2 p. m.

Tickets Go on Sale

Tickets to the reviewing stands, on the 1500 and 1600 blocks of Constitution ave., are now on sale at the order's headquarters, 1700 I st. nw., and the Fairway, 1328 G st. nw.

Grand marshal for the parade will be Maj. Gen. Hobart Gay, commanding officer of the Military District of Washington. The order will hold its annual banquet at the Mayflower Hotel at 7:30 p. m., with Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall as principal speaker.

Reactivation of the historic Third Regiment calls for some 1200 hand-picked men, preferably combat veterans. Duties will range from ceremonial and military police details to preparation for possible "civil disturbance."

Candidates must be at least 5 feet, 9 inches tall, weigh between 145 and 200 pounds and have an Army general classification test score of at least 90.

Bestowed By Scott

The Third Infantry Regiment's first rosters in 1815 carried the names of Valley Forge veterans. Its "Old Guard" designation was bestowed by Gen. Winfried Scott 100 years ago.

A Third Regiment has seen action in Indian fighting, the War of 1812, Civil and Spanish-American War, Philippine insurrection and World War II.

Under the reactivation, the 703d Military Police Battalion and the Ceremonial Detachment of Fort Myer will become respectively the First Battalion and Ceremonial Company, 3d Infantry. The 712th M. P. Battalion of Fort McNair will become 2d Battalion, 3d Infantry.

Soviet Moves Held Aimed to Curb Own People

Boston, March 31 (AP).—Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan today accused the Russian leadership of trying to stamp out freedom everywhere to keep their own people in line.

"Not for long can they satisfy their own people with communism while life remains worth the living under any other system," Sullivan told a Boston Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

Asserting every move the United States was making is "devised to preserve peace—not to prepare for war"—the Navy Secreary said:

"America has no military or imperial objectives which threaten the Russian people. The Russians have nothing we want or ever will want. Their greatest exportable product today is chaos.

"Their only reason for saying that communism and democracy cannot live together is because they know that tyranny, however buttressed by censorship in the cruelest police state, cannot survive so long as freedom exists anywhere in the world."

He said that "for communism to flourish, they are convinced that freedom must perish."

Calling for universal military training in this country, Sullivan said:

"The increases sought by the services are in line with our determination to show the world—friend and foe alike—our effective strength before there is trouble, and, hence, to deter any aggressor from any overt act anywhere."

Truman Asks TVA Production Be Expanded for 'Emergency'

Orders Chairman To Prepare and Submit Program

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday directed the Tennessee Valley Authority to prepare and submit a program for expanding its capacity to produce electric power in an emergency.

His order was delivered to TVA Chairman Gordon R. Clapp at a White House conference which also included Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers, and Arthur M. Hill, chairman of the National Security Resources Board.

After the conference, Nourse said the President was "deeply concerned" that an adequate national power supply be available for whatever transpires in the acute world situation. Clapp said Mr. Truman was interested in the outlook for power production above normal "for the emergency program."

Other signs of that the Nation was rolling up its sleeves included these:

1. The Air Force announced it had withdrawn five major aircraft plants from surplus and would hold them on a standby basis.

2. The War Assets Administration announced the sale of two surplus turbine manufacturing plants to the Navy, and indicated it was expecting orders to withdraw additional ordnance and powder plants from the surplus market. Ten such plants were withdrawn March 20.

3. Representatives of chemical and metals industries urged before a House subcommittee that a stockpile of chromite be started in the United States. Chromite is used in making high-tensile steel.

In discussing his conference with President Truman, Clapp said he was instructed to get in touch with officials of the military establishment and compile a list of power needs for aircraft, chemicals and other military production. He said the Tennessee Valley was using more power now than at the height of the war, because of air cooling, quick freezing plants and home heating.

The area served by TVA normally consumes tremendous quantities of electric energy, with its aggregation of aluminum, chemical and other power-consuming industries as well as the great atomic energy center at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The Air Force said the five plants it was withdrawing from surplus would not be tooled for immediate production, though one would remodel B-29 bombers on a part-time basis.

The plants are Boeing at Wichita; aircraft assembly plant at Cleveland; Curtiss Wright at Lockland, Ohio; aircraft assembly plant No. 3 at Tulsa, Okla.; North American at Kansas City. The Kansas City plant will continue under a seven-year lease to General Motors.

The turbine plants sold by WAA to the Navy are at Lester, Pa., and West Lynn, Mass. During the war the Lester plant was operated by Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. and that at West Lynn by General Electric.

dictatorship and to make it a free place to live.

"If the Communists win the elections, 25,000 American boys will have died in vain."

Clark said there are still security guards at the Hanford, Boeing and other key plants, but no troops.

Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander of Army field forces, said the Army might have to call up reserve officers later on to help carry out the expansion plans, although sufficient volunteers will be available at least for awhile.

Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, commander of the military district of Washington, who took part in the high command conference, said that legislation or the declaration of a national emergency by the President would be necessary before anyone could be called without his consent. Officials preparing new draft legislation said there is no thought of asking such authority in that bill.

Other defense developments yesterday included:

1. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (R., Mass.) asked the Senate Armed Services Committee to include in new draft legislation authority to enlist 50,000 young Europeans in the American Army. Such volunteers would cut down the number of men who would have to be drafted, he said.

2. President Truman spent more than an hour with Air Force leaders, going over the performance figures of latest type warplanes. He was given data on 10 new aircraft.

3. General Devers said the Army will have to open several camps if the expansion program is approved. He said that it would mean a heavy increase in the armed services demands for gasoline. Additional doctors and dentists would be required in the ratio of 5.5 of the former and two of the latter for each 1000 soldiers.

war held off from using poison gas, not in fear of retaliation but because it was not considered a decisive weapon.

Bomb Is "Decisive"

"But the atomic bomb is a decisive weapon, although just how decisive may be arguable."

Actually, unless the system has been changed, no completed bombs are on hand. Rather, for safety and security reasons, the bomb parts are stored separately—to be finally assembled only in the event they are to be used.

These parts are (A) the fissionable metallic components which, when brought together, produce the atomic explosion, (B) the trigger mechanism for bringing them together and (C) the casing for the bombs.

How long it takes to assemble the parts is a closely guarded secret.

House Passes Aid Measure

bate was needed to beat down this amendment, proposed by Representative Lawrence Smith (R., Wis.) and supported by Chairman John Taber (R., N.Y.) of the Appropriations Committee.

The threat was taken so seriously by the bill's sponsors that Representative John M. Vorys (R., Ohio), the floor manager, strode to the well of the House for a dramatic appeal to his Republican colleagues.

Close Vote Follows

"Brethren, this is it!" he declared. "For years we have thundered against the piecemeal policy of the New Deal, yet now we find Republicans who would go back to the New Deal's methods of emergency stopgap legislation."

Some Republicans, he said, were "suffering from congressional foot-and-mouth disease—dragging their feet and foaming at the mouth at any of these proposals for dealing with the gigantic international problems that face us."

"Let's not go back to organized planlessness," he pleaded. "I know we're not used to taking a long look ahead all over the world—but we'd better start now."

The House took his advice by the close vote of 127 to 117.

The biggest surprise of the day, however, was the whooping rejection of a proposal to set up a "watchdog committee" of both Houses to keep an eye on the management of foreign aid.

Senate Approved Proposal

The Senatehad put such a provision into its bill, chiefly in the belief that it would satisfy unfriend House Republicans. The House Foreign Affairs Committee left the idea out of its own bill, and let it be known that it would regard such a joint committee as an invasion of its own prerogatives.

Yesterday the proposal popped up again on the House floor from Representative Abe Goff (R., Idaho), and was pounced on at once by Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.) of the Foreign Affairs Committee. Eaton announced he would fight it with all his strength.

"We don't need a watchdog," he said, recalling that the Reorganization Act required each standing committee to follow up the handling of its own legislation.

"I don't like the name 'watchdog' to start with," Eaton went on. "It reflects on our integrity and intelligence, and it also reflects on the Appropriations Committee."

Chairman Taber of the Appropriations Committee promptly took the cue. He announced that he didn't think much of joint committees anyway, and didn't want any newly-created comittee "butting in" on the foreign aid program.

"When this thing comes to me," he announced (and it sounded ominous to many supporters of the program) "I intend to go into the needs of every nation before I recommend funds to the House. I intend to go into the capacity of the United States to provide for other countries."

And he added that by May 10, the earliest date by which he thought an appropriation bill could be ready, a much clearer picture of the American spring wheat crop and other factors would be available.

So the proposal for a "watchdog committee" was roared down, and the way was opened for Senate leaders to get rid of a proposal which they never seriously wanted any way.

May Save German Plants

Only one change of any importance was approved during the final day's debate. This was a proposal intended to stop the dismantling of German plants for reparations. Under its terms, the Administrator would ask the Secretary of State "to obtain the agreement" of the countries concerned, so as to keep in Germany the capital equipment scheduled for removal.

Otherwise most of the day's changes were little more than tinkering with the language of the bill.

At the very end of the debate Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas called for a standing vote on Tuesday's decision to make Spain eligible for American aid under ERP. If her intent was to get Spain out of the bill, it failed dismally. The standing vote was 188 to 104 for keeping Spain in, authough this time, unlike Tuesday, many prominent Republicans oppose dit. It was taken for granted last night that the mention of Spain would be stricken from the bill in conference.

Democrats' Objections Fail

House Democrats made a forlorn attempt late in the day to separate the military aid portions from the House bill. Some of them were bitter at what Representative Mike Mansfield of Montana pictured as streamroller tactics by the Republicans on the Foreign Affairs Committee.

A Democratic effort to kill the Greek-Turkish section of the bill was beaten 152 to 18; a similar attempt to knock out the China aid was turned down 113 to 31.

But Republican-Democratic unity was quickly restored by Representative Vito Marcantonio (A.L.P., N. Y.) with a last-minute attempt to scrap the whole Marshall Plan and substitute a United Nations reconstruction scheme.

The House swamped it by a vote of 270 to 6. Marcantonio's only allies were his A.L.P. colleague Leo Isacson (N. Y. and four Democrats—Arthur G. Klein and Adam C. Powell of New York, Chet Holifield of California and George Sadowski of Michigan.

Negotiating With Soviet Held Futile

Louisville, Ky., March 31 (U.P.).—America's member of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission asserted today, after 13 months of arguing with Russian delegates, that the west cannot negotiate with the Soviet Union until it changes its present system of government.

"They hear only the echo of their own voices," American Delegate Frederick H. Osborn told a foreign affair forum. "They are victims of a system which fixes their minds in an unchangeable cast . . ."

Osborn, said it never would be possible for the western powers and Russia to agree on atomic energy control "or any of the other major problems" as long as "the iron curtain" separates the east from the west.

Osborn said the danger came from the fact the "iron curtain" prevent "not only the people of the Soviet Union but also the rulers of the Soviet Union from forming correct opinions of what is really going on in the rest of the world."

The American delegate expressed a belief the Soviet delegation to U. N., headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, had failed to keep Moscow properly informed on atomic matters and had sent to the home office "only what they think their masters want to hear."

Officials Oppose Bus Fare Boost At Cumberland

Cumberland, Md., March 31 (AP). The Mayor and council voted unanimously today to oppose a proposed rate increase in local Potomac Edison Co. bus fares.

The company would keep the base fare at 10 cents, but has requested the Public Service Commission that the schedule of rates for ticket sales be changed May 2.

The council acted after Mayor Thomas S. Post said the suggested change is a "forerunner to an increase in electric raes."

The Mayor charged the "Walsh machine" was instrumental in having State legislation passed which denies the city power to tax utilities for franchise rights. Apparently the Mayor meant William C. Walsh of Cumberland, former Maryland attorney general.

Statement by Best To Be Read at Trial for Treason

Boston, March 31 (AP).—A special agent of the FBI testified in Federal Court today that Robert H. Best, former American newsman on trial for treason, said he had no objection to talking about his life in Germany.

Best voluntarily dictated a 19-page statement toa stenographer for the Department of Justice, the witness, John Eldon Dunn of Salt Lake City, said.

It will be read to the jury tomorrow.

Best is accused of broadcasting for the Nazis during the war.

Aid-Spain Idea Rouses Europe Press Furor

London, March 31 (AP).—Opposition to the inclusion of Franco Spain in the Marshall Recovery Plan swelled in the European press today.

Government officials generally remained silent, waiting to see if final approval to Spain's inclusion among countries eligible for aid would be given by the United States House of Representatives and Senate. A responsible British source, however, expressed doubt either Britain or France, as sponsors of western European unity, would sanction "for a minute" Spain's inclusion.

Le Peuple, Belgian Social Party newspaper in Brussels, said "the American Congress is free to make gifts to whom it likes, but cannot force the 16 European countries (in the Marshall Plan) to collaborate with a government condemned by all the United Nations."

Madrid dispatches said Franco might carry out a long-rumored cabinet reorganization, replacing some Falangists for pro-Franco conservatives and monarchists and creating a premier

Mob Wrecks Home of Communist

Columbus, Ohio., March 31 (AP). Police, who used the riot act to break up a disturbance, doubled their precautions tonight against any further violence to—or by — Communists here.

Hashmall

Officers deplored the action of 30 or 40 people who broke into the home of Frank Hashmall, 28, self-styled county Communist chairman, last night and wrecked the interior and windows.

Gus Hall, State Communist chairman, announced a civil damage suit would be filed against the Columbus Citizen and Franklin County for the "mob attack." He accused the Citizen of inspiring the action, which he said was "carried through by a German Nazi element, a military organization at Fort Hayes here, and followers of the association of Catholic Trade Unionists.

a big Communist loss in the election, and denounced the Easter Sunday speech of Pope Pius XII against communism. The protests were ignored.

[A Communist rally turned into a pro-American demonstration today when Palmiro Togliatti, Italy's Communist chieftain, was booed and shouted down by cries of "long live the United States." at Lecce, in southern Italy.

[The New York Herald Tribune said Italy's police have been ordered to suspend all political rallies in disturbed areas until campaigners who have been interrupted are allowed to hold a new meeting in peace.]

[The newspaper Espresso reported from Washington that Myron C. Taylor, President Truman's personal representative at the Vatican, was bringing the Pope a letter from the President reaffirming his opposition to communism.

U. S. Defies Soviet Order

British military trucks bound for Berlin were turned back at the Soviet border checkpoint at Marienborn tonight. The Russians claimed the trucks bore no official Soviet translation of travel permits, the British said.

The order affects 25,000 American, British and French troops and civilians in Berlin. It made it impossible for them to leave the city by road or rail without Soviet consent. The Russians made no immediate move to restrict the small amount of western air traffic to the city.

The Soviet order also provided for tight controls of all out-going freight from Berlin, either German or Allied military. The order said each shipment must be inspected and approved by the Soviet military.

The Soviet order also indicated control over incoming freight from the western zones, but the language was vague.

The Soviet order provided that no American, British or French citizen could leave or enter Berlin by rail or train without providing proof of his or her identity to Soviet control authorities.

New Soviet control points were established on the Berlin-Hannover highway and the single rail line between Berlin and Helmstedt—the only ground communications of the western powers with Berlin.

The new Soviet check points were all within the Soviet zone and out of reach of intercession by any one of the western powers.

The Soviet order giving less than 24 hours advance warning was effective at midnight tonight (6 p. m. EST.).

The Russians said increased traffic on the rail and road lines made the order necessary. Until now the nationals of the three western powers could travel freely on military trains of each power between Berlin and the western zones without Soviet inspection.

Under the new order Russian soldiers can decide what constitutes acceptable identification of travelers, can inspect all luggage except personal belongings but leaves to Russian soldiers to decide what constituted personal belongings.

The order came as the climax of a series of Soviet-controlled newspaper attacks against the western powers declaring they soon would have to leave Berlin.

Affected by the Soviet order are approximately 10,835 military government employes and their families divided as follows: United States 3035; French 3500; British 4300.

Stationed in Berlin as well are more than 12,540 troops, including 5540 United States soldiers and officers and 5000 British and 2000 French. Also in Berlin are an estimated 2000 American, French and British businessmen, correspondents, relief workers and others with their families.

U. S. to Show Trieste Force

Trieste, March 31 (AP).—United States Army troops will make an unprecedented show of force on Army Day next Tuesday in a parade in full battle dress through downtown Trieste, it was announced today.

Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, commanding the 5000 American troops occupying the Trieste free state area, announced the parade. It will be the largest since the occupation started.

Official circles believe the demonstration is a direct caution to Trieste Communists and Yugoslavs in connection with the Italian election on April 18.

Moore said his parade would be a measure to preserve the morale of his troops and to "preserve the confidence of the population."

Successor's Letter Ignored by Papanek

Fired U. N. Delegate Says He'll Not Quit Until He Gets Order Signed by Benes

Lake Success, March 31 (AP).—Credentials bearing the name o President Benes were submitte to the United Nations today b the new delegate of the Commu nist-dominated Prague regime.

Dr. Jan Papanek, the fired anti Communist delegate who blase the new Prague government i charges now before the Security Council, refused to recognize the letter.

Vladimir Houdek handed the letter bearing his credentials to U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie. This letter said Papanek had been recalled. Houdek came here after Papanek broke with the new government when Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk died.

Papanek said he will not step own until he is recalled in a tter to him signed by Benes.

China's delegate, Dr. T. F. 'siang, urged the Security Council to invite President Benes and thers concerned to come here nd tell about the Communist oup last month. He expressed ope Russia would support such move, but Russia has denounced he whole affair.

China, Canada, Chile and Syria lemanded a full investigation of he Czechoslovak case.

The Soviet Ukraine attacked France, Britain and the United States for supporting the charges hat Russia backed the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

300 Guerillas, Maybe All, Slip Kroussia Trap

Salonika, Greece, March 31 (U.P.). Authoritative sources reported tonight that at least 300 and perhaps all of the 1000 guerillas reported trapped in the Kroussia Mountains "test offensive" had escaped government troops.

The guerillas were reported fleeing southeast toward Kalon Kastron, where Greek air force planes were pounding them with rockets, cannon and heavy machineguns.

There was no report on six American officers who were with the troops as observers.

In Athens, Lieut. Gen. James A. van Fleet, chief of the military section of the American Aid Mission, announced that Greek troops were making a "good catch" in the Kroussia Mountains and that he was "delighted" with the results.

Van Fleet listed guerilla losses up to two days ago at well over 2000, including about 1700 in the Pierria operation.

Nazis Once Considered Buzz-Bombing N. Y.

Nuernberg, Germany, March 31 (U.P.)—Germany seriously considered attacking New York with V-1 bombs launched from submarines in the autumn of 1944, a war crimes defendant said today.

Walter Schellenberg, former German intelligence chief, said that he and former SS Col. Otto Skorzeny talked Heinrich Himmler out of the proposed bombing, "arguing that the small military success of the plan would be far outweighed by the fury of the Americans in their war with us."

Dennis FitzGerald Resigns at FAO To Take Job in Agriculture Department

A new name was added yesterday to the lengthening list of rumored, successors to Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who plans to quit the Cabinet soon to run for Senator from New Mexico.

The name was that of Dr. Dennis A. FitzGerald, who has received attention in recent years as secretary-general of the International Emergency Food Committee of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

FitzGerald resigned yesterday, to return to the Department of Agriculture to succeed Leslie Wheeler as director of the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations. Wheeler is returning to the State Department.

His resignation gave rise to rumors at the Agriculture Department that he was in line for the cabinet post. Other Agriculture officials already named as potential secretaries are Jesse B. Gilmer, administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration, Norris E. Dodd, Undersecretary, and Charles F. Brannan, assistant secretary.

Fitzgerald will not leave IEFC until after the food council of FAO concludes its annual meeting which starts Monday. No successor has been named for him at FAO.

At the same time it was announced that all but one—Guatemala—of the 36 nations, which approved the International Wheat Agreement, had signed that agreement.

The wheat agreement, under which importing nations agree to buy 500 million bushels of wheat annually from three exporting nations, the United States, Australia and Canada, for five years was reached after weeks of negotiations under FitzGerald's chairmanship.

(Under the agreement the importers agree to pay from $1.50 to $2 a bushel next year, with the minimum dropping 10 cents each year until the price in 1953 would be from $1.10 to $2 a bushel. The United States would furnish 185 million bushels of the 500 million total. The agreement is not binding until approved by Congress.)

The importing nations which signed the agreement are Afghanistan, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, China, Colombia, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Ecuador, Egypt, France, Greece, India, Ireland, Italy, Lebanon, Liberia, Mexico, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Peru, Poland, the Philippines, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, Union of South Africa, United Kingdom and Venezuela.

Army, Air Force Save Baby's Life

phragm also separates the lungs from the abdomen. A puncture in the diaphragm might permit the contents of the abdomen to move up into the chest and fatally injure the lungs.

The operation was performed by Maj. Claude C. Blackwell, chief of general surgery section, assisted by Maj. John Paul, chief of the thoracic (chest) surgery section. Ether was administered by Lieut. Col. John Gardiner, chief of the anesthesia section. Lieut. Col. Ogden C. Burton, chief pediatrician, participated in the consulation.

For the flight, the baby was placed in an improvised oxygen tent—a bassinet with a glassine cover, through which oxygen was forced via tubes from the oxygen tank. The transport plane received special permission to fly low, for fear high altitude might effect the patient adversely, and at time flew at 1800 to 1500 feet.

Marshall Speaks Friday

Torres Bodet maintained economic aid to Latin America is as vital as the European recovery plan.

It was announced that Secretary of State George C. Marshall will address the second plenary session, Friday at 4 p. m.

It is believed Marshall will clarify the United States position on studying foreign-inspired subversive activities in the Americas.

In answer to Latin American hopes for economic aid, loans and long term credits, Marshall is expected to reiterate that the United States must concentrate on the major problem in Europe.

Policemen Find Night Prowler In Grocery Store

A 35-year-old District laborer who told police "I don't know how I got in" was flushed from under a counter of a Safeway grocery store at 356 Eastern ave. ne. about 11:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The man, who said his name was Clarence E. Davis, 403 53d st. ne., was dragged out with his pockets bulging with cigarettes, chicken, duck and other food items, police said.

Davis, still insisting it was all a mistake, was carted off to the Eleventh Precinct station by Police Pvts. S. N. Gough and E. F. Goodall, charged with housebreaking. Davis was first spotted going through a store window by a pedestrian, Francis Craig, Lanham, Md., Gough reported.

Britain Takes Over Electric Utilities

London, (Thursday) April 1 (AP).—Britain took ownership last midnight of all the nation's electric utilities, sixth major enterprise to be nationalized under the Labor government's socialist program.

One of the first developments under state control will be higher rates for a large proportion of domestic consumers in urban areas.

Chairmen of three of the 14 regional boards that will administer the industry said domestic rates would have to be increased to meet rising costs, including higher prices for coal.

Other enterprises nationalized since the Labor government came to power in mid-1945 include coal civil aviation, inland transport, the Bank of England and cable and wireless.

Properties taken over by the government included 170 generating stations and between 500 and 600 distribution systems employing 98,000 people.

Stockholders in private companies will be paid in treasury stock, whose value will be announced tonight.

Britain Announces $2.5 Billion Surplus

London, March 31 (AP). — The Treasury announced tonight the government had a £368,000,000 ($2,544,000,000) surplus for the fiscal year ended today.

It was double the surplus estimated last November.

Tracks Mined

40 Killed In Palestine Train Blast

Jerusalem, March 31 (AP).—The speeding Palestine Express train was blown up today, killing 40 persons and injuring 80.

The official announcement said most of the casualties were Arabs.

Triple explosions occurred when the Cairo-to-Haifa train hit a mined section of track near Binjamina.

Haifa police, nearer the scene, said 24 persons, all Arabs, were killed and 64 were injured.

The explosions were believed set off by Jews in retaliation for Arab attacks on convoys recently. Several hundred British troops riding in the second half of the train were unhurt.

A Jewish source said the Stern gang set off the mine trap.

The virtual Arab siege of Jerusalem, which has brought bread rationing to this city's 100,000 Jews, was renewed. Several hundred Arabs beleaguered a Jewish food convoy en route from coastal Tel Aviv to relieve Jerusalem.

Jews here have been reduced to a bread ration equivalent to about three slices of bread a day and to an average of one egg a week. Meat is unrationed but virtually nonexistent save for sausages and some dried meats.

Hagana, the Jewish militia, said at least one Jew was killed and several wounded in a battle that began at midday and was continuing up to 8:30 p. m. Arabs said many Jews were killed and wounded.

3 More Enter Md. Congress Primaries

Two Republicans and one Democrat yesterday added their names to the list of Congressional candidates in two Maryland districts, subject to party primaries May 3.

Tonight midnight is deadline for candidates of both parties to file.

In the Maryland Fifth district, Republicans L. J. H. Herwig, of Annapolis, and Frank E. Vanderhoof, of Suitland, announced their candidacies for the seat now held by Representative Landsdale G. Sasscer, Democrat, of Upper Marlboro. Their announcement brought to four the number of Republicans seeking the nomination.

Herwig, an attorney and former Army major, in announcing, said if elected his principal objective will be to revise Army courts-martial procedures to guarantee Constitutional rights to those in the services.

Other previously announced are C. Maurice Weidemeyer, Annapolis and Washington attorney, and Edwin A. Glenn of Suitland, operator of a fleet of taxis.

In Montgomery County, F. Byrne Austin of Takoma Park, a Democrat, announced his candidacy for the Maryland Sixth District seat held now by Representative J. Glenn Beall, Republican. Austin is a former member of the Montgomery County Park and Planning Commission and a former election supervisor.

Meanwhile, Prince Georges County election officials announced that seven Republicans and six Democrats have filed so far as candidates for State Party Convention delegates, and Montgomery County officials said seven Democrats and three Republicans had filed in that county. Convention delegates also will be named in the May 3 primary.

Reichsmark Value Boosted 20 Cents In Western Zones

Berlin, March 31 (AP).—United States and British authorities issued orders today placing the internal economy of the combined British-American occupation zones of western Germany on a reichsmark valued at 30 cents.

The original military exchange rate was 10 cents.

The order applies to virtually all German imports except food and all exports except coal.

It was described by one American official as an adjustment of internal prices to bring them closer into line with world prices "in anticipation of coming events." (possibly currency reform).

Canadian Credit To Britain Reported

Ottawa, March 31 (AP).—Canada was reported arranging today to give Great Britain a temporary extension of credit until the European Recovery Program takes effect. One source said Canada may be expected to let the British draw about 10 million dollars during April.

Citizens of Vienna, Va., to Vote On Water Bond Issue on May 6

A referendum will be held in Vienna, Va., May 6 to decide whether the Fairfax County town should issue $500,000 in bonds to instal la public water and sewage system.

Judge Paul E. Brown of Fairfax County Circuit Court issued the order for the referendum yesterday on request of the Vienna town council.

A community of 1600 in the north central portion of the county, Vienna is served now only by private wells and septic tanks.

The town voted down a similar proposal six years ago. But Mayor Elmer E. Cockrill yesterday said sentiment has changed until a different result may be registered this time.

Brown appointed as judges of the election C. Arthur Thompson, Lloyd E. Wright, Barnard G. Upham, all of Vienna.

Russians Shot Up Hall After Snub by Girls

Josefberg, Austria, March 31 (AP).—Witnesses said today two Russian soldiers pumped machine pistol bullets into a gay dance crowd Monday night because Austrian girls had refused to dance with one of them.

The bullets killed 20-year-old Laura Jorda and Orchestra Leader Joseph Niederer, father of 13 children. Three of Niederer's sons in the orchestra were among the wounded. Fourteen persons still are in a hospital.

Century-Old Church To Be Replaced

Elkton, Va., March 30.—Trustees of the century-old Methodist Church at Furnace No. 2 in the Blue Ridge foothills, 3 miles east of Elkton, have decided to tear down the old church and build a new one. Construction will start as soon as funds are raised and the plans for the new church are approved by the Methodist Conference.

Gas Rate Increase Ordered for Roanoke

Richmond, Va., March 31 (AP).—The State Corporation Commission today approved an application of the Roanoke Gas Co. for rate increases, ordering them effective tomorrow.

The increases will bring in $125,000 in new revenue annually, President Michael E. Shea advised the commission. The rate boosts will average 15.7 per cent.

New Rent Act Reported Out

dwellings which have no more than two paying tenants.

The proposal of Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) for "voluntary" leases with rent increases up to 15 per cent was lost on a 3-4 vote.

Voting with Cain were Senators Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.) Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho) and John C. Stennis (D., Miss.) Opponents were Senate District Committee Chairman C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.), and Senators Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.), Spessard L. Holland (D., Fla.) and J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.).

Senator Cain had stated earlier that he did not plan to press his fight for the issue on the Senate floor. The decision to decontrol new and converted housing as of March 31, 1948, was made after Cain first suggested November 1, 1947.

New Features

District Rent Control Administrator Robert F. Cogswell said the November 1 date would decontrol a large section of new housing in southwest and southeast Washington, and added that in 99 per cent of new construction cases he had fixed rents at almost exactly what the owners asked.

The Federal rent control bill makes these features, many of them new ones, of immediate concern to families in the suburban area, and elsewhere in the Nation:

1. Landlords and tenants may again sign "voluntary" leases running at least through December 31, 1949.

2. Rents are decontrolled for nonhousekeeping furnished rooms in private homes where there are no more than two paying guests; motor courts; tourist homes or trailers.

3. Tenants can be evicted by landlords if the landlord seeks to withdraw the place from the rental market, demolish it or alter it substantially, sell it to a purchaser for personal occupancy, or if the landlord himself or members of his immediate family wish to occupy it. (Sixty-day notices required for eviction.)

4. Tenants may also be evicted, after 60 days' notice, where the State has acquired property for public improvement, or if the landlord needs the dwelling to house members of certain non-taxable institutions.

Some Revert to Controls

Where any leases terminate before the expiration date of the new law, March 31, 1949, properties revert to controls.

Housing Expediter Tighe E. Wood's office pointed out that hotel accomodations have been previously decontrolled, while new constructions or conversions completed after February 1, 1947, or completed two years prior to that date and not rented, are also decontrolled.

Although the law provides that any difference between the Housing Expediter and local rent advisory boards is automatically referred to the Emergency Court of Appeals for final decision, it extends the Expediter's power to obtain "representative" boards.

Rent Boost Approved At Plymouth Apartments

Rent increases averaging 9.98 per cent for 53 units at Plymouth apartment house, 1236 11th st. nw., were recommended yesterday by District Rent Control Examiner William H. Clarke.

Monthly rents for one-room-and-bath apartments would go up from $31 to $34, for five-room-and-bath units from $65 to $71.50, Clarke said. The owner, American Realty Co., had requested a 14.52 per cent hike, he said.

At a hearing yesterday, tenants of the Park Lane apartment house, 2025 I st. nw., submitted their own financial statement to back their opposition to a 11.6 per cent rent hike requested by the owners for 188 units.

Examiner Denis K. Lane took the case under advisement.

Dugan Urges Real Estate Reassessment

Arlington County will face another "tax crisis" unless a "proper reassessment" of real estate is made, County Board Chairman Daniel A. Dugan said yesterday.

Discussing the tax situation confronting the board as it studies a requested $8,380,108 budget for next year, Dugan asserted that unless the county revises its assessments it "will lose more than a million dollars in revenue each year."

Tuesday the board advertised for a tentative 25 cent increase in the real estate tax rate, in case other revenue sources failed to meet the new budget.

Yesterday, however, Dugan said he believed a record school budget of $2,444,000 can be met for the next year "without any increase in real property taxes."

But he added he felt a "fair" reassessment of Arlington real estate will be "the only long-term solution to the increasing costs of government."

The county's newly won privilege of taxing businesses should bring an annual return of "at least $200,000," and a projected tax on auto licenses would bring in about $400,000 if a tax of $10 per car were applied, he estimated.

Income-Tax Lien Of $240,000 Filed Against Meyers

New York, March 31 (AP).—The Government today slapped a $240,000 income tax lien on the property of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers.

The wartime Air Forces supply officer is now serving a 20-month to 5-year jail term for persuading a business associate to give false testimony to a Senate committee.

The Federal Court of Appeals last week denied Meyers' application for bail while he appeals the conviction.

In Washington Meyers today asked Chief Justice Vinson of the Supreme Court to order his release on bail while the Court of Appeals considers his case. Vinson is expected to act on Meyers' request in a day or two.

Meyers also is under indictment for committing perjury himself and for falsifying income taxes, and may face trial later on these charges.

The Internal Revenue Department's tax lien alleged Meyers owes the Government more than $240,000 for taxes between 1941 and 1946. It was filed in the Long Island district, where Meyers has a home.

Winchell's Son-in-Law Seeks Annulment

Cambridge, Mass., March 31 (AP). William F. Lawless, 30, of Cambridge sought annulment today in Middlesex probate court of his marriage to Walda E. Winchell, who, he said, had never lived with him as his wife.

The former Army sergeant told the court he thought his young actress wife, daughter of Columnist Walter Winchell, had wed him for the sake of publicity. They eloped in 1045.

Judge George M. Poland took the petition under advisement.

Gromyko's Glass House

Soviet Russia is losing no opportunity to exploit the tragic state of affairs in Palestine for propaganda purposes. It was a foregone conclusion that Andrei Gromyko would use the occasion of the United States' proposal of a truce in the fighting between Arab and Jewish factions to denounce the vacillating policy that this government has followed. There is ample ground for criticism. Few Americans are proud of their Government's record in dealing with this baffling issue. But when stones are thrown, surely they ought to come from someone who does not himself live in a glass house.

The Soviet delegate to the Security Council says that his government still considers the partition of Palestine "a just solution." But Russia has given absolutely nothing but lip service to that solution. In the Security Council Mr. Gromyko has offered no suggestion for either peaceful implementation of the General Assembly's formula for political partition of the Holy Land or the mobilization of force to back up that plan. The United States proposed that the Security Council accept the task assigned to it by the General Assembly in respect of Palestine and appoint a committee of five to work out the problem. Mr. Gromyko rejected the proposal. The American delegation then tried to secure a working arrangement through the big five, and again the Soviet representative gave no cooperation. In short, the Moscow attitude has been wholly negative.

Mr. Gromyko has played the role of the obstructionist who waves his hat and shouts wildly for a cause in public and then quietly blocks every effort that is made to do anything about it. Obviously Moscow's chief interest in the partition plan lies in the possibilities it offers for embarrassing the United States. It should not be difficult, however, for Americans as well as the other peoples interested in a rational solution of this troublesome problem to see the hypocrisy that fills the wide gap between Mr. Gromyko's talk and his actions on this issue.

Undermining ERP

It is scarcely conceivable that the Senate will accept the vote of the House to include Spain in the scope of the European Recovery Program. Nor, for that matter, could Spain come within the official purview of ERP without approval of the 16 Marshall Plan nations now represented at Paris. Nevertheless, some potentially serious damage has been done the cause of ERP by the House's flighty action.

The most obvious harm lies in the fact that the situation is tailor-made for Communist propaganda. The inclusion of Spain will seem to confirm the Russian charges that the United States is propping up reaction in a mere anti-Communist crusade. The Kremlin can, and probably will, take up the line that the only criterion of eligibility for American largesse is for a government, no matter how obnoxiously undemocratic it may be, merely to wave the flag of anti-communism. For any people wavering in their decision, this may seem to support the Russian contention that the Marshall Plan is a war plan. It will give Henry Wallace a field day.

Even more serious is the effect on the peoples we count as allies in the struggle for preservation of free institutions. For the glory of the Marshall Plan, as originally propounded, is that it is "pro" rather than "anti," constructive rather than destructive. The goal of the Marshall Plan is not merely to stop Communist expansion but also to make possible a regenerated Europe that in turn may provide the basis for reconciliation with Russia short of war. The moral purpose of ERP is important, and if the action of the House were allowed to stand it would tarnish that purpose. Already reports from Italy indicate that the House vote has been a severe blow to the anti-Communist forces, and some fear that it has washed out the effect of the American-French-British proposal on Trieste so far as the Italian election is concerned.

Even on pragmatic military grounds, the case for including Spain is not impressive. In the event of war with Russia, it is questionable how much support could come from a government that was associated with the Axis. To count on Franco, who is despised by a large segment of his own people, would be to build on sand. Perhaps the most disturbing aspect of the 149-52 House vote is the indication it gives of excited reaction in Congress. This sort of atmosphere is not conducive to the positive alternative to communism which the Marshall Plan must offer if it is to capture the imagination of the free world. We shall neither win friends nor resist communism successfully unless our actions are consistent with our preachments.

Calculated Madness

If John L. Lewis had really wanted to settle the pension issue and avert a miners' strike, he could have done so by accepting the plan proposed by Thomas E. Murray, the neutral trustee on the board of the welfare and retirement fund. Mr. Murray resigned when convinced that neither Mr. Lewis nor Ezra Van Horn, the operators' representative on the board, had any desire to reach an agreement through compromise. Acceptance of the Murray proposal would have given Mr. Lewis an admirable opportunity to achieve his ostensible objective and at the same time discredit Mr. Van Horn, who had offered no counterproposal of any sort. For it provided for setting aside 20 million dollars of the annual pension fund to pay $100 monthly to miners over 60 who are now working or have retired since last July. Any amount left over would then have been available for distribution among over-age miners who had retired before that time.

Legal obstacles to such distribution were not insuperable. And it is virtually certain that once the pension system had been firmly established, public opinion would have supported union demands for extension of benefits to the group that Mr. Lewis insists should be covered. If Mr. Lewis and Mr. Murray had succeeded in reaching an agreement, moreover, the "no plan" attitude of Mr. Van Horn would have warranted petitioning the courts for appointment of another trustee to take his place.

Instead, Mr. Lewis chose to make an issue of the pension dispute, and instigated a strike by devious means that deceive no one. We do not believe it will be difficult for the Department of Justice to refute Mr. Lewis' contention that he did nothing to bring about the strike. Nor should it be difficult to supply the evidence required to support a demand for a court injunction that would send the miners back to work for at least 80 days. However, Mr. Lewis has chalked up a victory (from his viewpoint) by forcing the Government to invoke the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, thus giving him an opportunity to test its applicability.

It is already apparent that the law as it stands affords inadequate protection against strikes inimical to the national welfare. For the procedural preliminaries to securing injunctive relief are time-consuming, while the injunction, if issued, will afford only temporary protection against suspension of mining operations. Mr. Lewis is playing a dangerous game of obstruction aimed at discrediting the Taft-Hartley Act. He may succeed in that effort. But if he does, he will be asking for trouble. For Congressman Hartley is now "holding in reserve" a measure that would authorize the Department of Justice to prosecute strikers involved in Nation-wide tie-ups. And Representative Harrison has introduced a bill to restore the Government's wartime authority to seize coal mines and other strike-bound facilities. If the miners and the operators fail to reach an agreement on the pension issue before the date set for vacating the anticipated injunction, it is our belief that Congress will forestall the possibility of another strike by passing labor legislation that would go far beyond the mildly coercive provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. Mr. Lewis' madness may be calculated, but in our opinion his calculations are based on unsound premises.

Shotgun Statute

New York's 60-year-old statute designed to forbid the sale of publications recounting lurid tales of crime presented one of those delicate, difficult problems which account for differences of opinion among conscientious jurists. After hearing and rehearing arguments in three terms on a case involving this statute, the Supreme Court at last ruled on Monday, by a 6-to-3 decision, that it is unconstitutional in that its language is so indefinite as to violate the due process clause of the fourteenth amendment. The effect is to invalidate similar enactments in 19 other States and to call into question laws of like tenor in 4 more.

The New York law made it a misdemeanor to print, possess or sell any publication "principally made up of criminal news, police reports, or account of criminal deeds, or pictures, or stories of deeds of bloodshed, lust or crime." When the current case involving the law came before the New York Court of Appeals, that court, recognizing that this language might embrace detective stories, treatises on crime or reports of battle carnage, limited its scope by construing it to apply only to collections of criminal deeds of bloodshed or lust "so massed as to become vehicles for inciting violent and depraved crimes against the person." But Mr. Justice Reed, speaking for a Supreme Court majority, concluded that even this judicial qualification did not satisfactorily "draw the line between the allowable and the forbidden" and that it must be held invalid under the doctrine that "where a statute is so vague as to make criminal an innocent act, a conviction under it cannot be sustained."

In a dissent notable for its schoolmasterish scolding of his colleagues as well as for its insight and persuasiveness, Mr. Justice Frankfurter argued that the majority decision "denies to the States (and to Congress as well) the power to prevent the grave evils to which, in their rational judgment, such publications give rise." This seems to us an overstatement. To require that a legislature be definite in describing what it wishes to punish may indeed impose upon it a difficulty in a field such as this where specificity is not easily come by; but it is not to prohibit effective action.

Where the majority of the Supreme Court put its primary emphasis on avoiding any impairment of the freedom protected by the first amendment, the minority laid stress upon the principle that the widest possible tolerance consistent with the Constitution should be granted to the judgment of State legislatures and courts. Both considerations are vital and valid. In our view, however, the former merits the primacy which the majority accorded it.

Battle Of Wall Street

The strike of the employes of the two great stock exchanges in New York contained possibilities of propaganda that were much too good to be missed. Wall Street is a name known everywhere in the world, a symbol of the money power and of everything oppressive or hateful in the capitalistic system. In Europe the United States government has been represented as the mere agent of Wall Street, and the Marshall Plan the device of a profit-hungry imperialism. To the Marxist mind, therefore, this was no ordinary strike, but one that could easily be made to seem an epitome of the universal class struggle.

On Tuesday, action squads from two seamen's unions not involved in the strike entered the picketing zone around the New York Stock Exchange Building at No. 11 Wall Street. The police had limited the number of pickets at the principal entrance to three, but were permitting unlimited picketing on other sides of the building. The seamen, however, made a rush for the main entrance, bowling over four policemen on duty there. Then there was a concerted rush of pickets from the other sides of the building toward the main entrance.

At this juncture the hundred-odd policemen on duty around the building plunged into the mass and began swinging their clubs. Some of the seamen fought back and were quickly beaten down. The other pickets flung themselves on the sidewalks covering their heads with their arms. Meanwhile, just beyond the range of the rioting the flashlight bulbs of news photographers were exploding as rapidly as the plates could be shifted. The pictures of the heaps of supine or prostrate bodies resembled a battlefield on the morrow of a general action. Actually, 12 persons, including 2 policemen, were hurt, none very seriously.

As propaganda, the riot was a vast success and of incalculable value to the Communist cause. There is little doubt that the pictures will be published all over the world as examples of what happens to workers who dare to assert themselves in the citadel of Yankee capitalism. But that the demonstration was of the slightest value to the cause of the stock exchange workers there is no evidence whatever.

No Censorship

Outwardly it may seem a contradiction that the United States should be moving away from the concept of censorship for security purposes while the external threat to American security is increasing. The contradiction, however, is only superficial. Both the developments in this field on Monday—the offer of press, radio and movie representatives to assist Secretary Forrestal in defining areas of necessary secrecy, while opposing any peacetime censorship, and the Army's action to remove vexatious discriminations against overseas correspondents—seem to us calculated to serve the cause of real security.

The determination of the press representatives to resist a formalized security censorship should not be construed either as justification for license or as an indication that the press is not concerned with the leakage of vital information. The committee of newspaper, radio and movie executives, which Secretary Forrestal had asked to consult with him on problems of security, wisely agreed to set up an advisory council to work with the national defense establishment. This recognizes the corollary responsibility of the media of information while placing the primary task of maintaining necessary secrecy where it belongs, in the armed forces themselves.

It may be argued, to be sure, that the need for security in the cold war is virtually as great as in a shooting war. But by and large what security breaches there have been have not come initially from the press. Formalized censorship would have been anathema as long as the military itself had not cleaned house and, indeed, in the absence of proof that the press was not cooperating. The security advisory council should be of assistance in working out a sensible set of standards to aid in the formulation of a unified security policy within the military establishment—a policy stressing declassification and release of legitimate news as much as secrecy. Beyond this, the job of impressing on the Nation's information executives what constitutes important military data is one for Mr. Forrestal himself—and we hope he will not neglect Congress in this regard.

In removing control of correspondents from area commanders and placing it directly in Washington, the Army tacitly rebuked General MacArthur for the stew that has developed in his command. While outlining fairly rigorous rules for the conduct of correspondents, the Army has done well to affirm that "unfavorable criticism of Army policies or of an individual or group of individuals will not be considered as a basis for disaccreditation." Certainly correspondents and the public needed that assurance; and the new regulation, properly enforced, should help dispel the suspicion that accreditation was becoming a tool of personal prejudice. Genuine security is not promoted by arbitrary bans and petty harassments.

Defense, Ltd. Program

By Malvina Lindsay

Men's Monopoly

THOUGH MODERN warfare shows no chivalry to women or civilians, the knight in armor tradition still seems to be prominent in defense plans. Two measures in Congress express this attitude. One is the House bill to limit women's activities in the armed services to a Reserve Corps. The other is the universal military training bill, which asks no defense responsibility from girls or from adult men and women.

Defense experts repeatedly emphasize that defense plans must assume any war will be total, with bombing attacks on the home front. To prepare for such catastrophe both women and civilians generally need to be brought more into the defense picture.

Top military and naval leaders, familiar with the valuable service women in uniform contributed in the last war, urged that women be made a permanent part of the armed services. But the House Armed Services Committee voted to shove them down a notch, put them in a reserve corps where they could be called upon when needed.

THE SENATE last session passed a bill to give women permanent status in the armed services. But the House committee expects to have its reserve corps provision included in the final measure accepted by both houses.

This of course would discourage enlistment by prospective Waves, Wacs, Wafs and Marines, since young women could not look to permanent careers in the armed forces. Nor would there be a permanent nucleus of trained, disciplined women to be expanded rapidly in event of sudden need. What is worse, woman's presence, influence and voice in the whole defense setup would be greatly lessened, even though defense now includes her special domain, the home.

Some women leaders see in this congressional action another post-war attempt to push women back in their "place." Always after a war there is a reaction to women's invasion of new fields. Since the war ended women have been giving ground in politics, Government and to a lesser extent in the professions.

Fear of their invading too deeply men's age-old domain, warfare probably contributed to the spurt of letter-writing—mostly by veterans—opposing women's having equal privileges with men in the armed services. These letters to the House committee and to the newspapers also rebected pre-atomic, even preairplane thinking about warfare in their complaints that women in uniform had all the safe berths, and got commissions without being exposed to battle. But the writers at least didn't hide behind the pseudo-chivalry of those statesmen who once declared women in the armed services were a "reflection on the Nation's manhood."

THE ORIGINAL BILL provided for a permanent women's nucleus of 2 per cent of the authorized strength of the armed services. Since only about 10 per cent of these women would be commissioned officers, they could not gobble up many of the bars, stripes, wings, oak leaves, eagles and other insignia available.

The need for women trained in home-front defense and reconstruction, such as nursing, first aid, fire fighting, dietetics, mass feeding, also is ignored in the universal military training bill. Some of the bill's critics believe it is based too much on the old idea that in war the many can still fatten on the sacrifices of the few—who are presumably on distant jousting fields.

If we must accept the inevitability of armed might, they say, then let defense measures be democratic and realistic. Let all groups in the community, so far as possible, be called upon for national contribution—some service or sacrifice. In that way the true nature and significance of the "next war" would be brought home to all citizens—including many who talk so glibly about it. In that way could all Americans demonstrate they were not the soft, futile dollar-mad people their enemies regard them.

Letters To The Editor

Unemployment Claims

In your March 19 issue appeared a letter entitled "Unemployment Claims" written by Mr. J. G. Rand. The essence of this letter was that five weeks elapse between the time an unemployed worker files his original (first) claim and the time he receives his first check.

Actually, under the biweekly reporting program now in effect in the District, either four or five weeks may elapse before the claimant receives his first check, depending upon the week in which the claimant initially files his claim. The claimant who waits four weeks receives one check initially, while the claimant who waits five weeks receives two checks initially.

On the first visit the unemployed worker files an application with the United States Employment Service for the purpose of obtaining new employment. If a job is not readily available, he then files an original claim for unemployment benefits. This claim is merely an application for a determination of his eligibility. A check is not due for this visit.

On his second visit, which is made during the following week, the unemployed worker certifies as to his status during the prior calendar week. The claim which he files on this visit serves as a "waiting period" claim. A check is not due for this visit.

On his third visit, the unemployed worker again files a claim for the prior week, which is the first week for which benefits are due. This claim is then audited and the proper accounting controls established before a check can be prepared.

On his fourth visit, the unemployed worker receives a check covering the claim he filed the preceding week, and on this visit he also files another claim. For each weekly visit thereafter he receives a check covering the claim he filed on his preceding visit and he also files a continued claim until his benefits are exhausted or otherwise terminated.

I am opposed to biweekly reporting and to the waiting-period feature in the District Act. However, in view of circumstances—lack of sufficient funds, shortage of personnel, and inadequate space to serve claimants satisfactorily at the local offices under a weekly reporting program—the biweekly reporting program is necessary and practicable. It has permitted us to cut in half the number of claimants reporting to the local offices on any one day, and has made it unnecessary for claimants to stand in line outside our local offices for many hours in inclement weather.

C. A. V. HARTON,
Director, District Unemployment Compensation Board.

Questioning ERP

This letter is from a small businessman who is unalterably opposed to communism, but believes that in making an investment one should be sure what one's money is buying.

The Marshall Plan appropriations—running into the neighborhood of six billion dollars—are supposed to purchase for us security from communism.

The bulk of these appropriations go as loans and subsidies to countries where communism is not and never has been a danger. How is spending more billions on England going to help stop communism in countries like France or Czechoslovakia? Does anyone seriously think that England is in danger of going Communist?

How is rebuilding German industry with Marshall Plan money, so that efficient new German factories will be a tempting morsel for the Russian Bear in event of war, going to help stop communism?

How is the policy of rewarding our enemies in Germany and punishing our recent allies elsewhere going to stop communism?

These are questions which I believe a sound, conservative, anti-Communist businessman should insist on seeing answered before spending more money on ERP.

Transit Radios

Science has proven that music tends to relax and ease the tension that comes from any number of sources and, by golly, it's pleasant to get on a streetcar and hear some good music. It gives you a lift. I took particular notice of the number of smiles that appeared on the usually grim faces of commuters as they boarded the car and heard the music . . . one smile usually generates another and there were quite a few on that Capital Transit streetcar the other day.

If music puts people in a mood to smile they're bound to be in a better frame of mind, and what's more important, they might even be more polite. Who knows—a crowded bus may become a pleasant place—I only wonder why they didn't think of it before.

FTC Responsibility

The Washington Post on March 29 carried an interesting article on a rebuke given the Federal Trade Commission by one of its members. The reproachful member complained that an order to a certain Dietaids Co. was "prissy," and indicated "an overdeveloped sense of responsibility plus a dim view of the public's intelligence."

The order specified that some of the symptoms listed are caused by a number of basic complaints other than the deficiency for which the company's product was helpful. They could result from at least a score of conditions for which a product for iron deficiency anemia would be of no avail. The result: a person in taking the product deludes himself into thinking he will get better, when he is really prolonging his real ailment.

The FTC is being no more zealous, careful or "prissy" in this matter of preventing the consuming public from being misled by the labels some pharmaceutical producers put on their goods than the best interests of the public require. MEDICAL STUDENT.

Allen's Dictatorship

It is a strange commentary that we fought against dictatorship abroad and then allow it in Congress; and that Representative Thomas can "investigate" a scientist but do nothing about Representative Leo Allen, the chairman of the House Rules Committee who is holding up a vote on universal military training.

Isn't it enough that millions have already died because of the unpreparedness of this Nation? Must my two boys be sacrifice too, to the selfishness of party politics, and because of men who are still living in the pre-atomic age?

"McMahon's Privilege"

A Washington Post editorial in the issue of March 31, headed "McMahon's Privilege," suggested that I may have divulged top-secret information in discussing the potential horrors of atomic warfare in a recent article in Collier's magazine.

There was nothing in the article not already known to the general public and to readers of The Washington Post. What I said was far less revealing than a feature article published in The Washington Post on May 12, 1946, under the heading "'The A-Bomb has a Monstrous Stepchild Called 'Death Dust.'" I think if you will reread this article you will agree.

The Washington Post article quoted one well-known physicist, a collaborator with Dr. Einstein, as saying this:

"In Smyth's report we read that it should be possible to extract such by-products and use them 'like a particularly vicious form of poison gas . . . fission products produced in one day might be sufficient to make a large area uninhabitable.' Thus, besides atomic bombs, we may have equally dangerous radioactive bombs that can be manufactured even more quickly . . . we have within our grasp all the technical means of destroying life on our planet."

The Smyth report, referred to in the previous quotation, was published with the approval of Gen. Leslie R. Groves, then director of the Army's Manhattan District. One hundred copies of the Smyth report were published and distributed.

The same Washington Post article quoted a leading British scientist as authority for the following statement about radioactive by-products:

"They could be extracted by an unscrupulous country and sprayed or otherwise distributed over enemy territory in sufficient concentration to prohibit the survival of any living thing."

You will recall that about two weeks ago, newspaper photographs were published showing the sinking of the battleship Pennsylvania (weight: 33,100 tons or about 66,200,000 pounds) which was destroyed in the Pacific because it was radioactive and "hot" two years after the Bikini explosion. Among other items The Washington Post published on August 3, 1947, a graphic diagram showing the destruction that would be wrought by the dropping of an atomic bomb on Washington. The diagram, surely, could be more easily labeled "scare" material, to quote your editorial, than any of my remarks.

In my brief reference to atomics in the Collier's article, there was nothing revealed which is not already known to students of nuclear science throughout the world. Believe me, there was no remote disclosure of "top-secret" information. What I said may have come as a "shock" to the editorial writer, but certainly not to members of the Politburo.

Actually, I have no wish to become satirical at the expense of the editorial writer or to hurl the charge of "you, too" at The Washington Post which has performed a splendid service in its reporting of the atomic problem. I appreciate that the magazine article was a legitimate topic for editorial comment.

But the last sentence of the editorial hardly seems in keeping with your policy of fair play because it conveys an erroneous impression which could have been avoided by a telephone call to my office. This sentence said:

"If the information is such that it can safely be divulged, then it is rightfully the property of all the people, and not something to be sold exclusively to one publication for personal profit."

When the McMahon Act for Control of Atomic Energy was before the Senate, I had offers for writing and lecturing which, if accepted, would have made me wealthy for life. These offers were refused. This policy of refusing to derive personal profit has been followed, as far as I know, by every reputable person who has knowledge of atomics which might be marketable.

I never discussed with the publishers payment for the magazine article in question. After I signed the copyright agreement, the publishers sent me a sum in payment, every penny of which was immediately donated to charity.

Public men frequently sell their memoirs for substantial sums and this practice is seldom criticized. But I agree emphatically with The Washington Post editorial writer that no profit, direct or indirect, should ever accrue to me because of any specialized knowledge I may have on atomics. I have followed this course consistently.

In concluding, may I make this additional point. Yesterday's newspapers informed the public that the key committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission abandoned its job of trying to work out the organizational set-up of the proposed International Atomic Agency. As the New York Times said editorially, "If the situation does not change, we are headed straight for a race in atomic weapons, with all of the dread uncertainties and overshadowing doubts that this situation holds."

I have no wish to alarm or to scare anyone but I believe it is imperative to review now the whole question of atomic controls in all its implications. The alternatives are dreadful but they must be faced. BRIEN McMAHON,
Senator from Connecticut.
Washington.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Disorder At The Top

IT IS NOT, I think, an alarmist exaggeration to say that the condition of the Truman Administration is a grave problem for the Nation, not merely for the Democratic Party. The problem is not whether Mr. Truman can be nominated and elected. It is how in the perilous months immediately ahead the affairs of the country are to be conducted by a President who has not only lost the support of his party but is not in control of his own Administration.

Lippmann

THE HEART of the danger lies in the fact that Mr. Truman is not performing, and gives no evidence of his ability to perform, the functions of the Commander in Chief. Yet in a crisis of peace and war our constitutional system vests in the President the responsibilities and the power over the great decisions of diplomacy and military strategy. The Secretary of State, if he does not have extraordinary powers, cannot do this. For the Department of State, as such, has no authority over the armed forces or over the financial and economic agencies of the Government. The Cabinet cannot do this. For as a body it has no authority of its own. Ours is a presidential system of government, and only the President has the authority to make the decisions which coordinate power and policy, means and ends, in a crisis of war and peace.

The appointment of General Marshall was welcomed by the country as the best possible way to compensate for the fact that Mr. Truman does not have the qualifications that are essential in a Commander in Chief. There was not only a fine modesty but wisdom in the President's appointment of General Marshall, and it was a fair assumption that Mr. Marshall would not be merely the head of the State Department but in fact, by virtue of his prestige and of Mr. Truman's unlimited confidence in him, a vicarious Commander in Chief. The traditional objection to a military man in a high civilian office was in his case dissolved by the belief that the peculiar and critical circumstances called for a man who could conduct foreign policy with unquestioned knowledge of military needs and military risks.

IN FACT it has not worked out that way. To have been in effect a vicarious Commander in Chief was a delicate and difficult assignment, especially for a scrupulous man of high character, used to direct dealing through recognized channels, and devoid of personal ambition for power.

It could have been done only if he had remained continually in Washington in constant personal contact with the President and the other heads of departments and the leaders of Congress. But for reasons which seemed good, perhaps compelling, Mr. Marshall has devoted such a large part of his time and energy to performing the work of a traveling ambassador that he has not had, and does not have, the whole of our foreign relations under his control.

And so, at the very center of the Truman Administration, at the critical point where the fateful decisions of the highest diplomatic and military consequence are made, there is a vacuum of authority and responsibility. There is, that is to say, no one who guides, directs, coordinates, and disciplines the actions of the Government. The condition at the top is from the point of view of unity of command in some ways comparable with that which prevailed in Honolulu and in Washington before Pearl Harbor.

THE ACTION of the House of Representatives on Spain and the European Recovery Program is perhaps a diplomatic disaster that can be repaired. But it is an ominous portent of the disorder inside the Truman Administration. For the action of the House, which will do immeasurable harm to our cause in Italy, France, and all over Europe, was, as Mr. Reston correctly reports, instigated by military men in ruthless disregard of the considered views of the Department of State.

This could not have happened if in a matter of such high policy Mr. Marshall had been in firm control, and if Mr. Forrestal had had clear guidance, and had then exercised the discipline which a civilian official is supposed to exercise over the military establishment. But Mr. Marshall is in Bogota.

THIS EPISODE is merely one symptom of a condition within the Administration which the country must be enabled to understand if measures are to be taken to correct it. This country and the world are in great peril. For we are doing the very thing which all experience warns us we should not do; instead of talking softly and carrying a big stick we are talking loudly while we hesitate and procrastinate about getting a big stick. For though military preparedness is undoubtedly our best insurance against war, military gestures and warlike talk without actual military preparedness, is the height of recklessness.

It is well known in Washington that Secretary Marshall is aware of this very danger, and is deeply disturbed by it. But he will be unable to cure it if he does not come back to Washington and take command of the situation,—if he does not on the one hand persuade the Truman Administration and Congress to stop playing around with half-measures of military mobilization and, on the other, if he does not lay it down on the line to the military men and to his colleagues and to his diplomatic subordinates here and abroad that they must seek to reduce the tension, and to postpone, not to precipitate, the showdown.

Calling Washington

By Marquis Childs

Stassen In Wisconsin

JANESVILLE, WIS.—Running for President of the United States must be just about the hardest thing that anyone can do. The miracle is that there are men who still seek the office, with its overwhelming burden of responsibility.

Childs

Here is Harold Stassen of Minnesota, who for two and a half years has been in the midst of the presidential marathon. He stands on a platform in the gymnasium of the YMCA here in Janesville, a look of serious intentness on his squarish face. Before him are some 300 citizens who have come out to hear the candidate. At improvised tables set up on wooden trestles, they have eaten a hurried lunch and now they sit listening with something of the speaker's earnestness.

This is a time of critical importance in America's history and you sense it in the seriousness of the audience in this typical American town. The candidate talks about the overshadowing question of our day, which is the threat of the "materialistic ideology" of communism to the American way of life.

If our society continues to be a dynamic, successful society and if we make a real effort to tell the world the facts, then we can win through without the tragedy of a third world war, the candidate says. At this, the audience breaks in with warm applause. You have the feeling that they have been waiting, perhaps a long time, for someone to speak these positive, challenging words.

CANDIDATE STASSEN goes on to say that America's strength must be translated into a determination to avoid a boom-and-bust cycle—to show the world that we do not intend to have a crash and to fail. He insists that the United States must stop all shipments to Russia of materials that can become part of a Communist war machine. Again there is applause.

When the candidate finishes his extemporaneous talk, the floor is open to questions. They come thick and fast. A trade-union leader asks Stassen's opinions about the Taft-Hartley Act. The candidate gives the background on Minnesota's labor-regulatory act and then criticizes three phases of the Taft-Hartley law.

This is a meeting in the oldest tradition of our political life. Here on the hustings is a candidate for the highest office, meeting the voters face to face, giving ready answers to questions as they come.

It is reminiscent of a similar campaign four years ago, when the late Wendell Willkie tried to take the issues to the voters of Wisconsin, knowing that the outcome of Wisconsin's primary would cast a shadow far beyond the boundaries of the State. But there are major differences between Willkie in '44 and Stassen in '48. Stassen has the backing of powerful political forces in Wisconsin, including Senator Joseph McCarthy. Willkie was going it alone, with virtually no encouragement from any politician, and the completeness of his defeat in the primary was a blow from which he never recovered.

HOW MUCH headway Stassen is making, no one can be sure. These presidential primary elections are tricky affairs.

But something is happening in Wisconsin. The surest evidence of that is the fact that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York has been persuaded to make a last-minute change in plans and come out here for two days of speechmaking. That is a remarkable decision for the man who preferred to hold himself aloof—willing but not too eager.

To be sure, there's a third candidate in this primary race. A mythical candidate, one might almost say. Gen. Douglas MacArthur is in Tokyo, 6000 miles away. Yet the legend of his prowess and the glamour of his purple personality exert a powerful sway over the imagination in a troubled time.

Maybe, says the uncertain citizen, we'd better have a strong man, a general, in the White House so we can show these Russians we mean business. And so potent is that appeal, compounded of fear and uneasiness, that the general in Tokyo may sweep this Wisconsin primary election.

That is something that has little to do with America's political traditions. It has little to do with the candidate who stands in the doorway of the YMCA gymnasium, smiling and shaking hands. Candidate Stassen has two more meetings in two other towns and also a radio talk scheduled for the same day. He must move on. This is hard work, and at times it must seem thankless work.

Chicago Press Strike Talks Begin Friday

Chicago, March 31 (U.P.).—Representatives of Chicago newspapers and striking AFL printers will start negotiations Friday in an effort to end a walkout which began last November 24, it was announced today.

The negotiations will be the first since the strike started.

The Chicago Newspaper Publishers' Association, representing the city's five struck papers, set the date in reply to a request from Chicago Local 16 of the International Typographical Union (AFL) for a resumption of negotiations.

John Plich, local president, made the request in compliance with an agreement reached between counsel for the ITU and the National Labor Relations Board, under which the union will seek to end newspaper strikes and drop its attempt to maintain closed shops in violation of the Taft-Hartley law.

The ITU-NLRB agreement was reached after United States District Judge Luther M. Seygert issued an injunction prohibiting the union from continuing alleged unfair labor practices in violation of the Taft-Hartley law.

Government attorneys have approved "suggested forms" for contracts between ITU locals and newspapers. ITU headquarters at Indianapolis said the contracts would be released shortly.

ITU Contract Expires In N. Y. as Talks Go On

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—The contract covering 2500 AFL printers employed on New York City's 4 major daily newspapers expires at midnight tonight, but negotiations for a new agreement are continuing with no threat of work stoppage.

An official of Local 6 of the International Typographical Union said that if agreement is not reached by the deadline, the union is willing to continue negotiations "as long ash we are making progress." The new promise of continued work was made by Laurence H. Victory, president of Local 6.

Wall St. Strike Threatens To Spread to Broker Offices

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange sweated out its first big strike test today but there were storm clouds ahead.

The brokers had not yet finished a hard 1,780,000-share day when striking AFL financial workers and their seamen sympathizers threatened a general strike in the financial district.

The union pages, messengers and clerks walked out of the Stock and Curb Exchanges Monday, but no brokerage houses were struck.

Shortly before the market closed this afternoon, after a day of orderly but noisy picketing, lines were thrown around three sides of the big building at 70 Pine st., which houses many brokerage firms.

Members of AFL seamen's unions chanted "General strike in Wall Street" as they passed out circulars which read:

"Brokerage employes in this building be ready for a general strike of all Wall st. and the entire financial district."

Excitement on Floor

But the excitement today was inside the Exchange as well as on the street.

The buying surge pushed some prices ahead more than $2 a share. The fast upward swing gave March the widest price advance for any month in more than two years.

Trading was so rapid during the first hour, when 580,000 shares changed hands, that the quotation ticker fell behind for transactions for brief periods.

Brokers weathered the large volume with little more damage than a few frayed nerves at the day's end.

A Stock Exchange spokesman said "more employes returned today than yesterday" and fewer brokers were doubling as clerks and pages.

1000 on Picket Lines

Arthur Franklin, first vice president of the Stock Clearing Corp., said things were working out very well under a restricted operations program.

Police stood shoulder to shoulder at 11 Wall street, main entrance to the building today. And nearby cordons of officers stood so close together that picket lines were forced to shuffle along chest to back.

While the numbers of police were increased to 200, the picket lines were swelled to more than 1000.

They were noisy as they had been during cat-calling periods of the past two days. But they were orderly.

Francis Adams Truslow, president of the Curb Exchange, said he did a watchman's trick last night. Some members wielded mops to clean the floors.

Strike Report Is Held Up

And even if they "ordered" them as prescribed by the injunction, would the men actually go back to work?

Could it be proved that Lewis or other union officials told the miners to strike? Conversely, could Lewis' contention—that the miners quit when, and because, they received word that no progress was made on a pension plan—be disproved?

Could it even be proved that the stoppage is really a strike, in violation of the contract? For the contract specifies that the men will work only if "able and willing."

Still Unanswerable

These problems, it was understood, are still unanswered by the Department of Justice, the agency which would seek an injunction.

It has completed papers, it is known, which would probably persuade a court to issue the desired order. But it is not anxious to proceed until it has worked out its course of action on the succeeding steps.

The President, it appeared, did not want to make the fact-finding report public until preparations were finished for the events to follow.

The announcement of a delay in publication of the report was made to newsmen by Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary.

He said the President wanted to study the report and the documents accompanying it. Ross said Mr. Truman would take the material with him on a trip to Williamsburg, Va., and not release the report until after his return, on Saturday.

The report was submitted to the President by his three-man board of inquiry at 12:15 p. m. They beat the deadline set for them by five days.

The members were Federal Circuit Judge Sherman Minton, the chairman; Louisville Publisher Mark Ethridge and University of Pennsylvania Prof. George W. Taylor.

Speaks for Itself

After delivering their report, they declined comment. They said their report was short—it is believed to contain about a dozen pages—that it spoke for itself, but that it was up to Mr. Truman to release it.

Aims Bill at Lewis

Doubting that the procedures under the Taft-Hartley Act were sufficient to take care of the strike, one of its coauthors yesterday offered a new bill frankly aimed at Lewis.

Representative Hartley (R., N. J.) submitted to the House a measure making unions subject to the anti-trust laws and enabling the Department of Justice to prosecute them if, by strikes, they were deemed guilty of restraint of trade.

'Fictitious' Sales of Cotton Laid to Jordan

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Thomas L. Jordan, 45, former ticket seller at Griffith Stadium, who two years ago ran $1400 into millions in cotton speculation, faces charges which might cost him his place on the New Orleans cotton exchange.

Jordan and two associates in the cotton firm of Thomas Jordan & Co., are under fire for alleged "wash" sales in violation of the Commodity Exchange Act. On or about December 16, last, it is charged by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, the men made two "fictitious transactions" of 17,200 bales of March futures and 14,600 bales of May cotton futures.

A "wash sale" is one in which a trader sells a contract for future delivery of cotton to himself. Sometimes made to escape income taxes, it enables a trader to take a paper loss or gain without changing his market position.

The charges were filed February 12, but were not revealed by the Commodity Exchange Authority until a hearing, later postponed, was to take place yesterday.

Under the law, the complaint is heard by a referee, whose finding is subject to review by the Secretary of Agriculture. The Secretary's findings, in turn, are subject to review by the courts.

In New Orleans, Jordan declared that both transactions were "executed in good faith" in the belief they were legal.

In October 1946, Jordan's holdings, estimated at one time at 400,000 bales, were suddenly dumped on the market when brokers called upon him for additional margin.

The load was more than the market could bear. The crash that followed threw operations into such confusion that markets were closed for several days.

Jordan reportedly met all his commitments—which he must have done to remain a member of the New Orleans Exchange in good standing.

Reports were that Jordan had got out with profits ranging up to two million dollars.

South Koreans Willing to Hold Parley With North

Seoul, Korea, March 31 (A.P.).—Two South Korea political leaders in the American-occupied zone said today they would accept, with reservations, an invitation to meet North Korean leaders in the Russian-held zone April 14 to discuss a Soviet-approved plan for unifying the country.

Kim Koo, a rightist leader, and Kimm Kiu Sic, a liberal, issued a joint statement suggesting the South Korea leaders should first get assurances of their safety while in Soviet-occupied territory.

Kim and Kimm said the invitation showed the Northern Koreans already have approved a Soviet plan for early withdrawal of both United States and Soviet occupation troops, formation of a government, and establishing its capital at Seoul.

Quick Vote Urged On Expected Veto Of Tax Cut Bill

By The Associated Press

Congressmen have been urged to stand by for a quick vote on President Truman's expected veto of the $4,800,000 tax-cutting bill. One high-ranking Democrat predicted the veto would come today, while others did not expect it until Friday.

The President has until midnight Monday, April 5, to act on the measure.

Many Democrats as well as Republicans say the necessary two-thirds vote needed to override the veto can be mustered despite increases in funds for the armed services, which they think Mr. Truman will emphasize in his veto message.

Congress upheld Mr. Truman's veto of tax-cutting bills last year.

Some Ants Are Antis When It Comes to Work

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—Ants are not busy.

It depends entirely upon which ant you are watching, American Museum of Natural History scientists say. They've just returned from Panama and a five-month study of ant behavior there.

They report 40 per cent of the ants spend their time lolling about the nest all day, 40 per cent are good workers and the remainder work just occasionally.

Truman Honored by Scottish Rite

President Truman yesterday was made an emeritus member of honor of the Northern Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite.

The jewel and diploma were presented at the White House by Senators Martin (R., Pa.), Bricker (R., Ohio) and Saltonstall (R., Mass.) and other members of the Supreme Council.

Tangier Sound Crabbing Favored By Commission

Annapolis, Md., March 31 (A.P.).—The opening of Tangier Sound to crab pots was recommended today by the State Tidewater Fisheries Commission as "an economic necessity."

The use of crab pots is now permitted in nearby Virginia waters, in Chesapeake Bay, the Potomac River, Pocomoke Sound and Chincoteague and Sinepuxent Bay.

Maryland has banned the devices in other bay tributaries as a conservation measure.

"Any principle of conservation that is built on inefficiency is unsound," Chairman John E. Clark commented as the commission voted 2-0 to lift the ban in Tangier Sound, Somerset County, in the lower part of the bay.

Less effective crabbing by hand is permitted throughout Maryland.

The commission also voted to recommend that the number of crab pots permitted each licensed fisherman be increased from 35 to 50.

Both proposals will be taken up by the Board of Natural Resources at its April 12 meeting, the commission said.

2 Who Want the Moon Told They Must First Pay It Visit

If you want to own a slice of the moon your chances are as good as anybody's, but you'll have to visit the place first.

That, at any rate, is what Interior Secretary Krug told a couple of Pennsylvanians yesterday when he gently rejected their demand that the Government ratify their claims to the pale planet. The Pennsylvanians are Robert D. Eaton and Charles W. Honhold of Sewickley, who filed a claim to the moon March 1.

Krug got together with Director Marion Clawson of the Bureau of Land Management and came up with this answer: They don't know who owns the moon, but they feel sure the United States doesn't.

And anyway, they said, if Eaton and Honhold want to file a valid claim they'll have to visit the moon, look the place over and certify that they are personally familiar with it.

Even then their trip might be wasted. There is now no land office on or near the land in question, Krug wrote, "and the Department has no present plans for the opening of land offices for that purpose on the moon."

Western Boasts Doughty Heroine

By Richard L. Coe

THE METROPOLITAN, which takes to Westerns with the relish of a Louella Parsons to her Sunday night soapbox, ought to be happy this week. In "Relentless" the Met has a good, colorful Western that ought to please lovers of the horse country.

In it you'll find the usually polite Robert Young as the right-thinking, put-upon hero. But for our money the most welcome figure in the cast is dark, blue-eyed Marguerite Chapman, who plays a heroine who acts like a heroine and doesn't just set around when her man needs help.

The story, too, is several cuts above the average open spaces parade and, decked out in Technicolor, Columbia's outdoors looks mighty alluring.

That story, though, is too intricate for this reporter to handle in a few sentences. Briefly, it concerns Young, as a cowman who only wants to raise a race horse, and Miss Chapman as the proprietor of a covered wagon general store. It looks to Sheriff Willard Parker that Young killed a couple of no account prospectors, and he spends the picture chasing all over the hot desert for Young. But Margaret gets around a lot, too; she's always covering up for Young because she senses that a man with such a fondness for animals couldn't possibly be guilty of murder.

There is a good, steady pace to all this and a finale in which Young finally sits it out with Villain Barton MacLane. A sub-plot involves Akim Tamiroff. As in all Westerns, the outcome is never in doubt; the only question is how and when.

Young makes the hero an understandable fellow. The part's better written than most of this type, and while Young isn't any Randolph Scott so far as the fights are concerned, he's okay. The Chapman girl is definitely all right and she looks mighty fine in Technicolor. There are some grand shots of a handsome colt who, on his mother's death, is nursed by as likable a donkey as ever hit the screen.

It's all mighty wholesome and the boys—growing and adult—will end it good.

"Hedda Gabler"

PRODUCTIONS, INC. is offering a well-thought-out "Hedda Gabler" in its intimate playhouse at the real of 2118 Massachusetts ave.

The growing group's drama is particularly welcome, for our town hasn't seen an Ibsen play in some time. And anyone who's interested in the theater is missing a lot if he's been neglecting his Ibsen.

Hedda, in case you've forgotten, is a nineteenth century Regina Giddens, the cold, unscrupulous woman whom Lillian Hellman gave us in "The Little Foxes." Hedda embodies selfish individualism, an egoist whose futility brought her to a suicide which led Shaw to remark that "the tragedy of Hedda in real life is not that she commits suicide, but that she continues to live."

Horton Foote's production of this Ibsen masterpiece is particularly happy in the group's intimate playhouse. From the rise of the curtain you are conscious of being in the villa to which George Tesman has taken his ambitious bride to live. Melvin Bourne's setting and lights contrive to ease the audience into the Tesman living room with cunning effect.

The casting is especially fortunate in the two pivotal feminine roles, Beatrice Newport, as Hedda, and Barbara Joyce, as Mrs. Elvsted. Their first-act scene, in which Hedda quickly grasps the fact that Mrs. Elvsted has brought peace and the fruition of his talents to her one-time suitor, Lovborg, is worthy performance of a splendid scene.

A Masterful Play

Russell Foster, as the honest, boring husband; Paul Ballantyne, as the blackmailing judge who guesses that Hedda has sent Lovborg to his death; Patricia Coates, as the old-fashioned aunt whose ways are anathema to Hedda; Leo Lucker, as Lovborg, and Clar Thomas complete the cast.

But over them all towers the playwright. It's 55 years now since Ibsen's tightly woven play startled the theatrical world it was eventually to transform. His success has been so complete that, paradoxically almost, some of the points he makes have now been made so often that shortcuts might be made here and there in his lines. Audiences are quicker to grasp situations which needed careful exposition in his day.

Still, "Hedda Gabler" is a masterpiece of a vital playwright. And for bringing it from the library into rounded reality, for those to whom Ibsen is just a Norwegian's name, Productions, Inc., deserves a round of applause.

The play will continue nightly, Monday's excepted, through April 10. Phone reservations may be made at Adams 1040 or Adams 4112.

"RELENTLESS." Columbia release of Cavalier Productions. Screen play by Winston Miller from a story by Kenneth Perkins. Director of Photography, Edward Cronjaeger. Technicolor by Natalie Kalmus. Music by Marlin Skiles. Directed by George Sherman. At the Metropolitan.

Anti-Truman Blocs May Get Together

Senator Johnston Pushes Session, Calls It for Best Interests of Party

By The Associated Press

A meetin of anti-Truman Democrats from all sections of the United States was predicted yesterday by Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.).

A group of Southern Democrats already has planned a May meeting in Mississippi to advance their fight to withhold the Presidential nomination from President Truman.

And from Columbia, S. C., today came a call for Southern State Democratic chairmen to meet at Atlanta, Ga., April 12 and 13 to develop further plans for opposing Mr. Truman's civil rights program.

[The Callup Poll in next Sunday's Washington Post will report results of an exhaustive survey of voter opinion in the Southern States on the controversial civil rights program sponsored by President Truman—Editor's Note.]

Senator Johnston said a South Dakota Democratic leader, whose name he did not disclose, had suggested the Nation-wide anti-Truman conference.

The South Carolinian said such a session would be scheduled by Democratic leaders who opposed the President.

Johnston also told a reporter he plans to confer soon with Edward J. Flynn, New York Democratic national committeeman, on the possibility of New York taking the lead in disavowing Mr. Truman as a candidate.

He made that suggestion to Flynn recently in a letter. He said Flynn replied that: "The subject can hardly be disposed of by correspondence. I hope that if you are in New York you will get in touch with me so that we can talk the entire matter over."

Johnston said he had been discusing opposition to Mr. Truman with Democratic leaders from other States, including West Virginia and Oklahoma.

One Democratic leader sent him a copy of a letter to J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, suggesting that the committee conduct a survey of the party "as was done by Jim Farley in 1932."

"If President Truman knew the true situation," this Westerner wrote, "he would step aside and aid in selection of a candidate who could win."

W. P. Baskin, chairman of the South Carolina Democratic executive committee, issued the call for the Atlanta conference of Southern State chairmen. The Democratic State chairmen of Florida, Georgia and Louisiana joined in the call.

"We hope this conference will be the forerunner of a large conference of State Democratic leaders to coordinate efforts to preserve local self-government and States' rights," Baskin said.

Meanwhile the scramble for the Republican presidential nomination was on in earnest. The next decisive test is the Wisconsin primary next Tuesday, when Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and Harold E. Stassen fight it out for 27 delegates.

Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.), who is backing Stassen, told a reporter last night Stassen has a chance to "knock Governor Tom Dewey clear out of the Republican Presidential race" in that primary.

"If Stassen forces can get twice as many delegates as Dewey next Tuesday I honestly believe we can eliminate Dewey from the race," McCarthy said.

He has just returned from a campaign swing in Stassen's behalf through the State. He conceded there is considerable MacArthur sentiment, but he added:

"Stassen supporters believe that General MacArthur's support has passed its peak."

Dewey has arranged a last-minute political speaking tour through Wisconsin late this week. Next week he hits Nebraska, tuning up for that State's "popularity contest" Presidential preference primary which isn't binding on the delegates.

Democrats took to television last night to celebrate the 160th anniversary of the party's national committee. A four-city hookup linked Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Senate Rejects Student Aid Restrictions

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

By a vote of 80 to 5 the Senate yesterday crushed a move to forbid any State using Federal education funds to aid pupils in parochial or non-public schools.

The vote came on an amendment offered by Senator Forrest C. Donnell (R., Mo. who argued that it was necessary in order to preserve the constitutional provision for separation of church and state.

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), author of the measure to provide 300 million dollars in Federal funds to help the states educate America's children, opposed the Donnell amendment.

Sees State Right Violation

Taft said adoption of the amendment would violate the states' rights principle of the measure under which each state can decide whether or not it will use Federal funds to extend any aid to sectarian or private schools.

Senators who joined Donnell in voting to ban aid to any parochial schools were:

Senators Olin D. Johnson (D., S. Carolina); John L. McClellan (D., Ark.); W. Lee O'Daniel (D., Tex.), and William B. Ulmstead (D., N. Carolina).

Taft accepted and the Senate by a voice vote adopted an amendment introduced by Senator Tom Connally (D., Tex.) designed to forbid appropriation committees from attaching anti-segregation riders to funds to carry out the education program.

Taft said the amendment was consistent with the "home-rule" theory of the bill which is designed to aid States with Federal funds but leave all control over education in State hands.

Not in His Message

President Truman's Commission on Civil Rights suggested that Congress could break down segregation by withholding Federal funds from States that practice it. The President, however, did not include the recommendation in the civil rights message to Congress that sparked the growing Southern Democratic revolt against Mr. Truman.

The Senate, which is expected to reach a vote today, will start consideration of an amendment introduced by Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) designed to extend constitutionally permissible aid to parochial and private schools in all States.

McMahon has asked that five million dollars be set aside to give bus transportation, school health services and nonreligious textbooks to all nonpublic tax-exempt schools.

Taft told the Senate last night he hoped it would reject the McMahon amendment for the same reasons he had opposed the amendment offered by Donnell.

Also an Interference

The McMahon amendment, Taft said, would also interfere with a State's rights to decide educational policy, since it would supply Federal aid to sectarian schools even in States whose State constitutions forbid it.

Nats Rally to Tie Kansas City in 11 Innings, 14-14

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

ORLANDO, FLA., March 31.—Bucky Harris may have sensed things when he demanded a couple of more pitchers from the Yankees' proprietors and then swung the deals for Red Embree and Ed Lopat, a couple of good ones. If he was reasoning that the Yankees weren't going to hit much, he has been completely correct to this point.

POVICH

The Yankees haven't been hitting a lick all spring. The other day they could stir up only two runs in 17 innings against the Red Sox. Before that, they were held to one hit by Ewell Blackwell of the Reds. Just yesterday, Murry Dickson of the Cardinals pitched a no-hitter against 'em. Every other club in the American League ought to be taking heart from the Yankees' futility.

But the smart clubs won't. Spring training is only spring training. The pressure is on nobody but the rookies who have to make a big splash quickly or go back to the minors. The fellows who do hit in the spring prove only that they are spring hitters, as a rule. Ralph Kiner of the Pirates batted only .091 in the South last year. Didn't hit a homer. When the season was done, he had hit 51.

STEVE O'NEILL, manager of the Tigers, whose club has been hitting even less than the Yankees in Florida, blames it all on the backgrounds in the Florida parks. "The hitter is looking into a background of trees and bushes, or at low clouds," he says. "Wally Moses, of the Red Sox, was beaned the other day. It's a wonder more of 'em aren't hurt badly."

He can't understand big league owners, O'Neill says. They spend young fortunes for players, give them all the creature comforts of the best hotels, hire 20-man scouting staffs and run baseball schools, and then play in parks that are ridiculous. "All they need is a green fence in centerfield, high enough to provide a good background, and it wouldn't cost them a thousand dollars," he says.

The epidemic of sore arms, lame ankles and damaged knees O'Neill blames mostly on the poor diamonds and the early starting date. "We bring our own groundkeeper to Florida," he pointed out, but no other club does. The infielders who don't shy away from hard hit balls have more courage than sense. And this March 1 starting date is ridiculous. The pitchers hurry to get into shape, and come up with sore arms."

AS FOR THOSE guys who are hitting well in the spring, particularly the rookies who make a splurge with their bats, Buck Newsom holds them in some contempt. Newsom is presently unemployed but he was around long enough to draw some conclusions, and he expresses them freely.

"The good hitters will hit when the season starts," says Newsom, "but those kids with the fancy batting averages in Florida will find it tougher when the bell rings. That's when clubs start holding those pregame meetings and the pitchers are told where and how to pitch to certain guys. In the spring, the pitchers just throw. I know. I liked to pitch to a guy's strength in the spring just to see if I could get away with it. When the season opens, you don't take those chances."

Newsom has his own explanation for spring hitters, the guys who bat .350 until the end of June, and then can't buy a hit. "They're tired hitters by July, and that's the difference. The old snap is gone. They don't retain their same good physical condition. The bat feels heavy to 'em, and they're no threat."

NEWSOM COULD have been talking about Pat Mullin, the Detroit outfielder, who was a six-week sensation last season. Up until the first of June, Mullin was the toughest guy in the league to get out. He batted .440 and hit 14 home runs. Two thirds of his hits were for extra bases. The games Mullin won for the Tigers in April and May enabled them to finish second.

But at the season's end Mullin was a mere .256 hitter, and without a regular job in the Detroit outfield. Manager O'Neill ignored him in the last three months of play. But he can't ignore Mullin's habit of hitting in the spring, and until he slumps Mullin will be in there for the Tigers this season.

The Nats have a similar situation. Their best spring hitter is Catcher Al Evans. Jake Early is rated a better receiver, but Evans will get all the work for a couple of months at the start of the season. If they look with scorn on him merely as a spring hitter, at least they want to get out of him those hits he can make in the spring.

Yanks Back In Form, Top Cards, 6 to 2

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 31 (AP).—Bouncing back after having been fed a no-hitter yesterday, the New York Yankees banged out 10 hits including a two run homer by Billy Johnson, to best the St. Louis Cards, 6-2, today. The Yangee triumph evened the series between the teams at four victories for each.

The Cards were held to seven hits by Red Embree and Karl Drews, the former going the first six innings to gain the decision over George Munger. Munger was clipped for four runs and seven hits in four innings. John Lindell of the champs continued in his batting slump, but Cliff Mapes and Joe DiMaggio resumed production, with one hit and one run driven in for each.

It was the champs' fourteenth exhibition win, compared with eight lost and one tied.

Braves Beat Red Sox

Bradenton, Fla., March 31 (AP).—Ernie White pitched three innings of hitless baseball, needing only 19 pitches to retire nine Red Sox batters, as the Boston Braves defeated the Sox 4-1 today.

In all the Sox were limited to five hits by the Braves' trio of White, fighting to come back, Ed Wright and the veteran Clyde Shoun.

The Sox tied the contest 1-1 in the fifth on Ted Williams' 425-foot triple to center and a long flyout by Jake Jones. Williams was the first of the American Leaguers to reach first base.

Triples by Al Dark and Jim Russell and Earl Torgeson's long flyout gave the Braves two more runs in their half of the fifth and Clint Conatser homered in the eighth for the final run for the National Leaguers.

Kids See Giants Drill

Phoenix, Ariz., March 31 (AP).—Taking time out from their exhibition game schedule, the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates today ran through workouts under the watchful eyes of about 5500 grade school boys and girls.

The New Yorkers held an intrasquad game which the B squad won from the A team, 7-2. Pittsburgh ran through only a light drill during its two-hour stand with the regular batting and fielding drills.

Coan's 2-Run Inside-Park Homer in 9th 'Saves Face'

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 31.—Gil Coan whacked a face-saving home run for the Nats with two out in the ninth inning today and they achieved a 14-all tie with the Kansas City Blues of the American Association. It ended after eleven innings when darkness rescued the embattled pitching from further punishment.

The two clubs bashed out 38 hits 21 by the Kansas City farm hands of the Yankees, who at one point were bustling along with an 11-3 lead.

Coan's homer was a bit on the dramatic side. The Nats needed two runs to tie the game in the ninth, two were out, Eddie Lyons was on first base, and there were two strikes against Coan.

He drilled the next pitch by Charley Schanz, former Philly right-hander, on a line into deep center field and whizzed around the diamond for an inside-the-park homer.

Kyhoski, Bauer Hard on Hurlers

The Nats' pitching, as you may suspect, and as the box score testifies, wasn't much. At least not until Tom Ferrick and Young Dick Welteroth took over and held the Blues runless in the last three innings. Dick Kyhoski, K. C., first baseman and Outfielder Hank Bauer collected nine hits by themselves.

Rookie Joe Jones, the Nats' starting pitcher, and Vernon Curtis and Hal Toenes, who followed him, virtually pitched themselves back to Chattanooga by their performance in the first six innings.

Sherry Robertson's loud homer over the right field wall in the second inning tied it again at 3-3. Then the Blues got tough.

They whacked out four hits and four runs in the fifth inning against Jones and Curtis, and in the sixth they banged six hits and four more runs against Curtis and Toenes.

Nats Bounce Back

The Nats had themselves a couple of big innings in the sixth and seventh batting around in both sessions. Two-baggers by Yost and Pinchhitter Larry Drake, and singles by Christman and McBride figured in four runs in the sixth.

In the seventh, five singles in a row by Yost, Wooten, Jake Early, Ferrick and Christman helped produce five more runs.

But the Nats went into the ninth trailing, 14-11. They commenced the innig nicely, when Pinchhitter Culberson singled, but the innards appared to go out of the rally when Christman hit into a double play. But Lyons weighed in with a single to set the stage for Coan's sumptuous swat.

Graziano Faces Heavy Slate While Here

If Rocky Graziano visits all the people and organizations that want to see him he'll have little time to complete training for his Monday night fight with Sonny Horne here.

Although he doesn't arrive until tonight, he has already received many requests, including one from a 20-year-old bedridden youth who calls the middleweight champ "my favorite sports guy."

Promoter Goldie Ahearn yesterday completed the show by announcing four six-round prelim bouts. Joe Gannon, local middleweight, is pitted against Sid Miller of New York; Bobby Bell, Youngstown, Ohio, vs. Young Lee Q. Murray, featherweights; Jimmy Taylor, New York, vs. Roy Miller, Kansas City, and Harold Meredith, Macon, Ga., vs. Al Labarba, New York.

To settle the matter of the percentage of the show going to charity, Ahearn also issued the following statement yesterday:

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that Rocky Graziano will receive only one dollar ($1) from the Liberty Athletic Club for his 10-round fight with George "Sonny" Horne at Uline Arena April 5.

Graziano's end of the purse, 25 per cent of the net proceeds, will be donated by the Liberty Athletic Club to the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

In addition, 10 per cent of the net proceeds from this fight will be donated to Metropolitan Police Boys Club and the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation. This latter percentage donation is to be derived from the overall net proceeds.

The distribution of these funds will be administered by Thomas Morgan, a member of the District of Columbia Boxing Commission.

GOLDIE AHEARN,
Promoter.

Bo Rowland Operates On a Straight Line

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

A very nice guy, but one the Marines would call "one way," pushed out a threatening jaw yesterday at Frog Island and announced, among other things:

"When I speak, everyone will listen!"

He hadn't said the first two words before 60-odd George Washington University football candidates, out for spring training, were listening. When his brief declaration was over you could hear the fish in the Potomac digesting their food.

'Bo' Rowland was merely stating his terms. The new GW coach, 18 hours after arriving from Oklahoma City, was making it perfectly clear that he's the boss of Colonial football.

You got the idea, watching him a while, 'Bo' considers football almost a sacred thing. The way he went at it, you'd think nothing was more important than being in winning shape. If Colonial candidates survive they'll be in that kind of shape, too.

He's a small sort of dynamo, this newcomer with a coaching record of 94 won, 23 lost and four tied. Both he and the line coach he brought with him, another 'Bo' named Sherman, have gravelly Midwestern drawls but there's nothing slow about the way they teach football.

Colonials were tackling with mid-September viciousness yesterday—or else. A puffing hopeful had breath for only one remark . . . "This guy is out for blood!" Another, grinning around a skinned nose, gave off a "Whew" that meant a lot of things.

When it was over Rowland, publicity wise, had the usual things to say . . . "Happy to be in Washington . . . opportunity to build . . . team about as expected . . . little club with big schedule . . ."

The payoff was his answer to a query about the length of spring training.

"We'll be out there working on fundamentals," he said, "just as long as school authorities will let us."

Rieder Meets NCAA Champ

Special to The Washington Post

Madison, Wisc., March 31.—Eddie Rieder, University of Maryland's Southern Conference middleweight boxing champion, will oppose defending NCAA Champion John Lendenski of Wisconsin in the opening round of the three-day NCAA tournament which starts tomorrow at the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse.

Rieder heads a field of seven boxers from three Washington area universities.

Rieder's Terp teammate Andy Quattrocchi drew a first round bye and will start against the winner of the lightweight bout between Catholic University's Johnny Arnold and Don Gerrits of the University of Miami.

Tom Cronin of C. U., will meet John Benglian of Penn State in a first round featherweight bout.

Hoyas Whip Marines, 7-2

Quantico, Va., March 31 (AP).—Georgetown University logged its first baseball victory of the season here today, downing the Quantico Marines, 7 to 2.

Pete Cherinko, ace Leatherneck hurler of the 1947 season, gave out 10 hits including a home run by Frank Alagia.

The collegians picked up two runs in the first inning, added another in the second, a fourth in the fourth and capped their scoring with three runs in the seventh.

Denver Scores 73-64 Win Over Baylor

New York, March 31 (AP).—Ray Lipscomb scored 29 points to lead the Denver Nuggets to victory over Baylor University, 73-64, in the Olympic basketball tryouts consolation game tonight in Madison Square Garden.

The aggressive Texans led at the half, 32-29, but midway in the second period the amateur athletic union team took command on the strength of Lipscomb's deadly shooting, aided by Jim Darden, and quickly built up a safe margin.

The work of Lipscomb and Darden stamped each as a strong contender for the two positions on the Olympic squad allocated to the AAU side of the bracket behind the champions.

A capacity crowd of 18,400 saw the game. Receipts from the tournament will swell the Olympic fund by approximately $35,000.

Turks' 10-Egg Diet Hard for Hungry British to Stomach

London, March 31 (AP).—Turkish wrestlers training for the summer Olympics in London eat 10 eggs a day apiece for breakfast. That builds up stamina, they say.

The British are lucky to get two eggs a week. They have a lot of problems like this to solve. Mexico's team wants to bring in its own brand of cigarettes, duty free. Others want their own wine. The government departments are working on these ticklers.

Stanley George Brisault, catering chief, comments: "Judging by the advance information the British Organizing Committee has received, the diets of some foreign athletes are so lavish they would be too much for the ration-trained British stomachs."

Navy Beats Tribe, 13-6, in Lacrosse

Annapolis, Md., March 31 (AP).—Flashing a powerful attack, the Navy lacrosse team made its 1948 debut a success today by beating Dartmouth, 13-6.

Lee Chambers, Navy attackman from Baltimore, made four goals to lead the scoring. Jack Merriam, Dartmouth captain and close attorney, was the outstanding visiting player. He scored two goals and showed adeptness as a feeder. Navy scored six of its 13 goals in the third period.

Across the Nation

Crisler Remains Strictly 'Mum' About Report of His Leaving

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 31 (AP).—Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, stood strictly "mum" today in the face of printed rumors that he would leave his post as athletic director at the University of Michigan by next June to enter private business.

Crisler, who retired only two weeks ago as Michigan's head coach but announced he would stay on as athletic director, said he had "absolutely no comment" on a report in the Detroit News that he "has negotiated for a position in Chicago that presumably would pay several times his salary of $14,500 at Michigan."

Trainer a Mere 86

Arcadia, Calif., March 31 (AP). Harness horsemen insist years mean nothing in their sport. They even brag about the matter.

But W. O. Reynolds, an owner and trainer, practically overdoes the thing.

He has a stable of 14 pacers and trotters, all ready to race in the Grand Circuit meeting starting at Santa Anita Friday, and the average age of his horses is 12 years. And Mr. Reynolds is 86.

Virginian's Mark Broken

Colchester, Conn., March 31 (AP).—Ten nights in a bowling alley brought Paul Gyome of Colchester a new world's record for 100 games of duckpin bowling.

The 27-year-old southpaw rolled the last of his 10 series of 10 games each last night, finishing with a total of 12,722 for the 100 games. That was 276 pins better than the old record, set December 18, 1940, by Gordon McIlwee of Winchester, Va.

New College Conference

Milwuakee, March 31 (AP)—Formation of an eight-team small college athletic circuit, to be known as the Badger-Illini Conference, was announced today.

Five members of the old Badger State College Athletic Conference—Wisconsin Extension Milton College, Mission House, Northwestern College and Wisconsin Tech—have been joined by three Illinois schools, Concordia of River Forest, Lewis College of Lockport and Aurora College. The conference will start with the 1948 football season.

Nobody Was Singed

Coolidge Buries Episcopal, 20-0

The Calvin Coolidge Colts, 1947 Interhigh baseball champs, opened their '48 season with a surprisingly easy 20-0 victory over Episcopal High yesterday at Alexandria.

Episcopal, defending prep champs of Virginia, committed 10 errors, which together with 15 Coolidge hits, proved disastrous. Pitcher Ed Hughes went the seven-inning distance for the Colts yielding only four singles, walking only one and stirking out 10.

Rod Hegarty, Jess Houston and Stanley (Hank) Greenberg each collected three hits, as the Colts ran their two-year-old winning streak to 20.

Housing 'Situation' Too Hot for Coach; Maryland Eyes Navy's Speedy Dash Man

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

THE SITUATION GOT so hot for Bo Rowland in Oklahoma City he was probably glad to leave and accept the coaching job at George Washington—his house burned down three weeks ago . . . The new GW mentor is credited with developing Brud Holland, the great Cornell end of 1936-37 . . . Hamp Pool, who coached the defunct Miami Seahawks two years ago, was among the unsuccessful Colonial applicants . . . Back from Florida and looking the part is Bill (WOL) Brundige . . . Chairman Heinie Miller of the D. C. Boxing Commission, who did much to arrange the Sonny Horne-Rocky Graziano fight, is now "suggesting" to local promoters that one of 'em grab Lee Savold and pair him against Washington's Jackie Cranford this summer . . .

THERE'S a 210-pound halfback in the Navy (not the Academy) who can run 100 yards in 9.5 seconds at whom Maryland is making goo-goo eyes . . . He visited College Park recently and left Lu Gambino, no anvil-footed fellow himself, 25 yards behind in a 100-yard-dash . . . It would be awful nice for Al Houghton and the other sponsors of the Capital Open if Lloyd Mangrum could bag the Masters championship. That would make two straight years that the Prince Georges club has had the hottest article in golf in its field . . . Last year the "name" attraction was Bobby Locke, who was third to Mangrum in the 1947 local tourney . . . Houghton, incidentally, is turning a deaf ear to requests that he toughen up the course for the 72-hole tourney . . . "Nuts to that," he says, "the people pay to see the pros score and we're going to see that they get their money's worth" . .

CAPT. JOHN AGNEW, former police member of the Boxing Commission, has returned from a Florida vacation which he spent "posing with rhinos and hippos" . . . He's got photographic proof of his "daring" exploits . . . The Navy thought so much of George Bird's performance against the Nats the other day that they messaged all ships and stations of the feat of the former Washington sailor . . . Pitcher Bird slammed a homer for Chattanooga when the Lookouts thumped the Nats . . . When the Caps beat New York here recently and averted a tie between the Knicks and Philadelphia for the Eastern Division title it cost the Knicks a cool $40,000 . . . They were so confident of winning they had already sold tickets for the play-off game in Madison Square Garden and anticipated a sell-out for the event which didn't come to pass . . .

Landon, Wis. Team In Intersectional Tennis Here Today

Landon's tennis team opens its 1948 season today against St. Mary's School of Neenah, Wis. The match begins at 2:15 p. m. at Landon.

It is Landon's first bid to improve on its 1947 ranking as the fifth best schoolboy team in the Nation. It is also Landon's first participation in an intersectional tennis match. St. Mary's comes to Washington on a trip financed by the citizens of Neenah in celebration of Wisconsin's 100th year as a State.

Two baseball games are also on the day's high school agenda. Coolidge, which opened yesterday with an explosive 20-0 win over Episcopal, takes on Woodberry Forest at Orange, Va., and Richard Montgomery of Rockville opens its season against Bethesda-Chevy Chase at B.-C. C. at 2:30 p. m.

District Skaters Place in Colorado

Colorado Springs, Colo., March 31.—Two Washingtonians, Donald Laws and Miss Ann Davies, placed high in the men's and women's novice events as the United States Figure Skating Championships began here today.

Laws took third place in the men's novice school figure division, being beaten out by Richard Dwyer, 12-year-old lad from Los Angeles, and Evy Scottsvold, II, of Berkley, Calif.

Miss Davies was ninth in the women's novice school figure division, which was won by Josephine Barnum of Boston. The tournament continues through Saturday.

Feller Carries Load

Pitching Need Dims Tribe Flag Hopes

(This is the fifth in a series reviewing major league baseball teams.)

By Murray Sinclair

TUCSON, ARIZ., March 31 (AP).—Pitching continues as the Cleveland Indians' biggest unsolved problem.

The Tribe came here a month ago needing added strength on the mound. It breaks camp next Wednesday apparently in the same condition.

In addition, Rob Feller is slow in rounding into shape.

Admittedly taking it easy, Feller has pitched 14 innings in four games this spring. He has yielded 13 hits and 10 runs for no wins and one loss.

Defensively the Cleveland infield is one of the best in the game. The same starting quartet that set a new American League fielding mark of .982 is back intact: Ed Robinson on first, Joe Gordon on second, Boudreau at shortstop and Ken Keltner at third.

IN ADDITION, Elbie Fletcher, Johnny Berardino and Al Rosen make it even more dangerous. And always looming in the background is the Tribe's new vice president, Hank Greenberg. The former American League home-run king doesn't want to play. But he is going to keep in condition—just in case.

There is a wild scramble for the starting outfield jobs. Allie Clark, brilliant prospect from the Yanks; Walt Judnich, from the St. Louis Browns, and Dale Mitchell, may eventually get the call.

To do so they will have to outfield and out-hit some classy competition. Larry Doby, first Negro player to make the American League is impressive. Streamlined Pat Seerey is hitting consistently. Hank Edwards, Thurman Tucker and Hal Peck are contending for positions.

Bob Lemon was on the roster, but didn't start a game until July 31, yet finished with 11 wins to 5 losses. This year he will be ready to go at the start of the season and is expected to win at least 20.

Feller is picked to win 20 to 25 this summer. The big problem develops after the two Bobs.

Don Black, no-hitter from last year, and former Yank Al Gettel are being counted on heavily.

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bowie, Md., March 31.—In a finish tighter than a Scotsman's reputation, E. K. Bryson's Even Break gave a big break to favorite players in a mid-week crowd of 10,000.

The gray gelding out of the mare, Heads I Win, lived up to his dam's name by inching out a victory over Mrs. Alice F. Hecht's Sophocles. Third money in the six-furlong thriller, labelled the Dames Quarter Purse, went to M. Kahlbaum's Good Son.

Winner Pays $4.60

The rivals, both 3-year-olds, were favorite and second choice in the betting. Even Break, bringing Jockey R. J. Martin his second winner of the day, paid $4.60 and was clocked in 1:15 2/5 for the three quarters. The track was fast, but a strong wind swept up the stretch.

Good Son, carrying only 108 pounds, hustled to the front when the field got under way and opened a good advantage in the opening furlong. Sophocles was steadied close up along with Glen Heather and Desert Ration. Even Break, at this stage, was not being hurried and was fifth.

Leaving the backstretch Desert Ration dropped out of it, Sophocles rallied and Even Break began the move that was to be the pay off. Good Son still held a length lead in the stretch. Sophocles then wore him down to take command.

Even Break Gives Last Kick

Martin shook up Even Break and the big fellow responded gradually. Even Break came up on Sophocles. It was either's race with 10 yards to go. Even Break, however, had the most left.

Horses with opposite positions figured in the $43.80 daily double. Morton Newmeyer's Sobre Todos, breaking from No. 1, took the first race at $6 with Martin in the saddle. Viva Teddy, owned by J. H. Melrose of Washington, accounted for the second at $10.40 and started from the outside, No. 12 stall gate.

Jockey Johnny Breen, shaken up in a fall here opening day rode Viva Teddy and then came back to win the third race on Mrs. J. B. Bond's Tink, a $40.40 shot. Tink, first time starting 2-year-old bumped S. W. Labrot jr's Ratine in the stretch. Jockey Willie Saunders registered a foul claim against Breen.

What a Difference a Year Makes Between Leo, Happy

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 31 (AP).—Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler and Brooklyn Manager Leo Durocher met formally on a ball field today for the first time since Leo's season-long suspension in 1947.

Chandler

Durocher

"Good luck, Leo," said Happy.

"Thank you, Commissioner," Leo answered.

Although he posed for pictures with Dodger President Branch Rickey and Chandler, Durocher wore no smile as he returned to the bench.

Chandler suspended Durocher shortly before opening day last season for "conduct detrimental to baseball." He became eligible automatically after the close of the World Series and again signed to manage Brooklyn in early December.

Chandler stopped off here on his swing around the training camps. He plans to visit Washington at Orlando over the weekend.

Jamaica Opens With Strike Off

New York, March 31 (AP).—The International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL) late today withdrew its 6 a. m. strike ultimatum directed against owners and trainers at Metropolitan tracks, clearing the way for tomorrow's opening program at Jamaica.

Jamaica's opening day feature is the $30,000 Paumonok Handicap with 18 entries.

The surprisingly large Paumonok field was attributed to the value of the event, richest 6-furlong race in the East. It was boosted from $20,000 last year.

Among those named was King Ranch's 3-year-old colt, Better Self, a leading Kentucky Derby candidate. Whether Better Self would start, however, depended on any possible overnight scratches.

Skins Release Road Schedule

A single variation from last year marked the 1948 out-of-town National Football League schedule of the Washington Redskins, released yesterday.

Instead of playing the Lions in Detroit, Washington's pro gridmen will travel to Chicago to beard the big, bad Bears in Wrigley Fiel don November 28.

Also on the traveling schedule, besides the usual clashes with other Eastern division teams, is another trip to Milwaukee for a meeting with the Green Bay Packers and a second straight invasion of the Pittsburgh Steelers' stronghold.

PRE-SEASON GAMES

August 22—Sixth Annual East vs. West Intra-Squad Game, Long Beach, Calif., for Long Beach Press Telegram Charities.

September 2—Los Angeles Rams, Memorial Coliseum, Los Angeles, Calif., for Los Angeles Times Charities, Inc.

September 11—Green Bay Packers, Municipal Stadium, Birmingham, Ala., for Junior Chamber of Commerce Charities.

REGULAR SEASON GAMES

September 26—Pittsburgh Steelers, Griffith Stadium.
October 3—New York Giants, Griffith Stadium.
October 10—Pittsburgh Steelers, Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Pa.
October 17—Philadelphia Eagles, Griffith Stadium.
October 24—Green Bay Packers, State Fair Grounds, Milwaukee, Wis.
October 31—Boston Yanks, Griffith Stadium.
November 7—Boston Yanks, Fenway Park, Boston, Mass.
November 14—Detroit Lions, Griffith Stadium.
November 21—Philadelphia Eagles, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa.
November 28—Chicago Bears, Wrigley Field, Chicago, Ill.
December 5—Los Angeles Rams, Griffith Stadium.
December 12—New York Giants, Polo Grounds, New York, N. Y.

St. John's Faces Trenton High In Newport Basketball Tourney

Newport, R. I., March 31.—The St. John's Cadets, champions of Washington, D. C., meet Catholic High of Trenton, N. J., tomorrow night in the first round of the Eastern Catholic Interscholastic Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Other first round games here tomorrow pit LaSalle of Philadelphia against host De LaSalle, St. Joseph's of Manchester, N. H., against LaSalle Academy of New York and Regis of New York against LaSalle of Providence.

Semifinals in the single elimination tourney are slated Friday and finals Saturday.

The Washington representative has the best record, 27-1, and is rated one of the three best bets to win. Others are Regis, runner-up in the tourney last year, and LaSalle, champion of Philadelphia. Regis and St. John's both have five 22 game winning streaks. LaSalle won 18 out of 24 against rugged opposition.

This is St. John's third visit to the Newport tourney in 11 years. In 1938, the Cadets were eliminated in the first round. In 1939, they were beaten out in the finals by St. Peter's of Brunswick, N. J.

Starting tomorrow for St. John's will be Jack George and Al Weaver at forwards, Tom Fannon at center and Vince Durkin and Billy Martins at guards. Leading the Trenton team will be a sharpshooting 6 footer, Eddie Johnson.

GW Scores Six in 5th On 2 Singles

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

In a prize display of typical college baseball form, Harvard allowed George Washington a six-run inning on two singles that enabled the Colonials to open their season with a 14-10 triumph on the Ellipse.

The GW outburst in the fifth inning over came a 6-5 Harvard lead and came about after two were out. Third-baseman Joe Famulette started off by reaching second on two errors by Mort Dunn, Crimson shortstop.

Caruso Drives in Pair

After retiring the next two batters, Pitcher Charley Roche engaged in some target practice, loading the bases by hitting Cavallo and Chernitzky. Tony Caruso promptly knocked two runs across with a sharp single to right.

Pitcher Curley Kuldell, who relieved Starter Pete Cordelli and received credit for the victory, also batted in two with a single through the infield. Kuldell came in from second when Dunn kicked another ball around and Citrenbaum brought the sixth run home after Roche made a wild pitch.

Although there were 24 runs made on 24 hits during the afternoon, the only homer was a man-sized clout in the ninth by GW's Catcher Joe Wapinsky. Wapinsky, football back, had been getting the range with three long flies to the outfield.

McCabe Pours Out Charm, Even Sen. Tobey Takes Sip

By J. A. Livingston

WHEN Thomas B. McCabe, President Truman's nominee for the chairmanship of the Federal Reserve Board, got through with the Senate Banking and Currency Committee on Tuesday, there was no doubt about the outcome of the voting. He'd opened his charm spigot and kept pouring and pouring and pouring. He even got kind words from Chairman Tobey (R., N. H.), a great admirer of Marriner S. Eccles, whom Truman relegated to the vice chairmanship of the board.

Livingston

Said Tobey to McCabe in concluding the hearings: "You came before this committee as the nominee for one of the most important jobs in the country. If confirmed, you can influence the entire monetary and banking structure of the Nation. I felt it was my duty to go into all matters thoroughly—into your activities as foreign liquidation commissioner in selling surplus property abroad and into your attitude on the bank holding-company bill. I have no apologies to make for what I have done. I have no feeling for you but the kindest. I hoped that when we got through these hearings I could vote for you. That is the reason I wanted the green light for my mind, speaking solely for Charles Tobey's position."

UNLIKE at the first four hearings, McCabe was relaxed. He fielded the questions like Napoleon Lajoie and always got the ball to first in plenty of time.

Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.) asked: "Can you explain why the Giannini's, why Transamerica Corp. has expanded like it has?"

McCabe: "You mean you want me to take their side for a moment?"

Fulbright: "I was trying to explore the reasons."

McCabe thought then said: "I'd assume they had in mind, just like the grocery chains, to cover a broad territory. They now operate in five States. They'd develop certain efficiencies from multiple operations. I'd assume they'd sometimes have requests for a large loan which one small bank couldn't handle. Then they could split up the loan among several banks and take care of the customer.

"I would assume also that they figured they could realize larger earnings and that they could develop a personnel policy of bringing men up from the ranks. They could have their own career system. Furthermore, this wide-scale operation would fit in with their collateral activities." In this McCabe revealed a businessman's knowingness. Sure, Transamerica's banks would be inclined to help out Transamerica's commercial enterprises.

TOBEY changed the subject. Did McCabe believe in a strong central bank? he wanted to know.

McCabe said that if confirmed as Reserve Board chairman he would always seek the advice of the officers and directors of the 12 regional banks, their branches, and bankers and businessmen throughout the country. "They're wise men." He'd try to sell legislation to the bankers and the businessmen first—so they'd be prepared for it and therefore wouldn't fight it after it became law.

That riled Tobey, who declared, "But at some time, in a crisis, you have to make up your mind. You have to take a stand."

Patiently, smoothly, unexcitedly, McCabe pointed out that when the Bretton Woods proposals first came up, he explained them in Philadelphia to businessmen and bankers. As the result, "Philadelphia was the one large city in the country that went for it." He continued: "When the British loan was first on the calendar, I went with Judge Vinson, who was then Secretary of the Treasury, to a meeting in Philadelphia and advanced the idea with all my vigor. I am a mild man, but I know when to act. When you're in business and you start way down as I did and you develop that business so that it's one of the leaders in its field, you have to exercise independence and leadership."

"That's just what we wanted to find out," declared Tobey. "We wanted to know whether, in a time of national crisis, you'd listen to the various views of bankers or would you take a definite position? We wanted to know whether McCabe would say that McCabe would rise to an occasion."

MRS. McCABE, a regular attendant at the hearings, must have breathed easier at those words. She must have felt that "her man" had made good. He'd demonstrated by his suavity and practical understanding of why men do what they do how he'd become president of Scott Paper Co.

McCabe doesn't make policies as much as permit policies to make themselves—by seeing what people are doing, what they want to do and what their objections are to something else. Then, he tries, as a practical man, to get a policy which he can sell. He's a catalyst among men, as well as a superb salesman.

New York Cotton

New York, March 31 (AP).—Cotton futures closed 70 cents a bale lower to 45 cents higher today. Trading was moderately active and prices moved over a wide range.

Profit-taking and hedging accounted for early losses extending to about $1 a bale. However, the market later rallied as much as $2.55 a bale when leading spot firms resumed covering operations actively in the old crop months. This touched off stop-loss buying in new crop months. Renewed profit-taking pared a good part of the gains toward the close.

TWA Deficit Sliced in Year; Costs Slashed

By S. Oliver Goodman

Trans World Airline showed a 1947 net loss of $8,079,761, but Board Chairman Warren L. Pierson saw some silver among the red clouds.

Pierson

Operating efficiency, he pointed out in the annual report to stockholders, has increased. Of the year's deficit, $5,723,523 was suffered in the first three months.

Cost per ton mile, standard yardstick of efficiency, averaged 35 cents in 1947 for domestic operations, as compared with 43 cents for previous year. For overseas operations it was 67 cents a ton mile, against $1.19 in 1946.

There was no carryback tax refund in the 1947 report, Pierson emphasized. The 1946 net loss of $14,353,237 was after a Federal tax refund of $3,106,000.

TWA's operating revenue last year soared to $78,521,311, against $57,360,993 in previous year.

Pan American Airways Corp., another major air carrier, yesterday reported net income of $2,960,000 for 1947, equal to 48 cents a common share, against $2,983,327, or 48 cents a share, in 1946. PAA reported gross revenues of $142,362,000 last year, as compared with $111,052,942 in 1946.

NEW POSITION: A. E. Giegengack, who recently resigned as Public Printer of the United States, has joined the Equity Group of Investment Companies in a consulting capacity. He will advise on processes, developments and investments in graphic arts field. The Equity Group of New York City has investments in numerous industrial companies which are current or prospective manufacturers of graphic arts equipment. Giegengack resigned his $10,000 a year post with the Government, he said, to accept a new position at a "better than double salary." His wife and daughter still live in Washington, while he works in New York City. Their plans are eventually to move to New York.

NEW ACCOUNTANTS: Thirty-six candidates who passed the November examinations received certificates as public accountants. The ceremony took place at a meeting last night of District of Columbia Institute of Certified Public Accountants in the Mayflower. Millard T. Charlton, secretary of the D. C. Board of Accountancy, presented the certificates. Nine new members were admitted to the local institute.

ODD LOTS: British-made Fords will be sent to this country and Washington will receive some of a planned 1450 cars of all types to be shipped within six weeks . . . Halsey Stuart & Co. were high bidders for $10,995,000 Pennsylvania Railroad equipment trust certificates with a price of 99.609 and a 2¾ per cent coupon . . . Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. will set its Cosair and Marathon prices at slightly below its regular line . . . Washington area dealers will attend a sales conference of Pennsylvania Rubber Co. Friday at Wardman Park Hotel . . . New York Central in annual report said expenditures of 233 million dollars are involved in postwar improvements . . . Stockholders of Mathieson Alkali Works have approved change in name to Mathieson Chemical Corp.

MORE RECORDS: Washington bank clearings in the first three months this year totaled $860,002,645, a new peak for the period and a gain of 9 per cent over the same 1947 period. March clearings reached $308,815,679, an increase of 16 per cent over the $266,648,663 in like 1947 month, according to George H. Bright, manager of the Clearing House Association.

NEW ENTERPRISE: An investment concern to buy up metal and mechanical end-product companies, including wholesale and retail outlets, is trying its wings in Wall Street. The 18-man closed corporation, known as Enterprise Development Corp., includes heirs of Thomas Fortune Ryan and William Rockefeller, noted venture capitalists of their day. The younger men include Clendenin J. Ryan, J. Sterling Rockefeller and Godfrey S. Rockefeller. The syndicate says it has commitments already in excess of five million dollars to purchase going concerns, to finance and modernize them. It adds there will be no public financing. All of that will be done out of the pockets of the members.

EARNINGS: Bendix Aviation Corp. reported consolidated net income of $2,224,306 for the three months ended December 31, equal to $1.05 a common share, compared with $1,385,212, or 65 cents a share in like 1946 period. Other income reports follow:

'Anti-Truman' Bill Is Signed by Tuck

Other New Virginia Laws Include Ban On Fireworks, Annexation Compromise

Richmond, Va., March 31 (AP).—Governor Tuck today signed his "anti-Truman bill to change Virginia's presidential laws.

The measure, much toned down from Tuck's original proposal which would have kept President Truman's name off the ballot if renominated, will become effective June 29.

More than 500 other new laws enacted by the 1948 General Assembly will become effective at the same time.

Fireworks Bill Signed

It provides for printing on the Virginia ballots next fall the names of political parties, as well as of candidates and electors. It will permit the Virginia Democratic Party to put up its own ticket if a State Democratic convention fails to ratify the national party ticket, but it also will assure the national state's appearance on the ballot.

Two other controversial bills signed by the Governor today were the fireworks and annexation bills.

As signed by the Governor, the fireworks bill clamps a State-wide ban on the sale or possession of most kinds of fireworks. Exempted are small firecrackers, Roman candles, pinwheels and other relatively harmless devices.

Annexation Bill Enacted

The annexation bill, accepted by country and city legislators as a compromise measure, instructs courts to consider the best interests of counties and of county residents when they pass on annexation petitions brought by Vir- Virginia cities.

Also signed by the governor today was a House bill providing for a careful hydrographic and biological survey of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. The bill provides $30,000 to finance the study, but Virginia legislators were hopeful that Maryland would chip in $30,000 and the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service another $30,000 to permit a more extensive investigation.

Among other bills to receive the governor's signature was House Bill 216, providing a raise in pay, effective in 1952, for members of the General Assembly. Their compensation will be increased from $12 to $18 per day.

Allen Takes Oath As Assistant State Secretary

George V. Allen, former American Ambassador to Iran, was sworn in yesterday as Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs.

Allen

Allen, 45, is a native of Durham, N. C., and a graduate of Duke University and Harvard. A professional diplomat and former newspaperman, he has now risen to one of the top men in the American foreign service.

The swearing-in ceremony took place at Secretary of State Marshall's office in the presence of Undersecretary of State Lovett, top diplomatic officials and members of Allen's family—Mrs. Allen, George, jr., 12, and Jack, 10.

Allen returned here several weeks ago from Tehran and until today had divided his time between Iranian affairs and his new duties as Assistant Secretary, a post formerly held by William Benton.

Va. High Court Gets Arlington School Case

Attorneys for the old Arlington County School Board contesting the legality of the recently elected board yesterday filed a brief supporting their claims before the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals.

The old board had been appointed by county school trustees, a practice that was ended when the General Assembly passed an act last year, providing in part, for a special election to name school board members. The election resulted in the ousting of the old board.

Former members of the school board challenged the constitutionality of this enactment, but the Circuit Court of Arlington County held that the 1947 act was constitutional.

The major argument of the plaintiffs in the case is that the 1947 act constituted a local law relating to elections, in violation of a provision of the State constitution. In their brief, counsel for the petitioners said:

"It is interesting to note that the General Assembly passed the Arlington city charter containing that special election feature without a whimper, but when he House of Delegates, on February 10, 1948, passed the Richmond City charter containing a clause concerning elections, 58 members, a clear majority, adopted a resolution that their votes 'should not be construed as a legislative declaration that the primary prohibition clause . . . is constitutional.'

"Perhaps they feel that it is more important to observe the requirements of section 63 of the constitution in the capital city than in outlying portions of the commonwealth.

Woman Wins $115,000 For Faulty Operation

San Francisco, March 31 (AP).—A London dress designer has been awarded $115,000 damages from a plastic surgeon as the result of a breast operation she charged disfigured her.

Mrs. Stella Gluchstein, 50, testified the tip of one breast had been misplaced by the operation, which was designed to remove excess fat.

Mrs. Gluckstein's attorney said she will return to London soon for additional surgery.

Arlington Farms To Accept No New Occupant After May 15

FARMS: No additional Government girls in this city will be permitted to move into the low-rent Government owned and operated dormitories at Arlington Farms. Yesterday was the last day reservations were accepted from G-girls here.

However, applications from girls who plan to come here to work for Uncle Sam will be accepted through April 15, but they must be here in person by May 15. In other words, no new occupant will be accepted after May 15. None of the G-girls who now live at the Farms will be affected by the order.

The "stop" order was issued by Public Housing Administration. It puzzles a good many people. The Farms have 3400 G-girl tenants and accommodations for 3660. So, the obvious question is: Why not use the war housing so long as it's available?

No satisfactory answer was forthcoming yesterday. One official surmised: (1) that there was ample housing here for G-girls; (2) that the Farms was built for warworkers and that this is peacetime, and (3) that the Farms, like other war housing, is a temporary proposition that must be closed out in a large measure by July 25 of next year, unless Congress extends FHA's authority to operate the projects.

An average of 150 girls leaves the Farms each month which means that the dormitories there will be gradually closed. Meantime, a big group of GI girls are petitioning Congress to approve the construction of permanent low-rent dormitories.

PERSONALS: B. T. Fitzgerald is the new assistant administrator for program of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. He'll also continue as HHFA general counsel. A. H. Zwerner, associate general counsel, also has been given a second job—director of the law division. A third change put Joseph H. Orendorff in charge of war and veterans' reuse housing.

RETIREMENT: A bill that would give Treasury agents the privilege of retiring at 50 after 20 years' service was ordered broadened to include all Federal workers who are engaged in enforcement and hazardous occupations.

The suggestion that the bill be modified came from Warren Irons, chief of the Civil Service Retirement System. Irons also suggested that the Civil Service Commission be given the authority to decide which occupations were "hazardous." His recommendations were seconded by Luther Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes.

Chairman Hagen of the House Civil Service Subcommittee in charge of the bill asked Irons to draw up amendments incorporating his views.

Earlier, Treasury Secretary Snyder indorsed the Senate-approved Johnston bill. In short, he said his T-men should get the same pension benefits as G-men. A year ago Congress gave FBI agents the right to retire on a full pension at 50 after 20 years of service. Other Federal people in similar work must be at least 60 and serve a minimum of 30 years to get the same annuity.

Snyder said it was discriminatory and inequitable to give FBI agents a more generous pension than other employes in similar work.

PAY PROGRESS: This is the "showdown" day on the Federal pay raise issue. The full Civil Service Committees of both the House and the Senate are slated to meet this morning on the problem.

The House committee will debate the Rees bill, which would give most employes a flat boost of $468, or $9 a week, as of April 1. This bill already has the approval of the nine-man subcommittee.

The Senate committee will debate several pay bills. Among them are the Langer bill of a minimum increase of $1000 for each employe, various bills for an $800 flat increase and the Flanders omnibus bill, which would give postal employes a flat $500 increase and raise Classification Act employes an average of $300 each.

With all due respect to Chairman Langer, his $1000 bill has no chance of approval. In the Senate, it boils down to a minimum amount, proposed in the Flanders bill, or else perhaps a more generous amount, especially for the 800,000 Classification Act people.

The Flanders bill is one of the very few in Congress that would crack the unrealistic $10,000 ceiling on Classification Act salaries. It also would overhaul the Classification Act to put jobs and salaries in their proper relation. This job has to be done eventually.

It was an open secret on Capitol Hill yesterday that several leaders in both the House and the Senate were angling for both the Rees and Flanders bills to pass; that they planned to write a new bill in the Senate-House conference that would include the Rees flat amount, plus the Flanders Classification Act revision and Classification Act salaries over $10,000. That would make an excellent bill.

Sailor Guilty in Sex Case

Robert H. DeBolt, 18, a sailor stationed at Bethesda Naval Hospital, yesterday was convicted in Montgomery Circuit Court at Rockville of "unnatural sex practices" involving a 14-year-old boy on last December 6. DeBolt testified yesterday he had been drinking and remembered nothing of the incident. Judge Stedman Prescott deferred imposition of sentence.

5-Day Week Favored for D. C. Firemen

A five-day work week for Washington firemen—to take effect six months after the necessary money is provided—was approved yesterday by the Senate District Committee.

The committee voted 4-3 to approve the five-day week bill which passed the House last year, but with an amendment eliminating the House plan to start the shorter work week next July 1.

Firemen now work a six-day week. The new bill would not affect the present daily firemen's shifts—10 hours on the day side and 14 hours on the night side.

Other Bills Approved

The Senate committee, headed by Chairman C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.) also approved these bills:

1. The bill of Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) to take the 5 per cent District business franchise tax off the income from sales by firms which maintain neither an office, warehouse, or other place of business in the District. The bill would be effective as of last January 1.

2. A House-approved bill to change the District law on insurance rate fixing to permit the insurance business to operate here without regard to the antitrust laws. The bill follows the general pattern of state laws passed after the Supreme Court in 1944 held that insurance was subject to the Sherman Antitrust Act when conducted across State lines.

House Measures Cleared

3. Three other House approved bills cleared by the Senate Committee would (1) fix the pay of Alcoholic Beverage Control Board members under the Federal classification act; (2) permit the District to license doctors for practice here without examination if they are certified as having passed a national board examination, and (3) modify the law on learners' driving permits to permit an expanded driver-training program in the District high schools.

Meanwhile, Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) introduced a House bill which would treat pensions of all firemen who retire here after 25 years in the department as though they were granted for a disability incurred in line of duty. District officials said the main result of the bill would be to exempt much retirement pay from Federal income taxes.

Bates Arranging Meeting Next Week With Andresen on Revenue Proposals

By Edward F. Ryan, Post Reporter

Representative George J. Bates (R., Mass.) said yesterday the choice of taxes to finance an increased city budget is still "wide open."

Bates said his District fiscal affairs subcommittee has not shout the door to any method of raising revenue necessary to keep city services adequate.

He said a sales tax will be considered, but so will increased property taxes, increased city income taxes, and all other possible sources of needed revenue.

Bates said he is arranging an informal meeting of his subcommittee next week with House District Committee Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) to explore what should be the tax policy for the city in the next fiscal year.

Against 3% Sales Tax

It will be the first meeting of the House fiscal affairs subcommittee since public hearings in which the District Commissioners urged adoption of a general 2-percent retail tax to finance the last 6 million dollars of their proposed 101-million-dollar budget for the next fiscal year.

Bates came out with a series of "No's" when asked if he was ready to accept the proposal of Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.) chairman of the District budget-writing subcommittee, for a 3-per cent sales tax. It would be designed to cover both the present deficit in the proposed budget, and the extra deficit that would result if a $468-per-person Federal pay increase bill were applied to the District employes.

Horan's subcommittee yesterday heard top District officials outline some of the alternative revenue-raising plans that would be needed—in addition to the 2-per cent retail sales tax next year—if the city employes get the proposed Federal pay boost.

Income Tax Extension Revived

Among the alternatives were:

1. Extending the District income tax law to apply to all residents—a move blocked last year in the House. Present law keeps the local income tax off the official salaries of Federal employes here who have a legal domicile in a state.

2. A Federal loan.

3. Another increase in real and personal property tax rates—boosted last year from $1.75 to $2 per $100.

4. An increase in the Federal payment, increased last year from four to 8 million dollars.

Bates said he still thinks a sales tax is the most unfair kind, and one that will fall particularly hard on low-income groups if food and medicine are not exempt. Bates said, too, that the proposed city budget should be trimmed by at least two million dollars by deferring public construction items to that amount.

AA Organization Put Off; Sponsor Falls Off Wagon

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 31. The first attempt to organize a chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous here ended futilely this week. Floyd Vincent Ritter, the sponsor, landed behind jail bars on a drunkenness charge about the time the group was scheduled to organize. The organization, Ritter said, would be postponed.

Ritter told a reporter he was more determined than ever to try to form an Eastern Panhandle unit. As soon as he is released from jail he says he plans to make an effort in Charles Town in adjoining Jefferson County. He said he started drinking the last time while trying to help an acquaintance sober up.

Regent of Belgium, Prime Minister To Visit Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., March 31 (AP).—Prince Charles, Regent of Belgium, and Urime Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, now en route to America, will visit the Naval Academy next week.

Guns will be fired 21 times in salute and four ruffles and flourishes and the Belgian national anthem will be played. Governor and Mrs. Lane will attend a luncheon for the party.

3 More Maryland Builders Indicted

Baltimore, March 31 (AP).—A second set of indictments yesterday added three to the number of building contractors charged with cheating veterans.

Also named were two city officials accused earlier. The indictments resulted from a grand jury investigation of complaints of some 2000 local veterans who had financed new homes with GI loans.

Accused of conspiracy to violate municipal building codes and to construct houses below purchase specifications were: Fairview Gardens, Inc.; Walter J. and Walter E. Crismer and Eugene P. Martin, officers of the firm; Herman F. Lucke, jr., former city buildings engineer. Another firm and five of its officers face similar charges.

New Cheltenham Board Asks Move Nearer Baltimore

Cheltenham, Md., March 31 (AP). The new board of managers of the Cheltenham School for Boys recommended to Governor Lane last night that the institution for Negro delinquents be moved to a site nearer Baltimore.

It was the first official recommendation of the all-Negro board appointed last month.

Edward N. Wilson, secretary, said a formal report will be made to the Governor as quickly as possible.

Several reasons were given for the desire to move Cheltenham from its present site in Prince Georges County. Most dealt with its remoteness from Baltimore. Ninety per cent of its inmates are from Baltimore. A total of 214 boys are out on parole and are "badly in need of supervision," the board was told.

Navy Plane Crash Laid to Gas Line

Dahlgren, Va., March 31 (AP).—The crash of a Navy torpedo bomber, from which two fliers bailed to safety yesterday, was believed to have been caused by a broken gas line.

Commander T. . Van Metre, public relations officer of the Dahlgren naval base, said last night, "it was evidently a gasoline fire, although we don't know definitely, yet."

The pilot, Lieut. Comdr. J. W. Williams suffered second degree burns about the face and hands. The other occupant, Chief Aviation Fire Controlman J. T. Carney, suffered a broken nose, broken ribs and facial bruises and lacerations, Van Metre said.

A TBF Grumman torpedo plane, the craft was on a routine test flight at about 20,000 feet when the fire broke out, Van Metre said. It crashed into the Potomac River.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS (ON ROOF) JOIN IN FIGHTING WALTER REED BLAZE WHICH RAZED "PX"

Ten Patients Defy Order For Transfer

Women Tuberculars At Freedmen's Won't Move to Glenn Dale

Ten women tubercular wards of the District yesterday ignored ambulances dispatched to transfer them from Freedmens Hospital to Glenn Dale Sanatorium and flatly refused to go.

The transfer had been ordered by the District Health Department in an economy move to prevent over-the-budget expenditures.

No attempt was made to remove them by force, but District Health Officer Dr. George C. Ruhland declared last night they'd be moved "summarily" today if they continued to refuse.

The Federally-operated hospital for Negroes had been notified earlier this month that the District would stop payment on their care at Freedmens after March 31.

Speaking for the 10 indigent patients, Miss Nell Dejournette said last night the patients "refused in a body." She said they were "prayerfully" waiting answer from District Commissioners on their plea that they be permitted to continue treatment "under the same doctors who cared for us since we were hospitalized."

Miss Dejournette, one of those slated for transfer, said she had been a patient at Freedmen's for 14 months. Average hospital stay of the 10, she said, is about nine months.

Terming yesterday's action of the 10 patients at "grotesque," Dr. Ruhland declared:

"It is intolerable that patients won't go where they're told when they're receiving treatment at government expense."

He said he would first try to "reason" with them today, and that failing, would determine if the Health Department has authority to move them "bodily."

He said transfer of the patients was necessary since the $400,000 appropriated by Congress for treatment of District patients at Freedmen's this year has already been overdrawn nearly $50,000.

"The rate at Freedmen's is $10.20 a day," Dr. Ruhland explained. "So it costs the District more than $100 a day to keep them there."

Their care in an available ward at Glenn Dale, he said, would be but a small fraction of this.

Vandegrift Sees Parallel In Cancer, Communism

Roanoke, Va., March 31 (AP).—Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, wartime commandant of the United States Marine Corps, today drew a parallel between cancer and Communism as deadly enemies of humanity.

In an address before the Virginia Division of the American Cancer Society formally opening cancer control month within the State, Vandegrift said:

"We must be alert to every danger spot. There is no need to talk in whispers. The cancer fight never was fully started until we learned to use the word without hesitation. And the fight against Communism—the greatest threat to world peace today—demands that we face facts and use the word without flinching."

One Is Spiritualist

3 Women Quizzed on Bank Robbery

A Washington spiritualist and two other women were held yesterday as Alexandria, Va., police sought the $27,000 taken in the robbery of the First National Bank there last June.

An assertion that one man who knew about the robbery was "framed" into prison has added further complications to the investigation.

A 36-year-old former janitor of the bank, David Briggs, has been indicted for the robbery and has, police say, confessed. But Briggs has said he doesn't know where the money is. The loot consisted of about $18,000 in cash and $9000 in checks.

Attorney John M. Holzworth, says his client, J. A. Matthews, was "framed" by the three women because of his knowledge of the bank robbery. Matthews is serving a 10 to 30-year term for carnal knowledge and Holzworth is seeking a writ of habeas corpus for him on grounds that he was framed.

Holzworth, instrumental in bringing the bank robbery charge against Briggs, has announced he will defend him.

The stolen funds, a deposit of the J. C. Penney Co., of Alexandria, had been placed in the night depository.

Alexandria Detective Lieut. Russell Hawes said all-day questioning of the three women yesterday brought no information on whereabouts of the money.

Experts to Survey Teachers Colleges

Baltimore, March 31 (AP).—A group of outside experts will start a survey in about ten days to determine the physical needs of Maryland's State teachers colleges.

Another group will start a study in May on a proposed system of State-wide junior colleges.

Those who will make the teachers' college study are Dr. Walter E. Hager, president of Wilson Teachers College in Washington and of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education; Dr. Roscoe West, president of the State Teachers College at Trenton, N. J., and Dr. Clyde Erwin, State superintendent of public instruction for North Carolina.

Court Action Asked Against Charter Plan

Maryland Constitution Violated, Montgomery Attorney Charges

A court ruling to prevent the proposed Montgomery County charter from being placed on November ballots was asked yesterday by Hubert A. Schneider, a Bethesda lawyer.

The charter, a bitter political issue in the county for years, has been before the voters twice already and is slated for final approval or rejection this fall.

If approved, the charter would replace the preesnt five-man board of commissioners with a seven-member council and a county manager form of government.

Schneider, in his suit, claims there is a legal conflict between the charter as drawn up and the Maryland State Constitution.

In a public announcement, he said his purpose is to "determine conclusively" the meaning of the word, "legislation," in Article XI-A of the State Constitution which permits counties to adopt a charter form of government.

Article XI-A, as it reads literally, limits "legislation" by a county council to one month a year which, in the proposed Montgomery charter, has been designated as May.

The county's budget however, under the charter as drafted, would be enacted in June and opponents claim budget action is "legislation" and therefore in conflict with the State Constitution.

Coal Strike No Worry To West Virginians

Charleston, W. Va., March 31 (AP).—The State Chamber of Commerce said today that apparently nobody in West Virginia is much alarmed about the coal walkout, not even the miners "who are losing 10 million dollars weekly in wages."

In its monthly business review, the chamber said West Virginians apparently "were never better prepared for such a period of economic stagnation as a protracted coal strike will bring on."

Some of the bright spots accounting for this preparedness, the chamber found, were January-February wage payments amounting to 34 million dollars more than last year; a 25 per cent drop in benefits to the unemployed for the same period, and an 80-million-dollar reserve in he unemployment compensation fund.

23,000 'Seconds'

Liquor Stores Ask Right to Sell 'Short' Bottles If So Labeled

Liquor dealers here will seek permission to sell short measure bottles at reduced prices if they are clearly marked as "short" with appropriate stickers.

F. Joseph Donohue, attorney of Milton S. Kronheim, wholesale liquor distributor, said he had written to J. Thomas Kennedy, superintendent of Weights, Measures and Markets, requesting that the corporation counsel be asked for a legal opinion on the proposal.

Kennedy said he hadn't yet received the letter but agreed to forward it to Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West. Kennedy said he personally would oppose sale of short measure liquor bottles under any circumstances.

Approximately 23,000 "short" btotles have been ordered off shelves of about 100 liquor stores here during the past two weeks, Kennedy revealed.

Donohue said most of the short-measure stocks were bottled in wartime when materials were scarce and bottle caps of poor quality, permitting evaporation of contents.

"These bottles," said Kronheim, "are 'seconds'—just like soiled ties or dresses in a department stores. They send them down to the bargain basement and sell them." Short-measure liquor bottles fall into the same category, he declared, and realers should be able to sell them so long as the public is fully aware that they don't contain full measure.

Love Theft Claim

Pilot 'Wed' After Death, Suit Says

How can a man four days dead get married?

The late Capt. Charles A. Lorber, 47, a Consolidated-Vultee test pilot did, according to a $75,000 love theft suit filed yesterday in District Court.

Larber

The suit was filed on behalf of Mrs. Anna H. Lorber of Miami, Fla., one-time wife of the pilot, and names as defendant Mrs. Jacqueline Messer of Washington.

The suit relates that Capt. Lorber obtained a Mexican divorce decree from Mrs. Lorber April 2, 1945, was killed in a plane crash July 20, 1945, and four days after his death was married by proxy to Mrs. Messer in Mexico.

Red Tape Is Explanation

The explanation for the marriage of a dead man was governmental red tape and delay, according to Attorney Benjamin Carey of Miami, who with two other attorneys is representing Mrs. Lorber.

Carey said that shortly before his death, Captain Lorber appeared with Mrs. Messer before a notary public in Yuma, Ariz., and both signed papers making it possible for a proxy marriage ceremony to be performed in Mexico. By the time Mexican authorities got around to making the marriage official the pilot was dead.

In the suit, Mrs. Messer was said to live at 3701 Massachusetts ave. nw., which is the location of the Cathedral Courts. However, the Cathedral Courts said Mrs. Messer was not known there.

Had Five Children

Mrs. Lorber, in her suit, said she and the captain, who once was copilot and mechanic to Charles A. Lindbergh and later a Pan-American Airways pilot, were wed September 28, 1922, and had five children during a happily married life.

She alleges that Mrs. Messer, in July, 1942, "set out to deprive" her of the captain's love and affection and sought to "disrupt and destroy the marriage."

Mrs. Lorber's attorney here is Col. O. R. McGuire.

$250,000 Blaze Perils Wing of Hospital

Post Exchange Burned Out as 4 Alarms, Special Call Are Sent In

By Sam Stavisky, Post Reporter

A spectacular five-hour blaze yesterday gutted the Post Exchange building of the Army Medical Center, and for a time endangered nearby buildings, including a wing of Walter Reed Hospital.

Center officials estimated damage at a quarter of a million dollars.

Four alarms plus a special call brought 27 District engines and trucks to the aid of the reservation's two-engine fire department. All available motorcycle police, together with a special detail from the Sixth Precinct, were rushed to the area, at Georgia ave. and Dahlia st. nw.

Blaze Attracts Hundreds

Hundreds of hospital patients, Center employes, residents in and out of the reservation, and motorists flocked to the scene, attracted by the dense smoke, hurtling flames and screaming fire engines.

Six prisoners and 25 personnel were evacuated from the Center's guardhouse, immediately adjacent to the Post Exchange Building. Forty other persons, working in the Quartermaster building north of the burning PX, also were ordered cleared out, despite an intervening street, because the wind was blowing in that direction.

Roofs of nearby buildings were manned by soldiers as a safeguard against wind-blown sparks and embers.

Origin of the fire was still undetermined last night, and an investigation was underway.

It was believed that an electrical short circuit or a spark from the motor of a ventilation fan ignited the blaze in the false attic over the PX diner or scullery, according to Maj. John Lamond, post engineer and fire marshal.

Was 1917 "Temporary"

The PX building, a one-story wood-and-fiber structure, built as a "temporary" affair in 1917, covers half a city block, and contained the PX exchange, cafeteria, warehouse, and administrative offices. It had been marked for razing as soon as possible.

The frame building had long been recognized as a fire-hazard, according to Major Lamond, and it had been under close inspection. The post fire chief was required to inspect the building every week as a safety measure, and the last inspection had been made four days ago.

"If we'd had Sunday's high wind whipping up the flames," Major Lamond commented, "there would have been grave danger of the fire spreading." He praised the speedy response of the District Fire Department. With all the equipment and manpower—including 150 post enlisted men—it took an hour and a half to get the fire under control. Some fire engines remained on the scene for five hours, wetting down embers.

The fire was discovered a few minutes after 10 a. m. by some of the hospital patients in the PX. It was pay day yesterday, and approximately 100 persons were inside the PX purchasing cigarettes and incidentals.

"I was getting a coke," said Corpl Donald Gentry, a patient, "when I saw smoke coming out of the ventilator shaft. One of the fellows grabbed an extinguisher and went at it but it didn't seem to do any good."

Within a few minutes the post's 13-man civilian fire crew responded with two engines. The PX was ordered cleared via loudspeaker system. The PX customers, including several patients in wheelchairs, withdrew in orderly fashion.

Phones Pull Pastor From Predicament

Twenty or thirty phone calls yesterday got a preacher out of an odd predicament. He had an engagement to speak, but didn't know where.

It happened this way, according to the Rev. John D. Hayes, missionary to China temporarily serving as associate pastor of the National Presbyterian Church, 18th and N sts. nw.:

Dr. Hayes

Several weeks ago he made an appointment via telephone to speak at a Lutheran Church. During the conversation the preacher and the man on the other end of the wire discovered they had a mutual friend, the Rev. Charles Rheinhercht, a missionary who has just returned to China.

It wasn't until yesterday that Dr. Hayes discovered—with a shudder—that he had forgotten to ask the name of the church where he was to speak. He and the church secretaries got busy on the phone; a reporter also called a dozen Lutheran churches in order to help out—but no go.

At 4 p. m. yesterday Dr. Hayes called The Washington Post:

"I've found where I am to speak at last," he said with a sigh of relief. "It is the St. Luke Lutheran Church, Colesville rd. and Highland dr., Silver Spring.

Parking Rates Rise

Monthly parking rates will increase from $3 to $4 today at the parking lot in the rear of new Municipal Center as Arrow Parking Co. takes over operation under a nine-month agreement with the District. President Bernard Segal of the parking firm said, however, the present 25-cent rate for all-day parking will not be increased. . .Negotiations are under way with downtown department stores and Capital Transit Co., he said, to attempt shutle bus service from he parking lo to the downtown area.

250,000 See Exhibit

Attendance at the exhibition of captured German paintings at the National Gallery of Art passed the quarter-million mark since its opening on March 17, assistant director MacGill James reported. . . .The 250,000th visitor was the Rev. Philip J. Jensen, rector of St. Thomas' Church, Garrison Forest, Md. He was one of 26,902 persons who toured the 202-picture exhibition yesterday.

The gallery is open from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. weekdays and 2 to 5 p. m. Sundays.

$1704 in Hospital Fund

A total of $1704 has been received in the annual membership drive of the Prince Georges General Hospital Guild since February 21, Mrs. Harry A. Boswell, chairman of the membership committee, announced yesterday. Funds are used to provide hospital equipment.

$200 for Safety Slogans

A safety slogan contest, with $200 in prizes to be awarded May 10 to Arlington County Elementary, Junior and High School students, was announced yesterday by the newly formed Arlington Junior Chamber of Commerce. The slogan competition, limited to Arlington students, will be judged by the county safety council.

Harold A. Nisley, Brig. Gen. Edwin A. Sibert, Brig. Gen. Patrick E. Timothy, Col. William S. Biddle, Col. Alfred B. Denniston, Col. John H. Hinds and Col. Claude M. Thiele, and Order of Orange-Nassau Degree of Officer, to Maj. C. Craig Cannon.

Record Tax 'Take' Seen

Second-half payments of personal property and real estate taxes probably will reach 18 million dollars this year to set a new District record, Tax Collector Guy Pearson estimated last night.

Yesterday's "take" he said, from approximately 3200 last-minute taxpayers, probably will total close to $1,400,000 despite the fact that last-minute mail returns which would beat the deadline if postmarked before midnight last night, are expected to be light.

Persons who failed to pay before the deadline, Pearson said, will be assessed a 1 per cent a month penalty.

Honor for Rep. Rogers

Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers (R., Mass.), chairman of the House Veterans' Affairs Committee, will receive an honorary membership in the District of Columbia Department, Amvets Auxiliary, when the department installs its new officers April 9.

Speakers at the ceremony, to be held at 8 p. m. in the Caucus Room of the Old House Office Building, will include Representative Frank A. Mathews, jr. (R. N. J.) and Esther C. Corry, jr., national commander of the organization.

The new officers include Mrs. Lillian Garnett, president; Mrs. Helene Jones and Mrs. Louise Wilkins, vice presidents.

60-Foot Leap

Taylor St. Bridge Death Ruled Suicide

District Coroner Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald last night issued a certificate of suicide in the death of Benjamin Harrison Foster, 59, who jumped 60 feet from the Taylor st. bridge into Brookland ave. ne. yesterday morning.

Mr. Foster, a former gasoline station operator, of 413 Circle ave., Takoma Park, Md., left a note on the floor of his car, found parked on the south side of the bridge, police reported. The note read, "Goodbye and God bless you. Call Shepherd 6489 and notify my wife," according to police, and was unsigned.

Neighbors said the victim had apparently been in poor health. The couple had no children, they reported.

The Washington Post

TOO LATE—A few minutes after the auto license tag window in the Municipal Building closed yesterday afternoon, this group was left standing in the hallway. They could still get applications, but not tags. However, they will have another chance today. The District reported sales of 4277 sets of license plates yesterday—final day for using old ones—bring the total for March to 132,069. This figure was 13,846 over March sales last year and higher than previous years as far back as 1942. Police began arresting drivers using old District tags at midnight last night

Rice Mill Asks Writ in Suit Against Arabia

District Court was asked yesterday to issue an injunction that would compel United States Marshal W. Bruce Matthews to serve a summons on the Royal Kingdom of Saudi Arabia in $110,000 damage suit.

Seeking the injunction was the Walton Rice Mill, Inc., of Stuttgart, Ark., which on March 24 filed the damage suit against the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

In the damage suit, the Arkansas company charged that Saudi Arabia, which has its legation at 2800-C Woodland dr. nw., was guilty of breach of contract and deceit.

The company said Saudi Arabia contracted to have 3000 tons of milled rice delivered at New Orleans. Further, the company contended, it now has on its hands 100,000 gunny sacks bearing the legend, "Royal Kingdom of Saudi Arabia."

The suit said also that Saudi Arabia gave the company a letter of credit covering payment, but later refused to make payment on it.

After the suit was filed, the United States marshal's office did serve John F. Coneybear, former commercial attache at the Saudi Arabian Legation, and the Betchtel International Corp., 1435 K st. nw., agents for Saudi Arabia in the deal.

Not satisfied, the Arkansas company wants service directly on an accredited diplomatic representative of Saudi Arabia.

Charles Ward, first assistant United States marshal, commented yesterday that the United States code forbids United States marshals to make service upon a foreign government or upon its embassies and legations in this country. . .

Speeder Fined Twice

Lieut. Frederic C. Fadermaier, 27, an Army officer stationed at Bolling Field, yesterday was fined $10 in Arlington County Court on a speeding charge—with an extra $10 tacked on for contempt of court.

Despite his plea of innocent to speeding at 55 to 60 miles an hour along Lee blvd. early yesterday, Fadtrmaier was found guilty and left the courtroom to pay his fine. But when he returned shortly afterward to accuse arresting Policemen T. Adams and Joseph Crissman of "lying" in their testimony, Judge Hugh Reid imposed the contempt fine.

Court Gets Cash in Shoes

Baltimore, March 31 (AP).—A Baltimore man tucked $3 in his shoe as a precaution against robbers, but it was the Central Police Court that profited by his prudence.

The robbers who took his pants—wallet and all—missed the $3 in the shoe.

But Magistrate James R. Cadden relieved him of $2.45 of it in the form of a disorderly conduct fine, after he was found on a city street corner minus the stolen pants.

Anyway, his foresight saved him 55 cents.

'Fast' Time for Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., March 31 (AP).—Norfolk will go on daylight saving time May 8. The shift was approved by city council yesterday.

USMC General Harrington Dead at 65

Harrington

From 1929 to 1934 he was inspector of target practice in the corps division of operations and training here. Later, from December, 1916, to July, 1941, he served in Washington as head of the examining board. He went to Quantico as school commandant in July, 1941.

A native of Annapolis, General Harrington was graduated from Yale University and worked for a New York newspaper before being commissioned a second lieutenant in 1909. His foreign service included tours in Cuba, the Philippines, Santo Domingo, Haiti and Nicaragua.

General Harrington had been fleet marine officer aboard the battleship California. In 1937 he commanded the Fifth Marine Regiment, and a year later became executive officer of the First Marine Brigade. Prior to returning to the District in 1939, he was chief of staff at Quantico.

He was president of the Permanent General Courts Martial Board at Camp Lejeune, N. C., following his duty at Quantico until December, 1944. He retired from active duty two months later.

Besides his wife, General Harrington is survived by a son, Samuel M. Harrington, jr., an employe of the Washington Star; a daughter, Miss Margaret Willard Harrington, a student at Annapolis High School, an a sister of Yonkers, N. Y.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Md. Tax Group Seeks Assessment Ruling Reversal

Annapolis, Md., March 31 (AP).—The State Tax Commission joined hands with Anne Arundel County Commissioners today in asking reversal of a court decision that Attorney General Hall Hammond said would "put in jeopardy" Maryland's property assessment machinery.

The county Commissioners took the case to the Court of Appeals.

Their attorney, Benjamin Michaelson, contened the conty board could decide itself whether to hold a hearing when one person protests the assessment of others' property.

Judge James Clark had ruled otherwise in the County Court. He upheld a petition by Justin G. Buch of Riviera Beach, president of the County Citizens Protective Association who sought a hearing on 47 different assessments.

Buch alleged they were "inequitable, unjust and undervalue."

In his brief, the atorney general concluded that "only the person whose property has been assesed may protest that assessment before the county commissioners."

7 Mi. of Roads Planned For Frederick County

Frederick, Md., March 31.—Seven miles of improved highway will be built in Frederick County this year, the Roads Board has announced. 1 Dead in 3-Car Crash

Richmond, Va., March 31 (AP).—Hugh Watson Haddon, 24, of Richmond was injured fatally last night in a three-car collision at a street intersection in Richmond's west end.

Injured in the accident and reported in satisfactory condition at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital today were Granville C. Brothers, jr., 20, of Richmond and James Travis Edwards, 27, of Smithfield.

Cream and Cheese Prices May Drop After Hearing

A hearing which may bring lower prices for cream and cottage cheese in this area has been set for April 9 by the Virginia Milk Commission.

The commission said the hearing was called at the request of the board of directors of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association. It will be held at the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria.

While the hearing technically concerns only prices in the Arlington-Alexandria milk market, that market is the only one under controls in this area and previously prices fixed for it have been followed throughout metropolitan Washington.

Bruce B. Derrick, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, said yesterday that the hearing will concern a "downward revision" of the cream and cheese prices. The association, he said, will later announce its reasons for the proposed changes, which will not affect fluid milk prices.

Sergt. Clarke Transferred to Robbery Squad

The transfer of Det. Sergt. Paul H. Clarke from the vice squad to the Detective Bureau's robbery squad, effective today, makes permanent the break-up of the well-known vice squad team of Clarke and Howard E. Ogle.

Before Ogle suffered a serious injury on June 3, 1947, the pair of detective sergeants had become famous for a series of incidents which included both the comic and the serious.

Also transferred from the vice squad is Robert D. Weaver, 33, a probationary detective who will report to the sex squad of the Detective Bureau today.

Clarke and Ogle broke up many a numbers game in their tour of duty together, which began in 1945. They often stayed at the places they raided after making their arrests, and took phone calls from would-be customers.

The LIQUOR STORY

PRESS LIQUORS Works for You

We work to keep liquor prices down. We know that it pays to save money for you. That is why we have adopted a store-wide policy of cutting prices to the limit.

There are stores where you can buy one particular bottle of liquor for less than cost. That bottle is a leader item, priced to attract you to the store. Once inside, however, you are urged to buy many other items you had not planned on. These are priced to make up the loss on the leader item.

WHY pay these higher prices. Shop PRESS LIQUORS extensive stock where every item is priced at CUT-RATE.

House and Embassy Tour Hostesses Are Honored

By Marie McNair

LADIES who have loaned their houses for the House and Embassy Tour on Saturday, April 10, were honor guests at a luncheon yesterday at the United Nations Club. Hostesses were Mrs. Robert Taft, who will have charge of those who will pour tea at Mrs. George Mesta's home; Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson, chairman of the benefit committee; Mrs. George Maurice Morris, benefit treasurer, and Mrs. James L. Houghteling, president of the board of managers of the Washington Home for Incurables to which proceeds of the tour will go.

Mme. Dendramis, wife of the Greek Ambassador, who will open the embassy for tour day, and Mme. Ramos, wife of the Minister-Counselor of the Philippine Embassy, and hostess at the embassy, were among the half dozen guests of honor. Mrs. George Mesta, who will serve tea at her home, was there, and Mrs. Albert H. Ely and Mrs. Harold Walker, whose houses are across the street from each other on Massachusetts ave. are also on the tour list. Absentee honor guests were Mme. Eriksson, wife of the Swedish Ambassador; Mrs. Max Truitt, Mme. Ralea, wife of the Romanian Minister, and Mrs. George Hewitt Meyers. But they've promised to show their houses.

Mrs. Wade Haislip, who'll be in charge of Mrs. Mesta's house, brought news fresh from Fort Myer, that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower are jubilant over the birth of their first grandchild—a boy born yesterday to Capt. and Mrs. John Eisenhower in New York.

Others there were Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Lister Hill, Mrs. David B. Karrick, Mrs. Oliver McKee, jr., Mrs. Conger Pratt, Mrs. R. Gilpin Ervin, subbing for Mrs. Carl Spaatz; Mrs. Paul Nitze, all chairman of houses.

Mrs. Emerson Bigelow wearing a hat wreathed with purple lilacs, was there as a member of the benefit committee and also a member of the board of the home. Other board members were Mrs. Angus Dun, in a gray frock and hat; Mrs. Henry T. Bodman, Mrs. Edward R. Finkenstaedt, Mrs. Reeve Hoover, Mrs. Eric Johnston, Mrs. Robert E. May, Mrs. Richard McDonnell, Mrs. Garrison Norton, wearing a fascinating hat of natural straw with tiny pine cones framing her face; Mrs. Theodore S. Wilkinson with a gay scarlet jacket over her shoulders, hurrying back to her job with the Red Cross; Mrs. Gordon Young and Mrs. Quinn Shaughnessy.

Gives Luncheon

THE AMBASSADOR of Australia, Norman J. O. Makin, entertained at a luncheon at the embassy yesterday for a company of 10. Later in the day, the Ambassador was honored at a surprise tea, given for him on the occasion of his birthday by members of the Australian community.

The Ambassador's guests at luncheon were the Ambassador of Turkey. Huseyin Ragip Baydur; the British Ambassador, Lord Inverchapel; the Bolivian Ambassador, Ricardo Martinez Vargas; the Ambassador of India, Asaf Ali; the Ambassador of Ecuador, Augusto Dillon; the Ambassador of Peru, Alfredo Ferreyros; the Minister of Iceland, Thor Thors; the Minister of Austria, Dr. Ludwig Kleinwaechter; the Australian Minister, Alfred Stirling.

The Scrivening Pringles Work Best in Relays

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

AN ENTERTAINING article about Georgetown appeared a few issues back in the Saturday Evening Post. Joint effort of the Henry Pringles, who own a revamped Victorian manse on N st., the story grew from irrelevant facts amassed poking about the Capital's most picturesque "quartier."

The Pringles, free lancers who write as a team, are working currently on a piece about New York's oldest theater, the Empire. They have evolved a practical production system. Both do research. Henry Pringle writes a rough, usually too long draft; then his wife takes a crack at it; after rewriting, Mrs. P. does the tiresome final checking.

Besides magazine articles, for three years they've been working on a book about World War II. The book is not a military history but rather an effort to get behind the press agentry which slanted news for home consumption.

Pringle is an experienced journalist, was on the old New York World, then wrote a number of biographies, including a meticulously documented life of President Theodore Roosevelt which earned him a Pulitzer Prize. He came to Washington for the Office of Facts and Figures, which evolved into the OWI. Katharine Pringle is a California gal. Henry's first wife, also a writer, was Helena Huntington Smith.

No Strings On Him

THE DEMOCRATS' struggle to lasso a compelling candidate for Vice President continues. Evidently bon mots are popping like cherry buds in not-so-secret party pow-wows. Latest is the remark made by a prominent public servant as he turned down vice presidential possibilities. "Why should I," he drawled, "play second fiddle to a second fiddle?"

D. C. "Recognizes" Latins

IN OUR CONCERN over Europe we have almost forgotten our South American pals. But Pan American Week is just around the corner and the Washington Board of Trade is going to start it off right with a very gala dinner at the Mayflower April 13.

Back in 1890 the first conference of American states met in Washington. Since 1931, either by presidential or congressional proclamation, a week has been set aside for Pan American celebration. Though New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, New Orleans and many smaller cities have given official celebrations, this is the first time Washington has come up to scratch.

The dinner not only will honor the fifty-eighth anniversary of our hemispheric get-together, but also the ninth International Conference of American States which is in session at Bogota. At Bogota statesmen of all American republics are working on a vital job—dovetailing all former inter-American agreements to make a basic charter. Then the Pan American Union will be a regional organization with the United Nations framework.

Headquarters of the Pan American Union is in Washington and its director, who holds the rank of ambassador, is 41-year-old Colombian Dr. Alberto Lleras, a journalist, who founded Bogota's most distinguished newspaper, a magazine similar to Time, and who a few years ago was his country's President. Dr. Lleras is in Bogota, but Senora Lleras and every Latin-American diplomat in Washington will be guests at the Board of Trade dinner.

Hal Roach Is Honored at Cocktail Party

ON A VISIT from Culver City, Hal Roach was guest of honor yesterday at a cocktail party given by Miss Meredith Howard at her apartment in Georgetown. During the war Mr. Roach lived in Washington, serving as colonel in the United States Signal Corps Film Sector and later in the photographic division of the Air Corps.

Among the 50 or more guests at the party yesterday were Dr. and Mrs. Walter Boyd, Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer, and Mrs. Harold Walker.

The Washington Post

THE audience, including Margaret Truman, at left, smiled approval when Margret Thors, daughter of the Icelandic Minister and Mme. Thors, walked down the runway at yesterday's fashion show. Miss Thors modeled a cinnamon shantung suit, designed with dolman sleeves and intricately pleated jacket. Her hat was a froth of veiling

Show Stars Exotic Chinese Fashions

By Peggy Preston

EXOTIC fabrics from the Far East . . . lovely models from Washington officialdom . . . the daughter of the President in the audience . . . and a program of songs by the long famous Anna Case, one time Metropolitan Opera star.

That was yesterday's star-spangled fashion show in the ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. Staged for the benefit of the student fund of the Institute of Chinese Culture, it attracted a throng of distinguished feminine guests. The show itself was a novel one, presenting a collection of gowns by Mme. Irene de Sancy, formerly of Shanghai, now of New York.

Mme. Case, in private life Mrs. Clarence Mackay, came from New York to make one of her rare public appearances since her retirement from the opera and concert stage several years ago. After her performance she stepped down from the stage to view the show alongside Miss Margaret Truman and Mme. Koo, wife of the Chinese Ambassador.

The three made a fashion picture in their own rights. Miss Truman, looking the part of an especially pretty typical American girl, wore a simple black and gray-white ballerina suit and fur scarf. Her hat was a small natural straw bonnet, trimmed with a broad bow of green velvet ribbon. Tiny and slim, Mme. Koo wore one of her famous straight-cut frocks.

ANNA CASE was in a black afternoon frock, with lace bodice and cap sleeves. She was hatless and wore her dark brown hair parted simply in the middle and drawn back in a large loop at the nape of the neck. But she made fashion news with her jewels, emeralds and diamonds matched in bracelets, pin and rings.

Fashion-wise, the show was a blend of East and West. For the costumes which Mme. de Sancy showed were a beautiful blend of Asiatic and European influence and design. Almost all the fabrics were from China. There were exquisite, rustling pure silks and richly colored Suchow brocades; glistening silk gauzes, handpainted chiffons and heavy "tribute" satins.

In some instances the designer molded these into traditional Western styles, fashioning dinner and evening gowns with billowing boufant skirts, tiny bodices. But more often she chose to remain loyal to the Eastern mode—wonderfully slim skirt, intricately draped; jackets with dolman sleeves and mandarin collars.

COMMENTATOR for the show was Miss Drucie Snyder, daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Snyder. Her outfit, from the de Sancy collection, was a slim black dinner frock, worn with a brocade mandarin jacket cut on the lines of the "cocoon" silhouette which Balmain made famous in Paris.

Modeling the costumes were Nora Martins, daughter of the Brazilian Ambassador and Mme. Martins; Miss Margaret Thors, daughter of the Icelandic Minister and Mme. Thors; Miss Romona North, daughter of the Assistant Postmaster General and Mrs. North; Mrs. Nathaniel H. Lastrell, Mrs. Robert E. Freer, Mme. Jean-Pierre Gabriel, Miss Betty Jeanne Harrell, Mrs. Paul V. Myron, wife of the Special Assistant to the Attorney General, and Miss Mamie Li, daughter of K. C. Li of Shanghai.

Among those noted in the audience were Signora Tarchiani, wife of the Italian Ambassador; Senora de Dillon, wife of the Ambassador of Ecuador; Mme. Benard, wife of the First Secretary of the French Embassy; Mrs. George Mesta, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Mrs. Stanley Hornbeck, Mrs. Martin Vogel, Mrs. Richard Cowles, Mrs. Mitchell Gould and Mrs. Francis Perkins.

Untidy Man Who Expects His Wife to Be His Valet, Sparks Domestic Explosion by Telling Her to Clean His Shoes; She Sharply Refused

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: To what extent should a wife perform menial services for her husband? We have two children, one an infant, and cannot afford hired help.

Even though I find most phases of housework monotonous and tiresome, I am perfectly willing to keep the house clean and comfortable and provide appetizing meals for my family; and I never balk at the endless chores of child care.

It is my husband's careless lack of consideration that irritates me to distraction. Why must I hang up the clothes he leaves lying around, keep his neckties hung in place, put his shoes and socks in the closet, sort his clean garments from the soiled ones, and see that his dirty suits go to the cleaners?

Wife Finds Her Role Degrading

HE CAME home recently with muddy shoes and asked me to clean them, "when you have time." That was the last straw. I told him I'd never have time for such a task and that he could clean them himself or hire a valet. He took the attitude that I was remiss in my wifely duties and there were more sharp words.

Before we married I had a very good secretarial job. I contributed generously to my parents' support, but never did I ask my mother—or anyone else—to give me such personal service. In spite of a busy schedule, I kept my wardrobe in good order; and my husband isn't as busy as I was then, or am now.

After an interesting office career, it has been hard for me to adjust to a domestic routine, but on the whole I have done a good job. Yet when it comes to performing these menial personal tasks for another adult, I feel only resentment and a sense of degradation. Is my attitude wrong? Should I regard these tasks as a "labor of love"? If not, what can be done about it? E. G.

Man Is Asking Much Too Much

DEAR E. G.: A good wife will perform menial tasks for her husband to the extent that these are necessary, as for instance when he is ill or if he is a helpless cripple, deprived of normal use of his limbs,—which conditions do not apply to your situation.

Moreover, when the special need for such services exist, the wife may render it faithfully from a sense of duty only; or she may put her heart in the performance, gladly showing a cherishing spirit of voluntary consideration—such as animates your tireless devotion to child-care,—in which case it becomes a labor of love.

In brief, any good wife will thoughtfully discharge her ethical obligations to a spouse-in-need, but there is no such thing as a compulsory labor of love—a patently self-contradictory term—inasmuch as love serves of its own volition.

In the circumstances described, with two babies and the whole load of housework to take up your time, and your husband a healthy able-bodied man, obviously you have no obligations, ethical or otherwise, to wait on him hand-and-foot as if he were still in the toilet-training stage, much less feign tolerance of his tacit and vocal selfishness as outlined.

Man's Disposed To Exploit Love

ACTUALLY, his irresponsible attitude toward his garments, and bland assumption that it is your duty to keep him tidied up, is the psychology of a 2-year-old; and in all probability he had a mother whose pleasure it was to keep him infantile in this respect and many others also.

Perhaps you too, in the first phase of marriage, lightly perpetuated the spoiling process, because not yet aware of the damaging implications of his exploitative trend, which does not signify lack of respect for the person "used"—hence justifies your resentful feeling of being degraded in subscribing to it.

The explosion about his muddy shoes, your fret about his untidiness, are merely symptomatic of this resentment, which is souring your love to active dislike, a change he senses and likewise resents. So, for advice, a shift toward maturity on his part is necessary to restore good feeling; and the most you can do to bring it about is to be sturdily outspoken and self confident in defining justice, instead of seething inwardly about his childishness. State Societies Will Give Ball

A joint State Societies' charity ball for the benefit of Children's Hospital will be held, Saturday April 3, 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. in the Shoreham Hotel. Included in the entertainment will be a gala fashion show.

Practically all the State Societies have united for this affair. Tickets may be obtained from the officers of the various societies as only a limited number will be available on the night of the affair.

The committee on arrangements consists of Senator Homer E. Capehart, chairman, Representatives J. Caleb Boggs, Joe L. Evins, Henry D. Larcade, Errett P. Scrivner, and Henry O. Talle, and Harold B. Barnett, chairman of the conference of State Society Officers, under whose auspices the ball is being held.

City Club to Hear Miss Widdemer

Miss Margaret Widdemer, noted poet and novelist, will be guest speaker at the Women's City Club tea Wednesday, April 7, at the clubhouse.

Miss Widdemer, whose latest book, "Lani," is a historicagl account of missionaries in Hawaii and the New Hebrides, will be a special guest earlier that day at The Washington Post Book and Author Luncheon at the Statler Hotel.

How to Remove Messy Paint Spots

Some of my kitchen chairs, which are covered with red and blue leatherette, got spattered with artist's oil paint. Turpentine has not done a satisfactory job in cleaning up the spots. Is there any way to remove the paint spots completely and relubricate the leatherette? H. F.

Practically anything that you could use to take these spots out would also remove the color from the leatherette. However, you could cover up the spots and renew the leatherette by applying a plastic solution made especially for use on this material. It comes in various colors. For further information call District 1130.

I have noticed several dining room tables in the stores that have a very glossy finish. The salesmen say that no pads are needed for these tables, as the finish is guaranteed against heat, stain, etc. I have a mahogany table of my own, but do not know what the preparation is for glossing it myself. Could you give me the names of the ingredients and where to buy them? E. L.

A home method of obtaining a heat and stain resistant finish is to apply phenolic resin varnish. For best results, all of the old finish should be removed by sanding before the varnish is applied. The new tables on the market which are sold as heat and stain resistant are finished with lacquer, sprayed on, permitting a much higher gloss than can be obtained by varnish applied with a brush.

Is there any expert cabinet-maker in this vicinity (or any of the suburban vicinities) that does nothing but make custom-made furniture? I am very interested in having several pieces of furniture made because I have very definite ideas of my own about furniture styles and have been unsuccessful in finding anything like I want around here. E. L.

We do not recommend specific firm names in this column, but if you will look under "Cabinet Makers" in the yellow pages of the telephone directory you will find firms who do just the sort of job you wish done.

I am going to make a slip cover for a three-piece maple living room set and want to use drapes to contrast with the slip covers. Would a floral design for divan and one chair and stripe or solid for another chair and the drapes be suitable? Please give us any suggestions, as I am confused. Incidentally, the woodwork is ivory and the floors light throughout the house. L. L. T., Jr.

How much pattern you plan to use in your slip covers and drapes should be determined by (1) How much pattern is in wall and floor coverings and (3) how large your room is. If you have figured wallpaper and rugs, the slip cover material should be less patterned. (You might, for instance, use a small figure or stripe for one of the chairs and plain for the other two pieces.) This would be particularly true if the room is not large.

On the other hand, if your walls are painted and the rugs plain or without a conspicuous design, you might use a floral design for two of the pieces and a plain or a not-too-conspicuous stripe for the other chair. In this case the curtains would be plain, picking up one predominant color of both the stripe and floral piece. If you use a plain chair cover and plain draperies, use two of the contrasting colors which predominate in your floral slip cover pattern. Unless the room is very large, it is difficult to combine more than two patterns in slip covers and drapes and achieve a pleasing effect.

Just last week I painted the linoleum in our kitchen with two coats of good floor enamel, then used two coats of liquid wax. We find that already the paint has come off in small pieces from heels of shoes, etc. Now what can we do to make it wear better? Remove wax and apply a coat of shellac or varnish and then use paste wax? The floor linoleum has not been painted before. The paint color is brown walnut. D. H. W.

Your floor could be made more durable by either applying several coats of paste wax, or by removing the liquid wax and applying a coat of varnish. Shellac is not advised in a kitchen, for water which might be splashed on it will turn it white. If you apply paste wax, be sure the floor is thoroughly clean and apply each coat very thinly, allowing it to dry thoroughly and finish by buffing well. Several coats of wax at the first application, followed by waxing every few weeks, will soon build up a protective coat of wax.

If you wish to varnish the floor, remove all previous wax by washing with benzine or turpentine, allow it to dry thoroughly and apply the varnish.

We glued some felt to a lamp base a few days ago, using white felt and cement. When it seemed dry, we stood the lamp on an end table of solid mahogany with mahogany veneer. The next day we found the lamp glued to the table, the cement having seeped through the felt. We pried the two apart as gently as possible, but a single thin layer of the felt remained glued to the table. Is there any way to remove this felt without destroying the finish of the veneer? M. H.

I'm sorry, there seems to be no way to remove the felt and cement without also removing the finish on the table top. Refinishing would then be necessary. If this piece is a cherished one, I would suggest you turn the job over to a professional furniture restorer and refinisher.

Virginia's Champion Chefs Share Recipes

By Lucia Brown

YOU DON'T have to be a native of the Old Dominion—or even of the United States—to be a champ at cooking Virginia food.

For, while a number of prize-winners in the Virginia Chef's Tournament in Fredericksburg this week were born and bred in Dixie, top honors also went to a man who first saw the light of day in Bavaria, two brothers of French descent and traditions, and a couple of guys from Jersey.

The French brothers are Francis and Victor Chevalier, a young and handsome duo whose father and grandfather were also chefs. Francis is with the Murphy Hotel and Victor with the William Byrd, both in Richmond.

Born and reared in upper New York State, the Chevaliers nevertheless talk like French chefs. Thickening is a "roux" and vegetables are "julienned" or "brunoised", but they certainly know their onions when it come to Southern cookery!

Victor, for instance, copped first prize in the tournament for his "Cream of Southside Virginia Peanut Soup." It's a smooth, nut-flavored concoction made, in case you'd like to try it, as follows:

VIRGINIA PEANUT SOUP

2 carrots.
2 outside sticks of celery.
4 tablespoons ham or bacon fat.
3 tablespoons flour.
1 quart hot milk or cream.
Bay and oregano leaves.
Salt to taste.

Saute the chopped and diced vegetables in the fat with a few leaves of bay and oregano (a tropical herb sometimes sold at curb markets). When vegetables are tender, add the flour, then the hot milk slowly. Put soup through a strainer, then add contents of one 12-ounce jar peanut butter to the milk mixture. Melt the peanut butter thoroughly. Salt to taste and serve hot.

BROILED SHAD ROE

One of Francis Chevalier's specialties in the tournament was broiled shad roe. He doesn't blanch the roe, as some cooks do, but simply peels the tissue from between the two sections and lays them side by side in a pan. A strip of bacon is laid down the center and lemon juice squeezed over it. Salt, pepper, and a little crushed bay leaf are sprinkled over the top. He then cooks the shad roe in a medium oven for 15 or 20 minutes, running it under the broiler only for browning.

He serves it garnished with additional cooked bacon, sliced lemon and parsley.

CANDIED YAMS

Among native Virginians in the competition was Wiley Trent, chef at the Stratford Hotel, in Fredericksburg, who carried off top honors for fruit cake, corn sticks and corn cakes, and whipped up a luscious batch of candied yams besides.

After peeling the yams (and the small ones are best for candying, he says) he dropped them in water with lemon juice added to keep them from darkening. Then he made a sirup of the following:

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
1 cup water
1 tablespoon butter
Few drops lemon juice

After bringing the sirup to a boil, he placed the potatoes one layer deep in a large pan. The sirup was poured over and around them. The potatoes were baked in the oven about 45 minutes, with frequent bastings with the sirup.

FRANK BECHTOLD, chef to the Kings of Bavaria and Wittenberg before the First World War, carried off an impressive array of awards at the tournament. He is now chef at the John Marshall Hotel in Richmond, having come to this country in 1923. Most of his awards were for his delicious breads and pies. One of the latter was created especially for the occasion—Mount Vernon Pie—and featured a gelatin filling containing crushed pineapple and red cherries.

His Virginia spoon or batter-bread was one of the first dishes to greet judges and guests at the tournament, being served for breakfast Monday morning. Here is the recipe, cut down to family size:

SPOON BREAD

4 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
4 tablespoons butter
1½ cups waterground cornmeal

Heat milk in double boiler. Add cornmeal, salt and flour and cook a few minutes to a mush. Melt butter in mixture. Add beaten egg yolks a little at a time. Add baking powder, and fold in beaten egg whites. Pour in greased baking dish, set in pan of water and bake in oven at around 400 degrees until set. (45 minutes to 1 hour.)

Incidentally, several additional winners—for Tuesday night dinner dishes at the tournament—were announced following the list of prize winners named Tuesday afternoon.

These included John Tyler of the Jefferson Hotel, Richmond, co-winner on fried chicken, winner on gravy and corn fritters; Frank Bechtold, first for Sally Lunn, co-winner for apple pie; C. W. Beard, winner for apple pie; C. W. Beard and Woodrow Lee, of the Beverly, Staunton, co-winner on fried chicken and apple pie.

Chef Lee's pie, incidentally, was unusual in that it brought the cheese to the table inside the pie, instead of beside it. Tender morsels of melted, snappy cheese mingled with mellow cooked apples in a pie that might even have made General Grant pause on the road to Appomatox.

Mrs. Harriman to Open Home For Tour Through Georgetown

Since selling Uplands, her house high on the hill on Foxhall rd., Mrs. J. Borden Harriman is now in residence in Georgetown, 3130 P st., in a house built about a century ago.

Next Saturday, April 3, the second day of the annual tour of Georgetown houses, Mrs. Harriman is opening her new home to the public. The first thing to greet visitors will be the handsome door-knocker which came from her great-great-grandparents' home in Bermuda. As they go into the house they will see a pair of old lamps in the entrance hall which were used in the White House during the Lincoln Administration.

Through the years Mrs. Harriman has kept her family heirlooms, added other beautiful things, so that her house is a treasure no "pilgrim" will want to miss. In her drawing room are three gold armchairs and matching sofa, Louis XV, which she acquired in France years ago. A pair of Louis XVI chairs with their original needlepoint, signed; an eighteenth century Italian cabinet; fine Norwegian mirror which she brought back from Norway when she was United States Minister there; a Bermuda hope chest which belonged to her mother; fine paintings and prints fill the spacious rooms.

In the dining room there is a handsome silver pitcher presented to Mrs. Harriman by members of the Colony Club in New York. She was founder and first president of the club.

Nine other houses, each interesting as representing a period, unusual architecture or a story, will be open on Saturday from 2 to 6 p. m. Ten houses are to be shown on Friday, April 2, the first tour day. Tea is to be served in the parish hall of St. John's Episcopal Church, Georgetown Parish, on both days from 3 to 5 p. m.

Tickets for the tour may be purchased at headquarters, the Francis Scott Key Bookshop at 28th and O sts.; the Willard and Statler Hotels, the AAA until noon on Saturday, and at other community shops in Georgetown.

Press Women To Give Skits At Dinner Party

Distinguished guests from all over the country will be in Washington Saturday, April 3, to attend the annual dinner given by the Women's National Press Club honoring the President and Mrs. Truman. The dinner is being held at 7:30 p. m. in the Presidential Room of the Statler Hotel.

Miss Ruth Cowen, president of the Women's National Press Club, will preside and members of the board and other distinguished guests will be seated at the head table with the President and Mrs. Truman and Miss Margaret Truman.

Political skits have been written by members of the club and will be enacted by members as a highlight of the evening's entertainment.

The theme of the "stunts" will not be revealed until the evening of the party. Bess Davis Schreiner is producer and director of the "stunts" and Kathleen Scofield Louchheim is chairman of the script committee. A great many of the distinguished guests present will find themselves depicted in the show.

The annual achievement awards will be given out at this dinner. Winners this year are: Ingrid Bergman, star of "Arch of Triumph, for theater; Dr. Dorothy F. Brady of Washington, D. C., for economics; Dr. Gerty T. Cori, professor at Washington University in St. Louis, for science; Helen Rogers Reid, president of the New York Herald Tribune, for public service; Representative Margaret Chase Smith, from Maine, for politics; Jeann Stafford, author of "Boston Adventure," and other books, for literature; Dr. Laura Zirbes, founder and director of Walhalla House, Columbus, Ohio, for education.

For the first time the Women's National Press Club is giving an international award for achievement in journalism. Rebecca West, brilliant British novelist and reporter, is the first person to receive this award. She is coming from Great Britain especially to receive it. All award winners will be present at the dinner and the President will make the awards.

Twists and Turns Will Pare Those Bulky Pounds From Waistline

By Ida Jean Kain

BINGLE, BANGLE—I bungled the midriff slimming. It's all the fault of the New Look. With waistlines down to a whisper, I hewed to that line and kept the twists and turns at dead center. With precision exercises we pared five bulky inches off Barbara Anne's 31-inch waistline. But alas, the overall effect was far from willowy. So we had to get off the beaten track and exercise as the crow flies.

Well, that's the beauty of having a model to follow . . . we'll improve on her exercises as we swing merrily along. To slim the entire midriff, the action must be on the flexibility of lateral muscles which extend from the armpits to the hipbones and mesh sawtooth fashion with the muscles which curve around the side front of the figure, just south of the waist border. Turn on a lilting tune and let yourself go . . .

Position: Standing, feet wide apart, arms arched overhead.

Movement: Sway over to the right, and as you sway let the right knee bend—sway away over, but keep your chin up. Now sway the trunk over to the other side, this time bending the left knee. As you sway to each side, one foot can come almost off the floor to increase the bend. It's the most suppling exercise ever! Be sure to keep the stomach muscles tightened as you sway sideward and bend alternate knees.

Movement: Bend smoothly toward the right, pulling the left hand around to increase the stretch-bend. Back to position, and rhythmically bend, again taking a hand in the pull. Three times, then repeat, bending to the left.

Position: Standing, feet apart, arms arched overhead.

Movement: Twist at the waist, but only a quarter of the way around, hold the twist, and bend to the side back, smoothly. Then, still holding the quarter twist, bend forward at that angle. That pulls out fore-and-aft bulges! Relax, do a quarter twist at the waist in the opposite direction and bend to the side back, then follow through with a forward bend at that angle.

200 'Cavalcade of Conservation' Volunteers Set Va. Farm Ahead 5 Years in 1 Day's Work

South Hill, Va., March 31 (AP).—Mrs. Annie M. Poythress looked out upon her 1953 model farm tonight.

About 200 volunteer today did a five-year modernization job in a single dawn-to-dusk operation for the "Cavalcade of Conservation."

The sun rose over 105 drab acres of Mecklenburg County's red soil, and set on one of the most modern farms in the State. It had been plowed, terraced, limed, fertilized and sown according to strict standards of agricultural science. Twenty acres of permanent pasture had been fenced. A pond of an acre waited for water and fish.

A painter topped off the operation by spraying the last few feet of the pointed roof on the freshly painted farm house with fleet reflecting aluminum paint. A sizable lawn area around the comfortable white house already had been landscaped and dozens of shrubs put in.

Mrs. Poythress, a widow of 57, said she felt almost like the woman who had hit one of those fabulous radio contest jack pots. She had never before seen the like of the show they put on at her place today.

A crowd of 5000 swarmed over her land down here 14 miles from the North Carolina line to see the State's biggest single agricultural production.

Thirty or more pieces of farm machinery—tractors, fertilizer spreaders, post-hole diggers, earth moving machinery—started at 6 a. m. and droned on through the day doing the work that an on-the-job-training vterans group voted should be done on the Poythress place.

With the exception of a fraction of the material that the Poythresses purchased—one of Mrs. Poythress's nine children, F. A., jr., operates the farm—all equipment, labor, seed fertilizer and other materials were donated.

During the day, the land received 120 tons of lime, 20 tons of fertilizer and 1000 pounds of grass and legume seed. Twenty rolls of wire and 500 cedar fence posts were used for the 22 acres of pasture land. More than a mile of terracing was built.

SCC Decides It Lacks Power To Probe Papers

Richmond, Va., March 31 (AP).—The State Corporation Commission today decided it is without authority to conduct an investigation of Richmond Newspapers, Inc., as directed in a resolution of the House of delegates.

The commission in a letter to Governor Tuck and the clerks of the House and Senate dated March 31, said the investigation contemplated is not within the orbit of the general jurisdiction of the commission which, therefore, would have to consider that it was constituted by a committee by the House for the purpose of making the investigation.

The resolution for investigation of Richmond Newspapers, Inc., was offered by Delegate Samuel Swanson of Pittsylvania, after the Richmond papers, the Times-Dispatch and the News Leader, had viborously criticized actions of the legislature, including an action of the House in voting its members an extra $300 per member expense allowance. It was adopted on the closing dawy of the regular session, March 13.

Berrey Has Served Bank At Luray for 48 Years

Luray, Va., March 31.—Thursday will round out 48 years for Emmett C. Berrey, president of the Page Valley National Bank, in years of service with the institution. Starting his employment as a clerk on the turn of the century, he has progressed through position of teller, assistant cashier, cashier, and now president.

Berrey is also a member of the board of directors of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, and vice president of the Virginia Skyline Co.

The Page Valley Bank was organized in 1893.

Family of 6 Loses All In Luray House Fire

Luray, Va., March 31.—Fire yesterday destroyed the house of Mrs. Sadie Frye, of Philadelphia, which was occupied by her son, Maceo Frye and his family.

Neighbors turned in the alarm. The family of six lost all belongings. They were given shelter by Vass Tutt, father of Mrs. Sadie Frye.

Road Problem Stressed in Md.

Marylanders feel that the greatest single problem today in the State is the condition of traffic and roads, it was shown in a poll conducted by 200 high school youths, the results of which were release yesterday.

The polltakers were "boy legislators" who had been selected to participate in the Y. M. C. A. model legislature to be held in Annapolis April 22-24.

The opinions of 1545 Marylanders were tabulated. The poll showed 56 per cent opposed to the State sales tax; 70 per cent in favor of one year's compulsory military training; 48 per cent believed Marlyan dshould pass a fair employment practices act, with 41 per cent opposed and 11 per cent expressing no opinion; repeal of certain "Jim Crow" practices in the State was opposed by 49 per cent and favored by 39 per cent.

State Institution Asked for Young Md. Delinquents

Towson, Md., March 31 (AP).—Construction of a State institution to care for mentally defective juvenile delinquents was recommended in the report of the retiring Baltimore County grand jury.

The jurymen also suggested that the State set up mental hygient clinics.

They called treatment of defective delinquents the "one overshadowing need" on the State.

Other suggestions were that teachers in the elementary schools be trained to be on the lookout for traces of mental abnormality in children, and that authority be given to require social, medical and psychiatric diagnosis of defective delinquents.

Teacher Guilty Of Sex Offense By Hypnotism

Martinez, Calif., March 21 (AP).—A Sunday school teacher was convicted today of a felony charge that he hypnotized a 16-year-old girl member of his class and then committed an unnatural sex act.

The jury required only 20 minutes to convict Donald E. Hickock, 38, a paroled former-convict, of committing the crime in his physiotherapy office at Richmond nearly three years ago.

A widely known psychiatrist, Dr. James Catton of San Francisco, testified for the State that hypnotism could be used to induce a person to commit immoral and even criminal acts.

Hickock's attorney, Albert King, argued that the act merely was attempted, not consummated.

Md. Ruling Bars Judgeship Race

Ellicott City, Md., March 31 (AP).—Circuit Court Judge James Clark ruled today that Anne Arundel County's new judge in the Fifth Judicial Circuit need not stand for election in this year's voting.

The decision permits Marvin I. Anderson, former Anne Arundel County State's attorney, to retain his position on the bench at least until the 1950 elections, when his name is scheduled to be on the ballot for approval or rejection by the voters.

Attorney General Hall Hammond ruled that an election was not necessary at this time and filed a demurrer to Hillman's mandamus petition. Today's hearing was in Howard County circuit court.

Court Refuses to Rule On Pier Construction

Annapolis, Md., March 31 (AP).—Baltimore or Annapolis municipal authorities must "act arbitrarily or otherwise abuse their power" before the Court of Appeals will rule on applications for pier construction, the court declared today.

In an opinion by Judge C. Gus Grason, a suit by Peter A. Feudale of Eastport seeking protection to his waterfront rights in Spa Creek was dismissed. The creek runs between Annapolis and Eastport and is within the territorial jurisdiction of Annapolis.

An Anne Arundel County Court decree would have required Edgar J. Petrini to tear down part of a wharf he had built next to Feudale's property.

National VFW Chief to Speak at Baltimore Dinner

Ray H. Brannaman, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will speak before 700 VFW members and friends at a dinner and dance honoring him at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore, at 7 p. m., Friday, following ceremonies throughout the day.

Other speakers announced yesterday by Maryland State Commander Charles B. Buscher of Silver Spring, Md., will be Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, and Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore.

Richmond Begins Gambling Probe

Richmond, Va., March 31 (AP).—Police Chief O. D. Garton assigned Capt. Jeter L. Williamson, jr., to investigate reports of wide-spread gambling in Richmond, and Captain Williamson said his first step would be to interview the editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Chief Garton appointed Captain Williamson to make the investigation after receiving a letter from Commonwealth's Attorney T. Grady Haddon in which Haddon suggested such an investigation be made.

Haddon enclosed the letter he had received from Governor Tuck in which the Governor suggested a grand jury investigation of the reported gambling here. The Governor's letter was the outgrowth of an editorial in the Times-Dispatch last Saturday, which said it is "common knowledge" that bets may be placed at several places here on horse races run over Northern and Eastern tracks.

Williamson attempted to contact Virginius Dabney, Tmes-Dispatch editor, today, but was unable to reach him. Williamson said he would try to reach Dabney again tomorrow.

Farley Sees Threat Of War Over U. S.

Baltimore, March 31 (AP).—James A. Farley said last night that "the bloody specter of war hangs over our lives, a war far more devastating than the awful conflict just ended."

The former Postmaster General said the "haunting specter is hanging over us because one nation has launched a program of imperialistic expansion, no less horrible, if more successful, than that of the conquered Nazis.

"Totalitarianism is no less infamous in a red shirt than a brown shirt."

He spoke at the annual banquet of the Loyola College Alumni Association here.

Firm Answers Union

Covington, Va., March 31 (AP).—The West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co., today again expressed its willingness to meet with union representatives to explore "the general question of the reasons for and against a present increase."

It warned, however, that "if the union insists on a decision at this time, the decision has to be 'no.'"

For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juices when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh, fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Is Agriculture Working On a Secret Project?

"A small, portly gentleman preceded me out of the Agriculture Building, and boarded the same trolley I did," writes Jack Purcell of 4409 S. Four Mile Run dr., Arlington, Va.

"I noticed that he was carrying a bundle, and that four turkey legs were sticking out of it.

"There was such a furtive look about him that I never did summon up enough courage to inquire whether he was carrying two turkeys or the product of some monumental research project at the Department of Agriculture."

RIDDLE REVISITED

On Monday I printed a letter from Mrs. John Maury of 521 South Lee st., Alexandria, Va. Mrs. Maury suggested that the answer to the Raleigh Riddle might be "Indian Pipe."

That item has brought the following communications:

From Mrs. Grace Bolton of 8312 Carey lane, Silver Spring, Md.: "I hate to disappoint you, but 'Indian Pipe' was guessed the first week, and the announcer said it was wrong."

From Mrs. J. M. V. of Riverdale, Md.: "You've spoiled my dream of being the only one to think of 'Indian Pipe.' I wonder how many others thought of it?"

From Lilliam B. Harmon of 1228 I st. nw.; "'Indian Pipe' has been guessed, and it's wrong."

From Bernice M. Willey of Lanham, Md.: "'Indian Pipe' is wrong, but I know the right answer. It's as plain as the nose on your face. Just look in the mirror and you'll find out what it is." (I looked in the mirror and all I learned was that I need a shave.)

From E. V. Pierce of 2002 4th st. ne.: "I think the correct answer is Huey Long. There was never a man who more deserved the title of Big Chief Wind Bag, and he's buried at New Orleans where, because of the low ground, people are buried one above the other."

From Mrs. Pearl Jones of Bluemont, Va.: "Could it be a jack-o-lantern?" From Bobby Jones, jr.: "I think it's a skunk cabbage."

From Ida Jean Kain of King Features Syndicate: 'It seems to me that 'groundhog' would be a good answer. Don't you think so?" (Maybe. But if your groundhog ever tries to follow those diets of yours, he's going to be a mighty skimpy groundhog I'll betcha.)

From Bill Gold of 99 Booby Hatch lane: "What do you say we change the subject now? The next item is much funnier."

ADD SIGNS

Harold M. Cotner of 1214 Savannah st. se., returns from New Brunswick, N. J., with a dandy sign item for our collection.

On a wooden gate, beside a private driveway, was a sign whose bold letters proclaimed:

PARK HERE

In tiny letters down below, Harold found the legend:

And pay $7.50 fine at Police Station.

BIG GIRL, ISN'T SHE?

ATTRACTIVE 3-acre farmerette with a 5-room cottage. $12,950 for complete sale.

We're sending Walter Haight out to interview the farmerette.

BY THE WAY—

Has anybody ever figured out the meaning of the "Notary Sojac" sign which appears in the Sunday comic strip Smokey Stover? If you know the answer, put me out of my misery.

MISCELLANY

A reader phoned Sports Editor Bus Ham the other day and said, "I see you fellows are going to hold another National Celebrities Golf Tournament this summer. I'd like to play in the tournament—how do I qualify?" Without blinking an eye, Bus replied, "All you have to do is become a National celebrity" . . . Frieda G. Boyce of 2151 California st. nw. tells me that Washington's cocker spaniels are getting special beauty treatments these days, in preparation for the Capital City Cocker Club show on April 23. Frieda also informs me that I promised to participate in the show, but I hope it's not as a contestant. . . . When 3-year-old Ricky, daughter of Mrs. Bernice Heilbrun of 67 Forrester st. sw., saw a glass of club soda for the first time she exclaimed, "Look, Mommy, it's raining in the glass."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Beautiful big black dog, with personality plus. Half French retriever, loves everybody, 18 months old. We're moving today, must find a home for him." (Sligo 9578.)

"Maltese mother cat and four lovely kittens." (Oliver 7691.)

"Three female kittens, 2 weeks old." (Falls Church 0101.)

PIED TYPE DEPT.

A four-line local item in Monday's Washington Post stated that "Traffic lights were out of order for 80 hours yesterday . . ." Eagle-eyed District Liners picked it up in high glee.

"I've heard of time standing still," writes 14-year-old Dave Cohen of 1140 19th st. nw., "but in this case it appears to have sat down on the job."

Romie H. Kieke of 2727 Jasper st. se. and E. L. DeLoach of P. O. Box 1808 react the same way: "Some days are long and arduous, but isn't an 80-hour Easter Sunday carrying things a bit too far?"

The irrepressible Nate Leiderman of 6206 Georgia ave. nw. wisecracks: "So traffic lights were out for 80 hours, eh? There's a statement that carries a lot of wait!"

And Poet Em Tee dashes off a quick quatrain to sum things up:

O, give me a Sunday
Of eighty fair hours;
I'd go through blue Monday
As fresh as spring flowers.

NEW YORK.—When Dr. Miklos Rozsa, the composer, received an Academy Award for his scoring of "A Double Life," Ruth Gordon, who wrote the screen play with her husband, Garson Kanin, was pleased but surprised. "When I saw the picture," said Miss Gordon, "I was so busy listening to my writing that I had no time to pay attention to the pretty music" . . . Eddie Davis, the writer, vows that his convalescence in Arizona is so complete that "now, without assistance from anybody, I will stoop and lift up Milton Berle's old-gag-file with my bare hands" . . . Amy Vanderbilt, the press agent, last week proved how persuasive she can be when, during a recess in her law suit, she sold five tickets for a Parent-Teachers Association benefit to the lawyer who was cross-examining her.

When Adrian, the designer, gave a showing of his new models, he reminded the guests that one number was particularly fluffy. "Most of you will think it daringly unsuitable for you," he said. "I hope that you will consider it not as a necessary part of the wardrobe, but as a sheer Whim." . . . At a party in Hollywood June Havoc started to count the number of film directors in the room. "What are you doing?" Abe Burrows, the radio comic, asked her. Miss Havoc told him. "Counting directors?" said Burrows. "Why? Are you trying to sleep?"

A second-rate author announced that, like Noel Coward, he too writes songs, dances, sings, designs sets, costumes, etc. "Yes, you do many things," Oscar Levant told him, "but you're really never at your best at anything." . . . Anna Magnani, who won the critics' praises in "Open City," will receive screen-author's credit in her new starring film, "Angelina." . . . Michael Arlen was invited to sit at the table of a wealthy and powerful industrialist at the Stork Club. "That was snobbish of you," one of his friends told Arlen. "Sitting with him, because he's so successful." Arlen shook his head and said: "I sat with him because he's interesting and because he's my friend. I will not be put off from a man just because he's a success."

Britain Pledges Aid in War

By Drew Pearson

One all-important question debated by war chiefs during recent defense discussions was whether Britain would throw its weight with the USA in case of a Red Army sweep across Europe.

PEARSON

It is no secret that there has been strong sentiment in war-weary Britain for sitting out the next war. Five years of buzz-bombs and living in air-raid shelters has made a lot of Britishers feel that neutrality may be the best policy.

Incidentally this opinion is also widely held by many Frenchmen, Belgians, Dutch and other continentals.

The answer to this question was all-important to United States defense planners. They had to figure out in advance whether the United States would be able to have air bases near the European continent. With the Red Army probably sweeping to the English Channel in a few weeks in case of war, Britain and Spain would be the only potential bases usable by the United States.

However, definite word has now been given the United States by the British government that, if Russia attacks, Britain will fight. British bases will be available to American bombers.

More Wheat to Europe

The President's food cabinet committee is seriously considering a substantial increase in wheat allocations to Europe within the next three months, but the big question is: How to prevent greedy speculators from cashing in if prices climb as a result.

At a secret meeting last week, attended by representatives of the State, Agriculture and Commerce Departments, it was decided that the goal of 450,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour for Europe in the fiscal year ending June 30 not only can be achieved, but probably boosted to 500,000,000 or more. Of coarse grains (corn, rye, oats, etc.), together with 70,000,000 bushels this means the total European grain shipments before June 30 may exceed 570,000,000. This is 50,000,000 bushels more than the Agriculture Department tentatively estimated would be available in its February report.

Agriculture spokesmen cagily predicted during the meeting that the 1948 wheat crop might be the second largest in history, approximating 1,250,000,000 bushels. Last year's record crop was 1,365,000,000, while the greatest previous crop—1946—was 1,153,000,000 bushels.

One hitch in increasing European allocations is a stipulation in the interim aid act, passed during the special session of Congress last year, that the wheat carryover (for livestock feeding and emergency domestic use) shall not be less than 150,000,000 bushels when the current fiscal years ends June 30.

However, because of the expected bumper crop of winter and spring wheat, State and Commerce Department spokesmen argued that Congress could be persuaded to reduce the carryover. The carryover last year, when our corn crop was low and western European wheat production was negligible, was only 84,000,000 bushels. With crop prospects here and abroad much brighter this year, it was contended that the 150,000,000-bushel figure was ridiculously high.

MacArthur's Friends

The MacArthur campaign in Wisconsin has several interesting aspects. One is the tremendous amount of money being spent on his behalf. The other is the men behind him—including America Firster Phil La Follette and foxy Fred Zimmerman, both former Governors of Wisconsin.

Zimmerman, a former Dewey backer, has been on more political bandwagons than almost any other politician in Wisconsin—most of them losers. This time he is all-out to pick a winner.

One of foxy Fred's bandwagons was the America First Committee. Another was the Ku Klux Klan. According to a sworn affidavit by William F. Weiseman, king kleagle of the Wisconsin KKK, Zimmerman was an active klansman. According to the Milwaukee Journal, Zimmerman "became a member of the Milwaukee provisional Klan No. 1 in the summer of 1922 while he was a candidate for Secretary of State. He was initiated at the klan headquarters in the Alhambra Building."

After being elected Governor of Wisconsin in 1927, however, Zimmerman got into hot water over his klan membership when he fired a Catholic State employe, Alex Cobban, and had to testify regarding the dismissal before a civil service hearing. At the hearing Zimmerman refused to answer a question regarding his klan membership.

However, when court action was threatened to make him answer, Zimmerman, according to the Milwaukee Journal, met with John C. Kleist, a klan leader, and Charles B. Lewis, imperial representative, who gave him special dispensation to withdraw from the klan. He was then able to answer that he was not a member of the klan. Zimmerman is now one of MacArthur's chief campaigners.

Americans for Democratic Action, sometimes described as the "New Deal government in exile," will come out for Eisenhower April 10 in Pittsburgh . . . While Congress exposes strategic shipments to Russia one of the Marshall Plan countries—Belgium—has just concluded a juicy trade pact with Moscow . . . Veterans for Eisenhower now active in 24 States have opened new quarters at 3 Tenley Circle, Washington. They are trying to bombard Ike with three million draft cards.
